STOP! BRITAIN WARNS HITLER

TYDINGS BLASTS PURGE IN WORDS OF ROOSEVELT

Opposition to Vote Meddling Quoted.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Senator Millard E. Tydings of Maryland, the No. 1 target of President Roosevelt's attempted purge of the Democratic party, tonight recalled the words of four Presidents of the United States who condemned federal interference with state elections.

Rep. Lewis trying on hat in Washington shop yesterday.

One was John Tyler.

The fourth was Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

Quotes Roosevelt's Words.

In a radio address broadcast from Washington and from all Maryland stations, Senator Tydings quoted the language of Mr. Roosevelt just eight years ago, when Roosevelt was running for reëlection as governor of New York and when the Washington administration was accused of interfering in New York state affairs. Roosevelt's words follow:

"We in this state [New York], in every city, and on every farm, know the high impropriety of interference by the federal government in the purely local affairs of any state and we are fully conscious of the effective manner in which the people of this great state will at the polls show their resentment against such conduct.

"Before we look into the soundness of the instructions given to the people of this state by these representatives at Washington, we have a right to demand that they show their credentials."

Jefferson Counsels Removal.

President Roosevelt often has assumed the mantle of Thomas Jefferson in justification of his acts and policies. But Jefferson believed, according to Senator Tydings, that a President of the United States or any federal officer ought to be removed from office for interfering with elections.

Tydings quoted Jefferson as follows: "Influence with elections, whether of the state or general government, by officers of the national government should be deemed cause for removal."

President Washington, as quoted by Tydings, declared: "There has been the most scrupulous and pointed caution observed on my part not to express a sentiment respecting the fitness of any candidate that could be construed into an interference in favor of one or to the prejudice of another, conceiving that the exercise of an influence, however remote, would be improper."

Tyler Opposes Dictation.

The senator quoted President Tyler as saying: "The right to remove from office is inevitably destined to produce a spirit of crouching servility with the official corps, which, in order to uphold the hand which feeds them, would lead to direct and active interference in the elections, both state and federal, thereby subjecting the course of state legislation to the dictation of the chief executive officer and making the will of that officer absolute and supreme."

Representative David J. Lewis, the 100 per cent yes-man who was put in the race against Senator Tydings by President Roosevelt, obviously was alarmed by Tydings' summoning of Mr. Roosevelt as a witness in condemnation of federal interference in state affairs.

Senator Tydings has made the federal invasion the prime issue in the campaign, and loud have been the protests of Marylanders against what they call outside interference.

Eastern Shore Vehement.

Most vehement in their denunciation of this outside dictation are the residents of Maryland's eastern shore counties, which President Roosevelt invaded Sunday with a stump tour and a speech on Labor day in Lewis' behalf.

Lewis manifested his alarm when

Ex-Felon, Trusted Aid, Steals $61,234

TOSSES IT AWAY AS A GAY NIGHT CLUB SPENDER

Bank Ends Forgers' Second Big Haul.

Officials of the Wenzel company at 2505 South State street have been wondering for two years why their movie projector manufacturing business didn't earn more profits. They found out yesterday.

Bill Turckel.

The $20 a week bookkeeper they had befriended has been spending their money on parties that dazzled the night clubs. A meek little fellow in drab clothes by day, he became a sparkling playboy by night. Including tips, he spent $61,234 of the company's funds in the two years and a half that he was battling his way from $16 to $20 a week by hard work and all the other virtues that go with it—except honesty.

Amazed to Find He's Ex-Convict.

His arrest disclosed something else the company officials never knew:

He is an ex-convict who was released from the penitentiary at Joliet six months before they hired him. He had been sent there for stealing $31,353 by forgery from another Chicago concern, the Underwriters Finance corporation. And such was the charm of his personality that the prosecutor who convicted him tried to get him leniency because the forger was so helpful to the state during the trial.

The bookkeeper is Hill Turckel, 45 years old, who lives in the New Michigan hotel at 2135 South Michigan avenue. A poor immigrant boy from Rumania, he came here 20 years ago.

Made Out 180 Checks to Self.

He was able to swindle the projection company because its head, Mack Wenzel, signed a number of blank checks whenever he left on a business trip. Turckel made 180 of them out to himself in amounts ranging from $200 to $1,000.

Since they had to be countersigned by Wenzel's brother, Fred J. Wenzel, Turckel traced Fred's signature on them with carbon paper. Then he traced the carbon signature with ink.

He was tripped up by a check for $250. He had intended that this check would be his last forgery.

Turckel had a plan for paying back all the money without any one being the wiser. Six weeks ago he persuaded his employers to set him up in a business of his own. They did so, making him head of the Interstate Distributing company at 2137 South Michigan avenue in charge of distribution of their products. He hoped to make money enough to cover all his peculations.

Fears They Can't Do Without Him.

He shook his head last night at the thought of his employers' trying to get along without him and their $61,234, too. They'd still be O. K. with him there to manage, he said. But after all, he sighed, they are in-

A POLICEMAN ERRS AT DOOR OF CHURCH; REPENTS AND PAYS

Pastor Fred Baldus of the First Baptist church in Waukegan called the police department there yesterday.

"There's a car parked in the church unloading zone," said the minister. "People coming to meeting can't get into the walk."

Patrolman Claude [Two Gun Bill] Hart was sent over. He took one look at the car. Then he fished in his pocket, took out keys, started the car and drove off.

A few minutes later he came into Waukegan's cafeteria court and paid $2, the price of parking in a no parking zone.

150 PHEASANTS ON OWN; IF THEY ROAM, THEY DIE

One hundred and fifty young ringneck pheasants were released yesterday in the north forest preserve, district 6, at Thornton. The birds, which had been raised at the preserve for about 11 weeks, were freed by Clayton Smith, president of the Cook county board; James Igoe, district 6 superintendent, and George Hann, state game warden. If they stay in the preserve when the hunting season starts they will be safe from slaughter. Few of those released last year figured this out.

Horses Help Plane Rush Stricken Girl to Hospital

Hand Caught in Bus Door, Woman Dragged 20 Feet

Mrs. Bertha Ross, 80 years old, 858 North Wolcott avenue, was seriously injured last night when she was dragged 20 feet by a surface lines trolley bus in Central avenue at Schubert avenue. Her left wrist was caught by the bus's closing door as she was alighting at the rear. The driver, H. Hazelfeldt, was unaware of the accident and started away.

Dish Pan Yields 2 of 3 Prettiest Pairs of Hands

BY DORIS LOCKERMAN.

(Picture on Page 3.)

The most beautiful hands in Chicago do not wash dishes. Nor scrub floors. Nor go to manicuring parlors. But wait—Chicago's second loveliest hands do all these things, and can dozens of quarts of vegetables besides!

Prize winning hands of Elaine Stern.

Miss Elaine Stern, 5301 Maryland avenue, is 17 years old. Her large, long hands with their red mandarin nails were adjudged most perfect yesterday by the American Cosmeticians' National association, meeting at the Stevens hotel.

Miss Stern is a senior at Hyde Park High school, and the nearest her hands come to callouses is when she's pounding a tennis ball. Even then she's tempted to pull on a pair of her size seven gloves to protect their smooth whiteness.

But These Hands Do Toil.

Mrs. Marie Shupe, 5158 North Albany avenue, is 36 years old. Her hands are brown and supple, longer and slenderer than those of Miss Stern. She's been married nine years and during all that time has dipped her capable hands fearlessly into hot, soapy water. In the winter time, when she thinks of it, she slaps on a lotion of glycerin and camphor and has a manicure once a week. She won a rating of 49 out of a possible 50 on the skin condition of her hands.

Another housekeeper won third prize. Miss Thelma Winkenwerder, a brown-eyed blonde who lives with her father at 7659 South Sangamon street, has supervised his household for three years. She scrubs, washes clothes and curtains, and cooks, but you couldn't prove it by her soft, sun-tanned hands.

Flaming Varnish All the Vogue.

Each of the winners, indeed most of the fifty entrants in the contest, wore flaming nail varnish. Nobody, they vowed, will be seen in natural polish any more. And nobody, they added, has cuticle cut or nails trimmed modestly short. Their own were long, talon-like, with gently pointed tips.

The tiny, transparent hand that once fluttered so romantically has been replaced by strong, long-fingered hands, explained yesterday's judges. Few of the girls and women entered in the contest wore smaller than size eight gloves.

FRANCE AND GERMANY FIGHT WAR OF SIGNS ACROSS RHINE RIVER

BASEL, Switzerland, Sept. 9.—(AP)—France and Germany fought a war of signs today across the Rhine a few miles from Basel. First the Nazis hoisted a huge sign on their bank of the river proclaiming "one reich, one people, one fuehrer." The French countered with an equally large sign lettered "liberty, equality, fraternity."

ROBBERS SEIZE $18,000 JEWELRY IN LAKE FOREST

Jack Nathan, salesman for three New York jewelry houses, was robbed of $18,000 in jewelry last night by two gunmen in Lake Forest. The robbery occurred within sight of many passing motorists in Skokie boulevard.

Nathan was returning from Milwaukee with Harry Harris, 824 South Karlov avenue, a driver for jewelry salesmen, when the robbers pulled alongside in another car. One of the gunmen jumped on the running board of Nathan's machine, ordering Harris to stop. Instead Harris spurted ahead, but at Old Elm road, after firing a warning shot, the gunmen curbed the car. They took three sample cases containing rings, diamonds, and other jewelry.

Nazis to Abolish System of Tipping; 'Dishonorable'

Berlin Never to Surrender! Fuehrer Cries

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NUREMBERG, Germany, Sept. 9.—"We are determined to capitulate before nobody. Those who reckon upon the weakness of Germany will be mistaken."

Reichsfuehrer Hitler thundered these words tonight in a speech at the congress of the Nazi party now in session here. Before him stood 140,000 Nazi party leaders and 36,000 flag bearers, while 100,000 spectators packed the stands on the Zeppelin field. Millions of others heard the Fuehrer speak over the radio. He spoke fifteen minutes.

His warning that Germany will not capitulate was Hitler's first reference to the Czech-German crisis, and it was greeted with delirious enthusiasm by his party followers.

[Dispatches from Prague last night said negotiations between the Sudeten German (Nazi) minority and the Czech government will be resumed today.]

Praises Loyalty of Followers.

"Everything has changed in the past fifteen years except our absolute faith in our country's future," Hitler told his audience. "Your group is made of the truest and most reliable followers upon which a Fuehrer ever called.

"You have given me your faith for years. I would be ungrateful if I did not enjoy this day when I can again stand before you. It reminds me of the day when I stood before you as the fighter. You know me. I know you."

The Fuehrer thanked his "faithful revolutionary guard" from Austria, which, he said, had fought as long as the German Nazis. This unleashed a tumultuous chorus of cries, "We thank our Fuehrer," which lasted for minutes.

Hitler gloried in the feeling of a "community that will last until all eternity. You will all share the feeling of how strong we are in this community. In times when there are clouds on the horizon I feel specially happy to have a guard of millions of fanatical, unshakeable Nazis, whose spiritual vanguard you are and for whose leadership you are responsible.

Pledges "Good Leadership."

"Just as in the years of our struggle I could always rely blindly on you, I know today that Germany and I can rely blindly on you. In those long years of struggle you have seen yourselves how strong a community is that is bound indissolubly and determined to capitulate before nobody. You make it easy for me to be Germany's Fuehrer.

"All those who these fifteen years counted on the breakdown or dissolution of our movement were mistaken. Those who today reckon upon the weakness of Germany will be just as mistaken."

Pledging to the German people that their "leadership will be good," Hitler sent the functionaries back to their homes to be "the unshakeable builders of the faith in pan-Germany."

It is understood that many conferences dealing with the international

LONDON READY TO GO TO WAR, MESSAGE SAYS

Envoy Will Deliver New Note Today.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, Sept. 10 (Saturday).—(AP)—The Daily Mail said today the British government decided at midnight to tell Germany "in precise and formal terms" Great Britain would not stand aside if Czechoslovakia were attacked. The newspaper said a diplomatic note to this effect would be delivered by Sir Nevile Henderson, British ambassador to Berlin, "probably to Adolf Hitler himself," within the next few hours at Nuremberg. Sir Nevile postponed his scheduled departure from Nuremberg last night. The Daily Mail said this was done on instructions from No. 10 Downing street, the prime minister's residence.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 9.—Europe's war is all off again—for a while at least. The tension and alarm which have wracked the world for the last couple of weeks subsided in Europe's capitals tonight following a conference in Nuremberg between Joachim von Ribbentrop, German foreign minister, and Sir Nevile Henderson, British ambassador to Germany.

The international situation "has cleared considerably," it was learned here after this meeting.

A deal probably has been made. No details about it are available except that it has been sufficient to lift the war clouds momentarily. Reichsfuehrer Hitler, it is presumed, held out promises of a treaty to restrict indiscriminate air bombings or perhaps more in return for getting practically what he wants—for the moment—in Czechoslovakia.

Envoy Also Sees Goering.

The British say tonight that Henderson went to see Von Ribbentrop with definitly new instructions. Henderson also saw Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Nazi minister for aviation and Hitler's right hand man.

What is up has all the chancelleries of Europe guessing tonight. In addition to whatever deal is pending, it seems certain that British diplomacy once again has proved itself more astute than that of Germany and that the diplomatic maneuvers of the last few days have made it impossible for Hitler now to make any immediate military assault on Czechoslovakia.

In these diplomatic maneuvers is seen the fine hand of wily old Sir John Simon, British chancellor of the exchequer, whose counsels have prevailed in this crisis. The Simon hand is the same one that got Henry L. Stimson, former United States secretary of state, into such a mess over Manchuria in the Japanese crisis in 1931. Stimson at that time invoked the treaties guaranteeing China's territorial integrity against Japan after Britain promised to support him. Then the British walked out, leaving Stimson "holding the bag."

How Simon Did It.

What has happened in the present European crisis apparently is this:

The British were not willing to make any out and out commitments about going to the aid of the Czechs. Despite the close coöperation of the French in partially mobilizing and the close coöperation of the United States in giving moral support, the Germans were not convinced that the British would march—and perhaps rightly.

With his controled press, Hitler and Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, Nazi propaganda minister, had German public opinion completely in hand. The Germans believed Hitler was going to make a holy war to rescue the downtrodden Sudeten Germans and restore them to the reich—this was his sole purpose.

Here entered Sir John to inspire an editorial in the London Times urging the Czechs to cede the Sudeten territory to Germany. The Germans fell for this trap and broadcast everywhere that the Times, representing a powerful section of British opinion, was for handing over Sudetenland to Germany.

War Plan Frustrated.

But the effect of this was to make German opinion reflect that it was no use to go to war to get something which was likely to fall into their laps anyway. The ruse completely took the wind out of Hitler's sails.

it seems, and frustrated the plan of Goebbels, Von Ribbentrop, and Heinrich Himmler, chief of the Nazi secret police, to "shoot the works."

The British had been unable hitherto to get contact with Hitler. Their threats that they meant business had not been clicking because such threats were watered down in passage to Hitler via Von Ribbentrop, who did not believe them.

While the present crisis has passed, according to all signs tonight, this does not mean there will not be a new crisis. But the trick has been turned for this autumn.

Nazis Want Peace. They Say.

Henderson tonight advised the British government that in his contacts today the Germans told him that despite all recent incidents they desired a peaceful solution of the Czech question.

London heard that Paris tonight also considered the international situation as much easier.

Consultations on the European situation continued in Downing street all day today and up until a late hour tonight. Direction of affairs is in the hands of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax, and Simon. They are being advised by Sir Alexander Cadogan, permanent undersecretary of state in the foreign office, and Sir Robert Vansittart, chief diplomatic adviser to the government.

Earlier in the day other members of the cabinet had been in formal conference. Their meeting presumably had to do with details of the full cabinet session which will be held on Monday.

Eden Pays Mystery Visit.

The ministers, it was said, also reviewed the desirability of authorizing more formal staf contacts between Britain and France, as provided for in the Anglo-French exchange of letters which followed the German remilitarization of the Rhineland in March, 1936.

Some mystery was caused by a visit which Capt. Anthony Eden, former foreign secretary, paid at the foreign office to see Viscount Halifax.

Chamberlain has called in Maj. Clement R. Attlee, leader of the opposition to the government, for a talk tomorrow morning. Chamberlain will explain to Attlee his reason for not convening parliament and will advise him about details of the present situation.

According to some reports, today's Downing street conference dealt with a request from Prague that Britain and France guarantee Czechoslovak independence to counterbalance the weakening of the Czech's strategic position because of the concessions they have offered the Sudeten Germans.

It is said that Monday's cabinet meeting will consider what form of guarantee might be given as part of a final settlement. This, presumably, implies that there will be even further concessions to Hitler.

BRITAIN PREPARES NAVY

LONDON, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The British admiralty tonight adopted virtual wartime precautions because of the grave international situation created by the Czechoslovak-German conflict.

It ordered full crew complements aboard the first mine sweeping flotilla, composed of seven ships, and ordered that four mine laying destroyers be brought to full commission from a reserve status.

Although the British home fleet is engaged in maneuvers in the North Sea off Scotland, tonight's move was the first time the admiralty has admitted precautions were being taken because of the central European crisis. Previously the admiralty stoutly insisted the maneuvers were routine.

France Asks Measures.

The admiralty's order came close on the heels of reports that France had asked Britain to take defense measures publicly which might have a restraining influence on Germany to head off any military move against Czechoslovakia.

The naval vessels affected by the order are all at their home ports, in positions where they could steam quickly to defense of the British Isles in an emergency.

Only recently the admiralty strengthened the number of naval vessels at Gibraltar, gateway to the Mediterranean.

Mine sweepers at the Portland naval base to be brought to full complements are the Hebe, Hazard, Sharpshooter, Hussar, Salamander, Speedwell and Niger.

Each Ship Carries 80 Men.

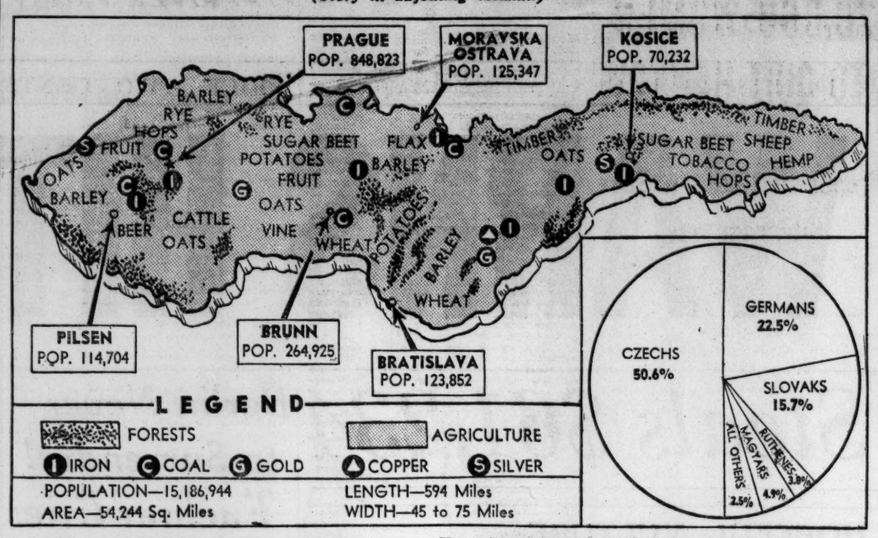
They are of the Halcyon class of small coastal sloops of 815 tons displacement, the full complement of each being 80 men. Each carries one four inch gun, one four inch anti-aircraft gun, and all were built in the past five years.

Mine laying destroyers affected were the Versatile, Vimy, Vortigern and Walker.

Printed notices went out today to the technical officers of the army, navy, and air force telling them exactly what to do in the case of general mobilization. Similar instructions were sent to ranking officers of the territorial army, which corresponds to the national guard in the United States.

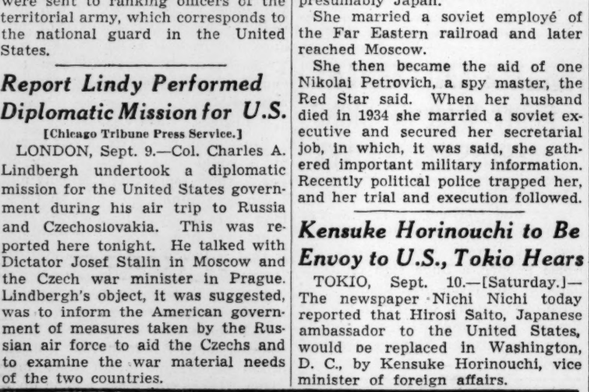
What Hitler May Acquire in Czechoslovakia

(Story in adjoining column.)



Note the legend and then observe the map. You will see how diversified in land and mineral wealth is the little nation which the Nazis covet. The circle at the right indicates the relative size of Czechoslovakia's assorted nationalities.

Strength of Foes if War Came



If Great Britain, France, and Russia joined Czechoslovakia in event of German invasion of the latter, the allied armed forces would outweigh the combined forces of Germany and its possible ally, Italy. This diagram illustrates the extent of the numerical advantage the allied powers would have.

Report Lindy Performed Diplomatic Mission for U.S.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 9.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh undertook a diplomatic mission for the United States government during his air trip to Russia and Czechoslovakia. This was reported here tonight. He talked with Dictator Josef Stalin in Moscow and the Czech war minister in Prague. Lindbergh's object, it was suggested, was to inform the American government of measures taken by the Russian air force to aid the Czechs and to examine the war material needs of the two countries.

EXECUTE WOMAN SPY; WORKED IN RED ARMY BUREAU

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, Sept. 9.—The shooting of a woman spy who had gained a position as secretary of the personnel bureau of one of Russia's most important military institutes in Moscow, was announced today by the army paper, Red Star. The woman was said to be about 38 years old.

Born in the far east, she fled to Manchuria with her husband, a White Russian guard officer, in 1921. After her husband deserted her, she became a dancer in a Harbin café. There she became a spy for an unnamed foreign state, the Red Star asserted, presumably Japan.

She married a soviet employé of the Far Eastern railroad and later reached Moscow.

She then became the aid of one Nikolai Petrovich, a spy master, the Red Star said. When her husband died in 1934 she married a soviet executive and secured her secretarial job, in which, it was said, she gathered important military information. Recently political police trapped her, and her trial and execution followed.

Kensuke Horinouchi to Be Envoy to U.S., Tokio Hears

TOKIO, Sept. 10.—[Saturday.]—The newspaper Nichi Nichi today reported that Hirosi Saito, Japanese ambassador to the United States, would be replaced in Washington, D. C., by Kensuke Horinouchi, vice minister of foreign affairs.

INDIA HOME RULE PARTY FIGHTS AID TO BRITAIN IN WAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 9.—A clash between the government of India and Nationalists over India's participation in a war involving Great Britain was revealed tonight in messages from New Delhi. The Indian Nationalist congress announced it would not tolerate Indians leaving the country to fight Great Britain's battles.

"If there is war, India will not be a party to it," a statement said.

The announcement coincided with passage of a government bill penalizing anti-recruiting activities. It was understood the congress is prepared to fight out the issue if put to a test.

Immediately after the government opens a proposed recruiting drive various provincial governments controled by the Congress party plan obstructive measures. If the British governors of these provinces ban such tactics in the respective legislatures, the provincial governments threaten to resign. Their resignation would cause a political crisis.

British Unions Vote Down Unity with Soviet Workers

BLACKPOOL, England, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The British Trades Union congress voted today in favor of ceasing negotiations for unity with trade unions of soviet Russia. It supported the view of its general council that the Russian terms would give the soviet unions undue control over the International Federation of Trade Unions.

NAZIS RESUME PEACE PARLEYS; GET CZECH PLAN

Whip Attack on German Deputy to Be Probed.

BY ALEX SMALL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 9.—Negotiations over Czechoslovakia's minorities problem will be resumed tomorrow between the government and a delegation of the Sudeten Germans [Nazis]. Two German leaders, Deputies Ernst Kundt and Alfred Rosche, had a long talk this evening with Premier Milan Hodza. When it ended they announced they were satisfied with measures being taken by the government to "liquidate" the incident in Maehrisch-Ostrau on Wednesday, which so angered the Germans that they broke off negotiations.

In that incident, the Germans charged, Czech police struck a German deputy with a riding crop when he protested the way police dealt with a demonstration by Germans before the Maehrisch-Ostrau courthouse.

The government's measures to end the incident include the suspension and prosecution of four police officials. Furthermore, Dr. Bacza, superintendent of state police in Maehrisch-Ostrau, was suspended at his own request, and an official inquiry will be made into the methods he used in dealing with the demonstration.

Party Rites for Knoll.

The German party now has another case to turn into political capital, if it chooses. This is the mysterious death of Alfred Knoll, 26 years old, who was an official of the Sudeten party.

Knoll was called up for army reserve training on Sept. 2. Within three days, it was reported, he was accused of espionage, tried, convicted and sentenced to thirty years' imprisonment. He was said to have been killed when he jumped or fell from a moving train while being taken to prison.

Tomorrow afternoon the party will conduct his funeral, following a ritual now established for those whom the Sudeten Germans consider their martyrs.

In this case Czech state police nearly caused a riot in the town of Jaegerndorf, on the German border, where Knoll's body was lying in an undertaking establishment. Police officials appeared there yesterday with an order that Knoll's body was to be buried from the undertaking establishment not later than noon today.

Crowd Protests Order.

News of the order brought a protesting crowd of about 500 into the streets of Jaegerndorf demanding that the public be allowed to see the body. This morning the police said that their orders were not being complied with, and they would conduct the burial themselves. Premier Hodza, acting on the request of Sudeten German deputies, ordered the police to relent.

A second autopsy is scheduled tomorrow morning, when German physicians designated by the party will participate. Czechs conducted the first autopsy. Black draped flags will fly from all Sudeten party headquarters, and party officials will wear mourning in Knoll's honor.

An official summary of the latest plan offered by the government to the Germans and other minorities was released tonight. The edge had been taken off the interest in it, however, by advance publication of the general lines of the project.

The plan provides for dividing the country into self-governing cantons, the division to be based on nationalities, geographical features, and natural communication lines.

Other provisions of the plan are: Cantonal and national government jobs will be apportioned among nationalities on a basis of total population. Population also will determine apportionment of government purchases. The government will loan $30,000,000 to depressed areas, $21,000,000 of it going to Sudeten German cantons. All languages will be equal. There will be secret voting and universal suffrage.

President Eduard Benes will speak by radio tomorrow afternoon. It is expected he will reaffirm the government's stand that it can make no more concessions of principle.

RUSSIA CONFERS WITH RUMANIA ON PATH FOR TROOPS TO AID CZECHS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Sept. 9.—Maxim Litvinov, soviet Russian foreign commissar, and Petrescu Comnen, Rumanian foreign minister, held a conference late today. It was reported they discussed the possible transfer of Russian soldiers to Czechoslovakia via Rumania. This talk dwarfed the opening session of the league of nations council in Geneva.

Russia is an ally of Czechoslovakia. Should the present conflict between the Prague government and its Sudeten German minority lead to war with Germany, Russia might go to the aid of the Czechs.

The conference will be continued, it was announced, indicating no agreement was reached.

BRITISHER IS PLACED ON TRIAL AS A SPY FOR SOVIET RUSSIA

LONDON, Sept. 9.—(AP)—Robinson Walker, a former engineer for Vickers-Armstrong, Ltd., British munitions makers, was brought to trial today under the official secrets act.

Walker was charged with persuading another employé to give him drawings of armament plans and taking them to the soviet Russian trade delegation.

Witnesses testified in Old Bailey police court that Walker represented himself as an agent of Italy, Germany, and Russia. He has denied selling the secrets, contending he wanted the plans only to improve his own inventions.

FRANCE RUSHES UP SANDBAGS TO GUARD PARIS

Prepares to Distribute Gas Masks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 9.—The French government today continued its preparations for war with Germany.

With the army, air force, and navy mobilized for any emergency that might arise in the Nazi quarrel with Czechoslovakia, tons of sand were being trucked into Paris from the coast to fill sandbags for defense of public shelters and buildings against air bombs and artillery shells. Drivers of municipal garbage trucks and street sweeping machines were impressed into service to haul the sand.

The government also made plans to distribute gas masks to civilians.

Await British Reply.

The cabinet anxiously awaited a reply to Premier Edouard Daladier's plea to the British ambassador yesterday that Great Britain join with France in telling Hitler that it considers Czechoslovakia has gone as far as possible in meeting the Sudeten German demands. The French appeal was given to the British ambassador by Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet, acting for Daladier.

Bonnet has been attempting to convince London that Britain and France, together with soviet Russia and other countries, should defend Czechoslovakia if Hitler tries to get more than the Czechs offer by force.

The French were losing hope that Britain would adopt a strong stand, since London has replied to French pleas that while they are right in telling Hitler they will not tolerate the use of force, rather than force a showdown with Germany they should let the Fuehrer obtain further concessions from the Czechs by continued pressure.

French Reds Demand Action.

Increasing pressure was being exerted on the French government by the French communist and Socialist parties. Both demanded that Foreign Minister Bonnet insist on a firmer stand by Britain. Gabriel Peri, communist deputy, asked support from the Socialist party for a proposal to convene the foreign affairs committee of the chamber of deputies.

The government canceled leaves of employés in the government owned communications system. Telegraph, telephone, and postal workers were ordered to remain near their posts.

Gen. Alfred Fagalde, commander of the 16th corps area, made a survey of the frontier defenses opposite rebel Spain, from where a German-Italian attack is feared.

Naval reserve officers in Paris received official notices advising them to be ready for duty if necessary.

Leads Nazi Women

situation took place in Hitler's hotel this afternoon. Sir Nevile Henderson, the British ambassador, was not among the Fuehrer's visitors. Henderson had a 45 minute interview with Joachim von Ribbentrop, German foreign minister, this noon. Late tonight he announced he had canceled his train reservations for Berlin and would remain in Nuremberg until tomorrow, when he hopes to see Hitler.

The Fuehrer previously had made it clear that unless the British ambassador receives new instructions from his government there is no point in receiving him again at this time, when he [Hitler] must concentrate on problems centering around the party congress.

Von Ribbentrop said in his talk with Henderson that Germany still wants to negotiate with Czechoslovakia, but that it finds Premier Milan Hodza's fourth plan to meet the Sudeten German demands for self-rule unacceptable. Von Ribbentrop said the German government will advise the Sudeten Germans to consider the Carlsbad demands of Konrad Henlein, Nazi leader in Czechoslovakia, as the "minimum demands." From this Henderson gathered that the Nazis are preparing more demands.

Not Anxious for Compromise.

The ambassador was given the impression that the Germans are not anxious to hasten negotiations for a compromise that might restore normal conditions in the Sudeten German area.

Earlier today Hitler failed to make a scheduled appearance before the Nazi women's auxiliary, to which he was to have made a speech. Twenty thousand women were disappointed. The reason for his failure to appear was given as "affairs of state."

Gertrud Scholtz-Klink, women's leader, told the audience that "we know that what our Fuehrer does is always right, so we send him our greetings and pledge of loyalty."

Mrs. Scholtz-Klink demanded in her speech that German women be prepared to sacrifice everything, "be it one's own life, for the faith in pan-Germany." The roar of cannons booming on distant training fields was an ominous accompaniment to her exhortation.

CHINESE ORDER 20,000 WOMEN TO QUIT HANKOW

SHANGHAI, Sept. 9.—(AP)—With Japanese forces closing in on Hankow, Chinese provisional capital, military authorities there today ordered that 20,000 women be evacuated from the city. This step was decided upon to make easier the defense of the Hankow area.

The women were ordered to go to Chungking, a city of Szechwan province, more than 500 miles farther inland. The civilian branches of the Chinese government already have been moved to Chungking, and the United States and other foreign embassies and legations are located there.

The first contingent of 800 women already is on the way. Chinese military authorities in Hankow have admitted the Japanese are within eighty miles of the provisional capital, main objective of the Japanese land and naval drive along the Yangtze river.

Battle Near Kwangtsi.

Furious fighting with heavy casualties took place on both banks of the Yangtze today—the 429th day of the war.

Japanese news agency dispatches from Nanking quoted Japanese military authorities as saying 15,000 Chinese had been slain and 1,200 taken prisoner in battles around Kwangtsi, about eighty miles southeast of Hankow.

[Chinese army headquarters asserted that the Japanese column which had been pushing toward Hankow along the north bank of the Yangtze river was trapped and defeated Thursday at Kwangtsi. Several thousand Japanese were cut off and remnants of the column forced into precipitous flight when Chinese forces closed in from three directions, they asserted. Following up yesterday, it was said, the Chinese occupied Kwangtsi and pushed nearly twenty miles eastward to the environs of Hwangmei, where the Japanese rallied.]

The Japanese asserted also they had dispersed three Chinese divisions between Anking, Anhwei province capital 215 miles downriver from Hankow, and Wuhu, 100 miles further downstream. This is far behind the Japanese extreme advance along the Yangtse.

Reports from Canton, metropolis in South China, said fourteen Japanese warplanes dropped five bombs on the north station of that city today before anti-aircraft fire drove them away.

Japs Name Aids to Foreign Chief.

TOKIO, Sept. 9.—(AP)—The appointment of two former foreign ministers to be special advisers to Foreign Minister General Kazushige Ugaki was announced today. They are Hachiro Arita, foreign minister in 1936-'37, and Naotake Sato, who followed him for a brief period in 1937. Both served before the outbreak of the war with China, July 7, 1937, and both had favored moderation toward China.

The foreign office said Arita and Sato would assist Gen. Ugaki in handling American-Japanese, Anglo-Japanese and other questions arising from the China war.

VOTE ON TAVERN BAN NOV. 8 IN 31 COMMUNITIES

Residents of 31 Chicago communities will be called on to decide in the Nov. 8 elections whether neighborhood taverns and liquor stores should be prohibited. Local option petitions from this number had been received yesterday by the city clerk at the close of a 30 day filing period.

Thus far 107 of more than 3,600 precincts have been voted dry under the local option clause of the state liquor law.

The law specifies that 1932 and not the current precinct boundaries be observed in community referendums. Thus the boundaries of the thirty-one petitioning precincts do not correspond to those of the 1938 election map. The thirty-one precincts are in the 3d ward, precincts 10, 22, and 54; 4th ward, 26; 5th ward, 52, 53, 55, and 60; 6th ward, 27, 28, 30, 44, 47, 49, and 50; 7th ward, 1 and 80; 8th ward, 64; 17th ward, 38, 41, and 45; 19th ward, 46; 27th ward, 4; 33d ward, 21; 37th ward, 13, 29, 35, and 38; 41st ward, 19, and 48th ward, 36 and 45.

Schuschnigg Ill; Cannot Appear for Trial in Vienna

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

VIENNA, Sept. 9.—It was rumored tonight that former Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg is so ill he cannot appear for trial before the special court to try violators of the former Austrian constitution. Schuschnigg is in the custody of Nazi police in the Hotel Metropole. He is in a depressed state, it is reported, but is not confined to bed, and does not require special medical attention. His only visitor is his second wife, the former Countess Vera Fugger von Babenhausen. She sees him for ten minutes each Friday afternoon.

REBELS LEVEL HILLS ON EBRO RIVER FRONT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PERPIGNAN, France, [near the Spanish Frontier] Sept. 9.—Spanish rebel airplanes and artillery spread a devastating bombardment over government positions near Corbera, it was reported today, but loyalist dispatches said their positions virtually were unchanged. The shelling was so intense, a member of the government's general staf reported, that "military maps will have to be replotted because the topography has been so altered."

Several hill positions changed hands during the day, but loyalist sources said they had retaken lost ground. The insurgent drive was intended to liquidate the government's salient west of the Ebro river in South Catalonia. Heavy rains have slowed down the offensive.

Ten rebel planes bombed the waterfront district of Valencia today, causing heavy damage and killing several persons. Government advices said more than 100 bombs were dropped.

LETTER SEEMS HEAVY; HER LOST DIAMONDS IN IT

The letter Miss Beryl Krutckoff received yesterday at her home at 5000 West End avenue seemed extra heavy. And when she opened it her $700 diamond brooch dropped out. She had reported it lost or stolen while attending a political dinner May 13 in a loop hotel. Miss Krutckoff told police that whoever had her brooch must have read her advertisment requesting its return. She is the daughter of Charles Krutckoff, president of the Hawthorne race track.

COURT UPHOLDS HINES CHARGES; DEFENSE OPENS

Pecora's Ruling Climaxes Hours of Suspense.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 9.—[Special.]—In a hushed and crowded courtroom Judge Ferdinand Pecora this afternoon sustained all thirteen counts in the racket conspiracy indictment against Tammany Leader James J. Hines. Thus the Democratic leader's hopes of being freed midway in his trial on technical grounds were dashed. The defense then began the presentation of its evidence.

Judge Pecora had given the prosecution a bad case of jitters yesterday when he expressed "some uncertainty" over the validity of the indictment. The suspense continued today when he discussed for forty minutes the technicalities of the case without indicating his decision.

When he finally reached the point where he gave his ruling a hubbub arose in the excited courtroom and cries of "Denied! Denied!" spread rapidly to the streets outside.

Defendant Grips Chair.

The defendant gripped the arms of his chair until his knuckles turned white while the judge was reading his ruling. Hines hung on every word which came from the lips of Pecora, who himself had once been an assistant district attorney under Tammany régimes.

Equally tense was District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, who had adduced testimony for three weeks from many witnesses on Hines' connection with the policy game racket run by the late gang leader, Dutch Schultz.

At the outset Judge Pecora remarked that he believed the district attorney should have tacked onto the indictment a count charging the defendant with conspiracy to obstruct justice. This was in reference to the testimony that Hines influenced judges to dismiss cases against workers in the Schultz policy racket and caused the transfer of policemen who had the courage to arrest the racketeers.

Conspiracy Count Is Key.

But his views were not to be regarded as criticism of the indictment or the persons who drew it, Pecora added. The indictment contains one conspiracy or misdemeanor count, alleging a plot to operate the policy game. In addition there are twelve felony counts listing overt acts of violating the lottery laws.

The conspiracy count was the binder for the felonies, and if the judge had dismissed it the case would have fallen. The defense had argued the state had not proved the conspiracy continued beyond May 24, 1936, and therefore did not fall within the two year statute of limitations. Pecora ruled otherwise.

"The court feels that there is evidence in the entire case which, while it may appear to be conflicting, while it may appear to be inconsistent in parts, nevertheless presents a record which should be submitted to the jury," said Judge Pecora.

Payment Testimony Recalled.

George Weinberg, payoff man for the Schultz gang, and Big Harry Schoenhaus, gang bookkeeper, had testified they made payments out of the racket treasury to Hines late in 1936.

Next the court took up the twelve alleged felonies, which covered the operation of the policy game on twelve days.

"The court feels that the evidence presented by the people in support of the twelve felony counts in this indictment," said Judge Pecora, "if believed by the jury, would justify a finding by the jury that the crimes charged in those twelve counts were committed."

The jurors then returned to the courtroom, and the judge told them of his decision. He warned them they were not to draw any conclusions about the guilt or innocence of the defendant because he had denied the dismissal motions.

Defense Witnesses Called.

Although it was late in the afternoon, the defense then started its case. The first witnesses were summoned by Attorney Lloyd Paul Stryker, chief of Hines' legal battery. They were placed on the stand to combat the effect of the $500 check, with "J. Hines" written on the back, which the state had introduced as a gangland payment for the Democratic leader.

J. Howard Haring, who identified himself as a handwriting expert, told the jury some one had inked in the name of "J. Hines" as an indorsement at a later date than the other two signatures on the back of the check. The Hines name was written between those of J. Richard [Dixie] Davis, Schultz attorney who appeared as a state's witness, and Eddie Holly, a racing tout, who placed bets for the political boss at the horse tracks.

The state's contention is that Holly indorsed the check for Hines and handed it to a bookmaker at some horse park. Mrs. Rose Wendroff, sister of Dixie Davis, had testified she had turned the check over to Hines in June, 1934, on instructions of her brother.

To support the defense claim that the check had been tampered with, Stryker supplied the jury, judge, and district attorney with albums containing enlarged photographs of the signature. Haring stepped down from the stand to the jury box and explained how he had reached his deductions through "high and low magnification" and hours of study.

The letter "J" in the second signature "J. Hines," was superimposed over the letter "E" in the "Eddie Holly" beneath it, Haring declared while the jury squinted at the photographs. The witness said he could tell this by the way the ink was spread out at the intersections.

Admits Problem Is Difficult.

On cross-examination by Dewey Haring admitted the question of whether one letter is superimposed on another is one of the most difficult problems in handwriting experiments.

Dewey ridiculed Haring as an "expert" and pointed out that in the New York telephone directory he is listed as an "engrosser."

Haring exhibited a book which he and his father had written, "The Hand of Hauptmann," dealing with writings in the Lindbergh kidnaping case. The state drew from him an admission that he had not testified at the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, although seven or eight other handwriting experts had done so.

COURT CALLS MISDEAL FOR YOUNG WIFE OVER A DECK OF FACE CARDS

Charging that her wealthy young husband hit her in the face with a deck of cards, Mrs. Janeanne Smyth Curran won a divorce yesterday from Harry Remington Curran Jr.

Mrs. Janeanne Curran.

She is 26 years old. Curran, son of the president of the Central Steel and Wire company, is 27. They were married June 5, 1937. Judge Thomas J. Lynch was told that she will receive $140 a month under an out of court settlement and $2,000 additional. She lives at 3000 Sheridan road.

Curran was divorced in 1935 by Kate Winn Canfield Curran, who testified that he slapped her and pulled her hair.

MACHINIST SHOT BY NEGRESS ON S. SIDE STREET

Clifford Lundquist, 35 years old, 5729 South Fairfield avenue, a machinist, was shot above the heart by a colored woman at 31st street and Wabash avenue early today. He is in a critical condition in St. Luke's hospital.

The shooting may have been one of mistaken identity, police said, or may have been connected with a brawl a few minutes earlier in a tavern at 31st street and Michigan avenue.

Lundquist was in the tavern with a friend, Stephen Jaros, 32, of 5255 South Wood street, also a machinist. Jaros punched a Negro whom he suspected of trying to pick his pocket. Later Lundquist and Jaros walked out. The colored woman stepped up to Lundquist, shouted, "You won't push me around any more," and fired.

5 MORE INJURED IN STORE STRIKE ON WEST COAST

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 9.—(AP)—There were more fisticuffs along the picket lines in the department store strike here today. Five persons were reported hurt in encounters and seven new arrests were made, bringing the official total for the three-day old strike to seven injured and 14 arrested. The twenty unions involved demad a union shop, a 35 hour week and store wide seniority.

The unions, claiming a membership of 7,000 in the 35 affected stores asserted 6,000 walked out. The employers said 4,000. All picketed establishments continued operating with reduced staffs.

ventors and he is a business man. And there's lots of difference, as you can see, he said.

As a matter of fact, Turckel said, he had to lend them $5,000 of their own money last spring; running the business was that hard, even for him.

Turckel was so adroit at covering up his shortages that he might have continued as long as the money held out but for a sharp eyed clerk at the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company. He detected a discrepancy in one of the signatures Tuesday. The clerk told bank officials, who notified Mack Wenzel. He was surprised to learn how many of his own checks were going through the bank made out to Turckel.

Trace His Checking Account.

Sergts. John Murphy and Benjamin Ryan of the detective bureau confidence game detail were called in.

They learned that Turckel kept a checking account at the Amalgamated Trust and Savings bank. There he deposited his forged checks. When they cleared he checked the money out.

As he sat in his cell eating the evening meal of bologna, bread, and coffee, one of the forger's chief interests last night was to find out how he made the mistake in the signature that led to his downfall.

He wished he could make restitution, he said, but he had only $147 left in the bank.

Turckel said he was born in Bucharest. He came to the United States in 1920 with his wife, Sylvia. The next year a son, Matthew, was born to them.

Divorced While in Prison.

Soon afterward the family moved to Chicago. He went to work for the Underwriters corporation. On Aug. 30, 1929, he was sent to prison. He was discharged in September, 1935. Meanwhile his wife had divorced him, he said, and moved with their son to Cincinnati.

Back in Chicago, as he told the story, he went to work for Joseph Spratler, head of a movie machine repair company. Ill health forced Spratler to quit business and move to Arizona.

Turckel could find no work. He was down and out. Spratler, just before he left, took him to Mack Wenzel, a personal friend, and asked Wenzel to give him work.

Wenzel gave Turckel the last $7 he had in his pocket, and hired him.

Employer Dazed by News.

Wenzel, who lives at 4027 Lake Park avenue, seemed dazed by the realization that Turckel had been stealing the company's profits.

"How could you do this to me?" he asked the man whose efforts he rewarded six months ago with the $4 increase in salary.

Turckel only shrugged his shoulders.

Threat of Milk Strike in California Staved Off

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Threats of a milk tie up in southern California were staved off today when dairy employers and teamsters' union officials agreed to begin negotiations next Monday. The union previously had threatened to tie up the milk supply with a strike call which was scheduled for today. The union of 2,000 drivers has been conducting a seven months fight with Milk Products Industries, Inc., employer group, for a closed shop.

INDICT MAYOR OF PHILADELPHIA IN VICE INQUIRY

Charges Add Fresh Fire to Democratic Feud.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Mayor S. Davis Wilson, Philadelphia's political chameleon, was indicted today by a grand jury which has been investigating vice and gambling. There were 146 others named with him. The names of all but six were suppressed pending arrest.

Mayor S. Davis Wilson.

The indictments added fresh fire to the feuds of Pennsylvania Democrats. These started in the May primary and continued in a series of grand jury and legislative investigations of the graft charges which the contestants hurled at each other.

Wilson Keeps Switching.

Wilson originally was a Wilson Democrat, then in turn a Republican city employé, a successful Democratic candidate for city controler in 1933, and Republican victor in the 1935 mayoralty race. His final party switch in the May primary landed him in the company of John L. Lewis, C. I. O. boss, and Senator Joseph F. Guffey, who backed him in an unsuccessful race for the Democratic senatorial nomination.

Other principals in the primary fight and the mud slinging campaign are:

Gov. George H. Earle, also a former Republican, who won the senatorial nomination. His running mate, Charles A. Jones, beat Lieut. Gov. Thomas Kennedy, the Lewis-Guffey candidate, for nomination as governor.

Matt McCloskey, contractor and Democratic boss of Philadelphia. During the campaign Wilson charged that Earle had taken money from McCloskey, who got millions of dollars in public contracts from Earle's state board of public works. Earle admitted receiving a loan, denying it was a bribe.

Charles J. Margiotti, another renegade Republican, who sought the Democratic nomination for governor. Earle removed him from his post of attorney general when Margiotti started an investigation of graft in the state administration.

Seek to Block Quiz.

Since the primary all of the contestants have been trying to press home the charges against their opponents and balk investigation of their own alleged misdeeds. Earle used a special session of the legislature in an attempt to get control of the statehouse graft quiz. Wilson fought back with city police against the grand jury's investigators. These included Earle's state police.

From the beginning Wilson has charged that the Philadelphia inquiry was an Earle move to smear him. He repeated the charge today.

The mayor himself started the gambling investigation, but his enemies kidnaped it. In the spring of 1937 he named a committee of clergymen and civic leaders to investigate gambling. They reported it rampant in Philadelphia, but District Attorney Charles F. Kelley, a Republican, took no action.

Then Wilson teamed up with the Democrats. Kelley started an investigation. Wilson, enraged, asked Margiotti to supersede Kelley. This Margiotti did. At the time it was felt that this action steered the investigation away from Wilson, who was Kelley's target.

Then came the Democratic blowup. Wilson aligned himself with Lewis and Guffey, and Margiotti was fired by Earle. The grand jury investigation then fell into the hands of Guy K. Bard, whom Earle named to succeed Margiotti, and it has been an open secret since that Wilson and Republican city officials had again become the jury's targets.

After his indictment Wilson posted a $10,000 bond signed by himself. Other defendants whose names were made public were a police inspector, three police captains, and Nate Schaeffer, a former saloonkeeper who is well known among gamblers.

26 ARE INDICTED IN KANSAS CITY LAUNDRY RACKET

Owners, Union Chiefs Face Charges.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—The indictments of twenty-six men in the laundry industry here were made public today. A special grand jury has been investigating business rackets during the last two months.

The defendants, who include laundry owners and officials of the Laundry Workers' union, were charged with conspiring to fix prices.

The indictments were made public only a short time after a bomb damaged three south side business houses early today. More than 500 window smashings and nine bomb explosions have occurred here since Jan. 1.

Blames Union Organizers.

The jury blamed "so-called labor organizers" for the epidemic of violence and vandalism that has swept Kansas City. The labor disorder involved butcher shops and grocery stores, lumber yards, casket factories, and various construction works where efforts were made to organize employés.

Trouble in the laundry business was traced back to the arrival here a year ago of Joseph B. Arvin, president of the Laundry Workers' union. Arvin, one of those indicted today, came here from St. Joseph, Mo., where he is under indictment as a result of an acid throwing incident in a taxicab strike.

Strike at Packing Plant.

Union members played cards tonight behind locked gates of the Armour & Co. packing plant, shut down by a C. I. O. called strike here today.

C. I. O. officers and company guards ordered all union members who intended to spend the night in the plant to enter by 3:30 p. m. After that the gates were locked and only office workers departed.

Union and company officials differed sharply over the cause of the strike affecting about 1,500 workers. Alex Hudson, representative of union local 232, said the strike was called because the company refused to pay five members of a grievance committee for time spent talking with company representatives yesterday.

DEMAND EARLE GIVE RELIEF JOB BACK TO WOMAN

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Welfare officials and indignant citizens at a massmeeting here today requested Gov. George H. Earle and the Philadelphia County Board of Public Assistance to reinstate Miss Dorothy C. Kahn as the county's relief administrator.

Miss Charlotte Carr, head of Hull House, Chicago, told the audience that Miss Kahn's dismissal, on charges of "failure to coöperate" with the board, was a national matter, "because of the national reputation which Philadelphia has had as a leader in the administration of public relief."

PRESIDENT FIRES NEW BROADSIDE AT NEWSPAPERS

Charges 'Misinterpretation' of Foreign Policy.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Sept. 9.—[Special.] — President Roosevelt tonight made a bitter attack upon the press of the United States for "misinterpreting" his foreign policy.

The attack was made a few hours before the President departed by train for Rochester, Minn., where his eldest son, James, will undergo an operation Monday morning. The President left Hyde Park at 11 o'clock [Chicago time] tonight. He will arrive in Chicago at 7 p. m. tomorrow and will remain on his special while it is switched to the North Western tracks. He will reach Rochester Sunday morning.

Cites Bullitt Denial.

The President's worries about his son's condition apparently had given way momentarily to his anger at what he termed the false impressions given the public that he, Secretary of State Hull, and William C. Bullitt, ambassador to France, have aligned themselves with France and Great Britain against Germany in case of war.

At a press conference on the veranda of his summer home, the President said that Ambassador Bullitt's quoted remarks that France and the United States "were indefectively united in war as in peace" had been categorically denied.

[The United States embassy in Paris yesterday denied that Ambassador Bullitt had made this statement, which was attributed to him Sept. 3 in dispatches from Bordeaux, France. The Associated Press correspondent in Bordeaux, however, said he heard the ambassador make the statement in a banquet speech in which Bullitt discoursed on friendship and wine. The correspondent's statement was supported by the editor of La France de Bordeaux.]

Press "Behaving Badly."

At his press conference the President added that American commentators apparently couldn't understand the English language. He said that their interpretations of the Roosevelt, Hull, and Bullitt statements were 100 per cent wrong, and charged that there was a political attempt to misinterpret the record.

Most of the American press was behaving rather badly, he remarked. Newspaper writers were putting into people's mouths what they had not said, he asserted.

Asked directly what the administration foreign policy was, the President referred his questioners to speeches made by himself and by Secretary Hull.

Denounces Poll Tax.

Mr. Roosevelt then launched into a discussion of the poll tax. He has written a letter to an Arkansas Democratic national committeeman, it was revealed, in which he denounced the tax.

In Virginia, Mr. Roosevelt said, a high poll tax disqualifies two-thirds of the white voters from casting a ballot. These two-thirds are disenfranchised, he said.

The President then referred to a movement by a New Jersey woman's organization to keep relief workers from voting.

The eventual result of this might be, he remarked, that only those persons who had received a college degree would be permitted to vote.

Evasive on Purge.

The President was evasive when asked if he had lifted his attempted purge of Democratic senators and congressmen who have opposed his program. He said he would continue to talk about the principles of liberalism and conservatism.

Emphatic denials were voiced by summer White House attachés to reports that the President's westward trip might take on a political tinge before the return east. Speculation concerning Mr. Roosevelt's plans arose after his sudden decision last night to visit his son in Rochester.

The President will be in Minnesota, which, Gov. Elmer Benson assured him last week, is wholeheartedly in line with his efforts to liberalize the Democratic party with the aid of the Farmer-Labor vote. He also has been asked repeatedly to make speeches in Michigan and in Wisconsin, but has turned down these invitations on the ground that the international situation demands that he stay close to Washington.

Illinois Democrats Ask Aid.

Illinois Democrats also, according to reports, have strongly urged the President to make a speech there because of the vigorous campaign for the senate being waged by the Republican candidate, Richard J. Lyons, against Representative Scott W. Lucas, the Democratic candidate.

Presidential Secretary Marvin H. McIntyre was vehement in asserting there would be no politics either on the trip west or the return east. He said political visitors were not wanted on the stops Roosevelt may make and that there would be no speeches.

The President took a cruise up the Hudson river this afternoon on the yacht Potomac. He was accompanied by his son, Elliott, who also will make the trip to Rochester.

PHYSICIANS PREPARE JAMES ROOSEVELT TO GO UNDER KNIFE

Rochester, Minn., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Physicians at Mayo clinic today continued dietary treatment for James Roosevelt, son and secretary of the President, in preparation for a stomach operation Monday.

The clinic announced that young Roosevelt's general condition was excellent and that a rigid diet had been imposed to permit "recent acute manifestations to subside."

Roosevelt's wife, the former Betsy Cushing, arrived by train this morning to be with her husband. His mother, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, also is in Rochester. The President will arrive Sunday morning by train.

ROBS LOAN FIRM CASHIER.

East St. Louis, Ill., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Miss Esther Nurdin, cashier of the Personal Finance company, was held up and robbed of $300 today by an armed man. He fled from the downtown office of the company.

TYDINGS BLASTS PURGE IN WORDS OF ROOSEVELT

Quotes Old Opposition to Vote Meddling.

he went on the radio an hour after Tydings had concluded and disclaimed any responsibility for Mr. Roosevelt's interference.

"Mr. Roosevelt came into Maryland," Lewis declared, "not at my solicitation, but of his own volition, to describe the difference between a liberal and a conservative."

Senator Tydings expressed confidence that the Democrats of Maryland in the primary Monday would do exactly what Mr. Roosevelt, as governor, said the people of New York would do about federal interference. Next Monday, he said, is "Defenders' day."

Expects State to Speak Out.

"You will thunderously speak out to all America, telling all of our fellow citizens in other states that the Maryland free state is still free and well capable of choosing those who shall speak in the councils of the nation for her," declared Tydings.

Senator Tydings challenged Lewis to defend his position in openly crying out for the most powerful administration in the history of the world to come in and force the people of Maryland to vote for him.

He challenged Lewis to discuss what he called three other major issues of the campaign—support of the NRA, of the scheme to pack the United States Supreme court, and of the bill to give President Roosevelt dictatorial powers to reorganize the government.

Lewis did not accept Tydings' challenge to discuss any of these issues. He brushed aside the challenge, declaring that the Supreme court bill, the reorganization bill, and the NRA were "dim milestones of the distant days gone by."

HOOVER TO ATTACK NEW DEAL IN THREE MAJOR ADDRESSES

Ogden, Utah, Sept. 9.—(AP)—America may find the New Deal "more bedlamic than liberal," Herbert Hoover declared in an interview today while en route east by train. "Mr. Roosevelt has proposed that the New Deal be converted into a major political party," said Hoover. "He states that it is to be liberal. I propose to explore this idea in a series of speeches.

"After six years of experience with the New Deal we can soberly apply the test given us by the greatest teacher of mankind. 'Ye shall know them by their fruits. Do men gather grapes from thorns or figs from thistles?'"

Hoover's first address will be in Kansas City on Sept. 28; the second, in Hartford, Conn., on Oct. 17, and the third, in Spokane, Wash., probably on Nov. 4 or 5.

Want Case of 2 George Backers Explained.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—The senate campaign expenditures committee decided today to demand official explanation of the summary dismissal of two federal employés in Georgia who refused to aid President Roosevelt in his purge campaign there.

The committee said it would ask the national emergency council and the Reconstruction Finance corporation for their side of the story concerning the discharges. The men dismissed were Earle Cocke, Georgia NEC director, and Edgar B, Dunlap, RFC attorney at Atlanta, Ga.

Both Backers of George.

The two men said they were ousted because they supported Senator Walter F. George in preference to Lawrence Camp, his opponent for the Democratic senatorial nomination in Georgia. President Roosevelt urged Georgians not to return the veteran senator to congress and gave his blessing to Camp, a 100 per cent yesman.

Committee investigators reported today on charges of irregularities in the registration of voters in some Georgia counties. It was charged that voters had been given money to pay their poll tax in order to register for next Wednesday's primary election. The committee ordered a further investigation of the charges.

Senator Attacks Wage Law.

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—The American workman should beware of having his wages fixed by a bureau in Washington, Senator Walter F. George declared today in challenging the worth of the new federal wage and hour bill.

Senator George, who is expected to be renominated at Wednesday's primary despite President Roosevelt's attempt to purge him from the Democratic party, expressed doubt, in a campaign speech, that the law will work well.

"Although I voted for the measure," he said, "I would rather leave to the workers the right to fix their own wages through collective bargaining. I fear the outcome of the American worker having his wages fixed by any board or bureau in Washington."

Assails Cotton Loan Rate.

Senator George also assailed the cotton loan rate of 8.3 cents a pound recently set by the department of agriculture. He said that Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace's failure to fix the loan rate at the maximum allowable figure of 12 cents had convinced him that the discretionary power to set the loan level should be returned to congress.

Labor's unqualified indorsement of George was reaffirmed by George L. Googe, southern representative of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, in a speech broadcast over a state-wide hookup. Googe called upon members of unions and other workers as well to support the veteran senator in his fight against Lawrence Camp, Roosevelt's hand picked candidate.

The circulation of reports that Camp will be the virtual patronage dictator in Georgia regardless of the primary outcome today were attributed to a desperate last minute attempt to "black jack" federal officeholders into supporting the Roosevelt candidate.

G. O. P. OFFICIAL REPORTS $35,000 LEFT FOR FIGHT

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Republican nominees for the senate have a campaign chest balance of more than $31,000 to spend on the November election, a report to the clerk of the house so revealed today.

Robert V. Fleming, treasurer of the Republican senatorial campaign committee, said its funds already had gone into nine states in an effort to elect Republican senators this fall. The states are Pennsylvania, Iowa, Oregon, North Dakota, South Dakota, Indiana, Kansas, Colorado, and Delaware.

The Republican group said its $18,569 in receipts since June came from the Republican national committee, except for three individual contributors. These were E. T. Weir, Pittsburgh, Pa., $4,000; Nelson A. Rockefeller, New York City, $1,250, and Seward Prosser, New York City, $1,000.

TEXAS NOMINEE PLANS TO ERASE STATE POLL TAX

Fort Worth, Tex., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—W. Lee O'Daniel, Democratic nominee for governor, intends to abolish the $1.75 poll tax now levied as a voting qualification. He would install a registration system in its place.

O'Daniel could not vote in the recent primaries in which he was nominated, because he would not pay his poll tax. This, however, apparently served only to increase his popularity. Approximately 300,000 of the 1,300,000 men and women of voting age in Texas are disqualified from voting because of failure to pay the tax.

Other planks in O'Daniel's campaign were the golden rule, the ten commandments, and a pension of $30 a month for all citizens of 65 years or over.

Waves Dash 8 Yachts Against Shore at Racine

Racine, Wis., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Heavy southeast seas tonight dashed eight Racine yachts against the shoreline, damaging them to the extent of more than $5,000. The waves tore the craft from their moorings. Fifty other boats were towed up Root river to escape damage from the rough weather.

Lyons Homecoming

THE HOME FOLKS IN BRIDGEPORT TO GREET DICK LYONS

Old Chicago District Plans Big Doings Tomorrow.

The folks down in the old Bridgeport district will turn out tomorrow to welcome Richard J. Lyons, the Republican senatorial candidate, back home.

Things haven't changed much in the factory district north of the stockyards since Lyons was born at 1243 West 32d street in 1895. The old frame house where he and his twelve brothers and sisters lived still is standing. The present tenant, Frank Foldyn, will be on the reception committee.

Expect Old Families.

There also may be some of the present generation of the Maneys, Murphys, Lemners, Ruhnkes, Schultzes, Hogans, Melowskis, Cullens, Deinerts, Grabowskis, Powerses, Scripshinskis, Knapps, Craigs, Pipers, and Knasiaks. Those families lived in the neighborhood in 1895, and some of them still may be there. Lyons' father was a union teamster.

On the reception committee, besides Foldyn, will be Steve Kelly, Archer avenue undertaker; Albert Rossin, grocer; Thomas Maney of the Contractors' club; John Grabowski, grocer, and Tony Sobbe, who runs a meat market on Archer avenue.

Added to the committee yesterday was John Nering, retired Postal Telegraph company executive, who hired Lyons as a messenger boy after he had to leave school in the sixth grade.

Speaker's Stand Near Old Home.

The committee will meet the candidate at 31st and Morgan streets at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow and escort him to the speakers' stand in the shadow of his old home. The house has been decorated for the event.

Throop was Fox street when Lyons was born in Bridgeport, but that shift of names is one of the few major changes that have since taken place.

Some used to call Bridgeport "Goat Town," since most of the Irish families kept goats.

Z. T. DAVIS II. DEATH HELD NATURAL.

HOPKINS GIVES KENTUCKY ALIBI IN WPA SCANDAL

Admits Checkup of Voters' Lists.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Works Progress Administrator Harry L. Hopkins today replied with an alibi to the charges of the senate campaign committee that the WPA in Kentucky had engaged in flagrant political activity involving violations of the criminal code.

Hopkins had ignored a previous complaint from the senate committee, which demanded that he make an investigation of findings by the committee's investigators. Yesterday he received a sharp rebuke for his refusal to acknowledge the complaint, and today he felt called upon to answer it.

One of the main charges was that WPA timekeepers in Russell and Pulaski counties, working in behalf of President Roosevelt's "Dear Alben" Barkley, senate majority leader, checked the registration of all project workers to make certain that they could vote for Barkley. "Dear Alben" defeated Gov. A. B. [Happy] Chandler in the Kentucky primary.

Complaint Brings Checkup.

Hopkins' alibi was that the compilation of registration lists was done in response to a complaint, made by one of the primary candidates, that a preponderant number of WPA workers being certified were Republicans and that Democrats were being discriminated against.

"The proving or disproving of this charge required a check as to whether the WPA workers had Democratic or Republican party affiliations," Hopkins said in a letter to Senator Morris Sheppard [D., Tex.], chairman of the campaign investigating committee.

"The question of their preference for Barkley, Chandler, or any other candidate never was raised. The results were forwarded to our state office by the district director of district No. 2 and the state office gave the information to the complainant. There is no evidence of any other use of this material and I see no cause or reason for disciplinary action on my part for those who gathered this information."

Hopkins did not identify the complainant for whom the WPA assembled the registration data, but it unquestionably was Senator Barkley.

Hopkins, who piously and periodically chants a "no politics in WPA" refrain, denied most of the other charges made by the senate committee's investigators. Edgar Glover, a timekeeper on a quarry project, denied under oath, Hopkins said, that he required signatures of the workers on a paper pledging support of Parkley.

Wisconsin Charges Made.

After today's meeting of the committee, Chairman Sheppard said an investigator would be sent to Wisconsin as a result of charges concerning "the collection of large campaign funds and reports that funds are being solicited from WPA employés in connection with the contest in that state for the United States senate."

Senator Sheppard refused to disclose whether the charges involved Senator F. Ryan Duffy, a yes man Democrat favored by President Roosevelt, or one of the candidates in the National Progressive [La Follette] primary.

GERMAN STRATEGY.

The German Military academy not so long ago offered a prize for the best outline of an attack upon Czechoslovakia. The award went to Col. Conrad, chief of staf of the 18th army corps, stationed at Salzburg. His essay was published in Der Deutsche in Polen and is reprinted for American readers in the current number of the Living Age.

Col. Conrad is a disciple of Blitzkrieg [lightning war]. The job must be finished, he says, within a fortnight of the beginning of hostilities. In that time Prague must be taken and all armed resistance in Czechoslovakia must be utterly destroyed. If the Czechs can be knocked out in that time then the German forces can be concentrated for the defense of the western frontier against France. The idea is to hurl the overwhelming mass of the German army's striking power at Czechoslovakia and to rush in from all sides, regardless of the cost in men and material. The French mobilization, Col. Conrad believes, will be relatively slow and accordingly the French can be held with a relatively small force for about two weeks. If in that time the full German strength is available for a defensive war in the west, France may accept the destruction of Czechoslovakia as an accomplished fact and call it a day.

Events of recent weeks in central Europe suggest that a plan closely resembling Col. Conrad's is being pursued. He says that a large part of the troops to be used against Czechoslovakia will not have to be mobilized because they are already under arms and close to their battle stations. The mobilization of Germany's reserves has in fact gone a step beyond his proposal. The strengthening of the defensive works on the French frontier is in full accord with his scheme. It is expected, he says, that the action will take place in connection with "occurrences" in the Sudeten German territory and he counts upon infiltration of the area, in advance of the army, by "strong, illegal S. A. and S. S. troops." That, also, seems to be in preparation.

Col. Conrad thinks that Russian assistance to Czechoslovakia will prove of negligible value in a Blitzkrieg. British intervention does not enter into his calculation.

German air forces will be concentrated upon the destruction of Czechoslovakian cities and strategic centers. French cities will be bombed only by way of retaliation if the French raid Germany. The Germans, says Conrad, should avoid giving needless offense to the French, for that would arouse their war spirit.

Today the British are more or less committed to the defense of Czechoslovakia. The French army is in part mobilized. The British navy is mobilized and might be used to attack the German coast and open it to invasion. None of these factors entered into Col. Conrad's reckoning. The question naturally arises whether they will enter into Herr Hitler's calculations in the next few days or weeks.

THE SINKING POUND.

The pound sterling has fallen below the old pre-war and pre-depression par of $4.87. The decline has been from a high for the year of $5.04 and a peak for the last 5 years of $5.42. The fall has been due to the desire of people to have their funds in what looks like a safer place than London, when responsible British officials are dropping hints that Great Britain might go to war if Germany attacked Czechoslovakia.

In the world war the pound was stabilized at $4.76 as a result of British government borrowing collateral from her citizens to put up for collateral with J. P. Morgan & Co. After the war, when the peg was pulled out, sterling dropped to $3.19, and even a few cents lower than that after the gold standard was abandoned in 1931. One group of monetary theorists have attributed our declining commodity prices of the early '30s to the low pound.

If war talk could knock 18 cents off the pound price it would certainly be due for a sharp slide following the outbreak of hostilities. What in that eventuality would happen to the dollar? Nothing happened to the dollar last time, but we no longer have the system of money which was used in the United States before 1933.

Our gold supply in a war, which we stayed out of, would not shrink. But no one now pretends that we have a 59 cent dollar because we cannot support a higher priced one. If our neutrality meant what it did from 1914 down to our entrance into the war, and we sold supplies freely to those who could transport them, commodity prices would rise just as they did in 1915 and 1916. There would then be no basis for proposing further devaluation.

But if our neutrality meant no sales to any belligerents, prices would decline for American products due to the reduced demand. The pressure for devaluation would then be strong.

No one can say with any certainty what kind of a unit the dollar is going to be so much as a few years ahead. No one who lends money can be certain about what he is going to be paid off with. Making the determination of the medium of exchange an arbitrary prerogative of the chief executive, such as it is under existing law, turns long term investment into a gamble.

It has taken a bad war scare to shave 3½ per cent off the price of the pound. Mr. Roosevelt has retained unto himself the power to cut the price of the dollar 15 per cent without an emergency arising and without asking any one to approve of it.

THE WPA SURVEY.

Dozens of jokes about the WPA are current. They tell part of the truth about this extraordinary organization, but by no means all of it. If you were to believe the story tellers you would be forced to conclude that the men with the shovels were all loafers who wanted nothing better from life than a soft job and a bare subsistence wage.

The picture painted by official press agents and speech makers is equally false. They would have the nation believe that the WPA is an example of constructive statesmanship at its best, that it meets the problem of unemployment, that the work being done is uniformly useful and that the men and women engaged in it are being greatly benefited thereby.

Both presentations are false. The subject is too important both for the present and the future to permit public opinion to remain misinformed. It was to counteract prejudice and falsehood that the series of articles about the WPA, now appearing in THE TRIBUNE, was planned. It is hoped and believed that those who read the survey will be able to make a sounder judgment of the organization, its work and its future, than would otherwise have been possible.

It is already apparent that, left to the politicians, the WPA is bound to become worse and worse. It will be used to buy votes and build a corrupt political machine and in so doing will degrade and pauperize millions of citizens.

Letting in the light, as we are doing, offers the only hope. The WPA rolls contain the names of tens of thousands of men and women who are the genuine victims of misfortune. At the same time the WPA is supporting in virtual idleness the dregs of a continent, its wastrels, its ne'er-do-wells, and its incompetents. Under present arrangements the tendency is to forget the real interest of the unfortunates and create an organization to cater to the bums.

That will satisfy the political requirements of those now in power, but in so doing it will, and, indeed, it already has to a considerable extent, destroyed ambition and created a class of dependents who hope for nothing better. It is hoped that as a result of the survey ways will be found to enable the deserving men and women to find their way out of the slough of despond into which their government has thrust them.

THE TRULY GOOD PUT THE BITE ON DAVEY.

Gov. Martin L. Davey of Ohio, defeated in the primaries by the C. I. O. because he softened on keeping plants closed with state troops, is in bad with the federal social security board. The board threatens to take away the federal contribution to the old age assistance fund because Mr. Davey inclosed his Merry Christmas and good wishes with the checks sent the beneficiaries. This is the fund for old age pensioners to which the federal government contributes dollar for dollar with the state up to a $15 a month maximum.

The New Deal politicos have been squeezing every recipient of federal or state grants, subsidies and pensions to get all the votes out of them. They utilize even the squeal. The abuse of the WPA workers is already a national scandal. Every dollar that leaves the federal or any state treasury for New Deal purposes is intended to be registered in the ballot box for the New Deal candidates.

Some of the truly good of the Roosevelt revolution are being investigated by grand juries. Others are threatened with prosecution. Nearly a million dollars in relief funds has been sent into Georgia within the week to defeat Senator George. The commmunist Workers' alliance in New York has just yielded to Senator Sheppard of the campaign investigating committee and announced that, under protest, it relinquishes its attempt to shake down the WPA workers for $50,000. Senator Sheppard said he would insist on prosecution if they undertook to make the collection.

But Gov. Davey, unfortunately for himself, slid off the New Deal horse when he should have ridden it at the head of his troops to protect John Lewis' lawless strikers, and consequently his greetings and best wishes to the old age pensioners of the state are regarded as treasonable. If he had voted the pensioners for the New Deal he would not be in trouble with the truly good.

FOR A BETTER UNDERSTANDING.

A good deal is being heard these days about a better understanding with the English. We wish they would occasionally talk about a better understanding of the English.

Why do they call the hood of an automobile the bonnet? Why do they say petrol for gasoline and engine-driver for engineer? Why, for that matter, do they call a mechanic an engineer and a moving van a pantechnicon or a removal van? Why is the sound and sensible expression, freight train, converted into goods train and railroad tie into sleeper? If blood is thicker than water, why can't they say bloody without a shudder? And why shouldn't a well-bred person speak of his stomach?

We pause for a reply.

Editorial of the Day

BEWARE THAT WORD "TOY."

[Memphis Commercial-Appeal.]

Some newspaper reporter in Buffalo certainly stuck his neck a long way out when he used the word "toy" in his account of the opening of the National Model Railroad association's convention. The hundreds and thousands of American males who are spending their leisure time and their spare dollars on model railroad equipment these days are apt to grow umbrageous for a fact if the word "toy" is employed in connection with their hobby.

As these model railroaders will point out bitterly, their cars, engines, tracks, switches, and everything are built to precise scale and hence give a startlingly likelike impression of the real thing. The toy trains of various sorts may be and frequently are highly colorful, ingenious, and interesting, but they are not constructed with the hairline accuracy that marks the model railway and its equipment.

It is, you may think in your dense and complacent ignorance or unawareness, a small matter one way or the other, but it will stamp you as an ignoramus with no feeling for the higher and better things of life if you say "toy" to a model railroader. We mention it here for the benefit of those who would rather be right, especially if that also means being safe. These days and times, too, you never can tell. You are liable to run into a model railroader at any turn or curve in life's way.

Curtain Raiser.

An old war-horse of the aile seats on theatrical first nights, the editor of this column is pawing in his stall at the thought that the new playgoing season will open next Monday night with "Golden Boy," probably the only American play that ever brought its original cast to Chicago in one straight leap from London. This notation on our calendar reminds us of a characteristic anecdote about the late Percy Hammond, dramatic critic of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE for thirteen years and of the New York Herald-Tribune for fifteen.

His regular tickets to an opening night had been sold by an absent-minded box-office man, but the manager of the theater, with much fussing and fidgeting and apologizing, found him an even better location—two on the aile in the second row instead of the fifth. Between the acts the manager scurried down the aile and hovered over the critic, asking if he had found everything to his satisfaction.

"No; these seats are terrible," said Percy. "I can hear every word the author wrote."

Let 'Em Eat Grits.

Vacationer Rebecca Phillips, from Montgomery, Ala., says that Chicago would be a perfect place for a summer visit if its restaurants could supply "grits" for breakfast. "Don't you-all know about grits?" she asks. In homes, yes. Chain store groceries sell it as "hominy grits." And since many southerners come to Chicago for their summer holidays, the hotel chefs and stewards would do well to snap into this problem.

"Hew to Line" in 1860.

Early in Senator Conkling's political career he and a few of his close political associates in his home town, Utica, N. Y., edited and published a few issues of a "campaign organ" which carried at the masthead the slogan, "Hew to the line, let the chips fly where they may."

I believe this was in 1860, when Mayor Conkling [of Utica] was a candidate for congress. He took his seat in the special session called by President Lincoln July 4, 1861. Conkling's brother, Frederick A., also was a new member, representing a Manhattan district.

Roscoe Conkling possessed a very retentive memory and was wont to use favorite epigrams and phrases more than once; and I am sure he used "Hew to the line" in various speeches prior to his "nominating Grant" speech. W. Jones.

FRUIT PULP HEALING IN DIARRHEA.

WHEN diarrhea occurs in an infant or a young child, the rapid onset of the illness may prove alarming. Sometimes so much fluid is lost within a few hours that the patient may present the picture of despair. The attack may start with a sharp convulsion, for which the warm or tepid mustard bath is the best procedure. Of course, there is an infection within the digestive tract which is quickly manifest by loose and frequently foul smelling stools, grayish in color. If the malady persists unchecked for longer than twenty-four hours blood and particles of mucous lining may be discernible in the discharges.

For the last eight or ten years the raw apple diet has been recommended, and many favorable reports lend encouragement to the continued employment of that plan. Whether the effect is due to the increase in bulk within the intestine or to the presence of pectin—the substance responsible for jelling—is not clear. The chances, are however, that its success can be ascribed to the fruit acid, the bulky pulp, the tannin, and the pectin—all of which retain water, resulting in sizable, semi-solid stools.

Another remedy—comparable, in a sense, but differing somewhat in that it is more nourishing—is banana pulp. This preserves the normal acid of the stomach, which in turn is helpful in destroying the causative bacteria. Experimental animals fed upon this material can withstand numerous types of disease producing microbes without having diarrhea. This led to the trial in intestinal infections of both raw banana pulp and powder.

In a group of clinical cases the stools dropped from ten or twelve to three per day. Furthermore, the toxemia apparently decreased substantially. When the powder was employed, from three to six tablespoonfuls were given in each twenty-four hours, although of the ripe fruit an infant may be fed a total of two bananas a day.

The mixture is mashed, put through a fine sieve, and boiled with skimmed milk. Good results were noted, although many of these little patients were suffering from such complications as respiratory diseases, middle ear abscesses, or pneumonia. The advantage seemed to lie in better nutrition.

In another series, including some adults, the fruit was combined with dextrose and malt extract, and here older individuals did not show as prompt reduction in the number of stools as with the banana powder or banana alone.

Ten cases of dysentery due to the Flexner type of organism exhibited ten to twelve stools per day, which were watery, green, and specked with blood and mucus. With these youngsters protein milk and the banana powder were most helpful. Not only were there fewer bowel movements, but within twenty-four hours blood vanished. The toxemia disappeared gradually and the temperature fell correspondingly It was observed also that with a severe dysentery the raw fruit, in addition to being better relished, was much more healing.

We may infer, therefore, that banana feeding in diarrheal infections possesses many of the advantages of apple pulp. It has the further property of preventing weight loss, and its power to lessen the evacuations compares favorably with that of apple. Both powders are now available commercially, and if fresh, ripe fruit is not at hand, these preparations make reasonably satisfactory substitutes. If there is any difference in the efficacy of the two régimes, it would seem that the apple pulp stops the loss of fluids from the system more quickly, while the banana maintains nutrition.

Diarrhea is an unusually fatal manifestation in young children, particularly if accompanied by fever. Until the doctor arrives, all food should be stopped and boiled water only given by mouth. If vomiting is a prominent symptom, weak tea or lemonade may be retained. Warm to hot compresses over the abdomen will prove soothing.

TALKING IN SLEEP.

Mrs. E. S. writes: My 13 year old son—a calm, healthy boy—talks aloud in his sleep and has even got up and walked about. He does not eat before going to bed. What is the matter with him?

REPLY.

There are many factors—both physical and emotional—that should be studied. We have a leaflet on sleep disturbances in children which you can get by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

ABOUT MILK DRINKING.

Miss A. B. writes: Is the habit of drinking milk before going to bed more likely to put on weight than if it is taken at other times?

REPLY.

If there is any difference, nutrition is increased by the use of milk between meals. Bedtime may be one of these intervals—in between dinner and breakfast.

PART OF THE BRAIN.

R. W. writes: Where is the pituitary gland?

REPLY.

The pituitary gland is a part of the brain and projects from the lower portion. It is protected by the sella turcica and is composed of several parts. The ancients thought that this gland secreted nasal mucous.

WON'T AFFECT PAIN.

B. T. writes: Does bathing in Epsom salts relieve aches and pains?

REPLY.

No. If the solution is strong, water may be extracted from the body. This remedy is employed occasionally to reduce the swelling of painful joints.

SEND FOR EXAMPLES.

M. I. writes: You often speak of a balanced diet. Just what does this mean?

REPLY.

The various food elements in proper proportions. We have some sample balanced diets we will be glad to send on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

AVOID CONSTIPATION.

C. M. writes: Is it possible for hemorrhoids to reappear after an operation?

REPLY.

Yes. Operation removes the hemorrhoids, but the cause of the trouble still may exist. Avoiding constipation will go a long way toward preventing recurrence.

FOOD VALUE UNCHANGED.

M. C. writes: Does toasting bread remove any of its food value?

REPLY.

No. Toasting converts a small portion of the starch to dextrin [which has a sweetish taste], but does not change its food value.

IT TOOK ELEVEN YEARS TO GET THERE.

INNISFAIL, North Queensland, Aug. 15.—As keen students of oversea newspaper developments, we have read with great interest in "Editor and Publisher" of June 11 that your newspaper has commemorated its 80th birthday with the publication of a 790 page handbook entitled "Pictured Encyclopedia of the World's Greatest Newspaper."

In order that this unit of the Fourth Estate in a faraway corner of the world may further its study of the latest methods being pursued by the leaders of American newspaperdom, we are writing to ascertain where there is any method by which we could obtain a copy of this publication, and sincerely trust that you will not regard our inquiry as presumptuous. GEORGE GROOM,

A PURGE OF THE DICTIONARY.

Chicago, Sept. 7.—It looks as if we're about to have a purge of Webster's Dictionary. Why? Well, the President can't be wrong, can he? It seems that on Labor day Mr. Roosevelt betook himself to Denton, Md., to advise the electorate of the free state how they should vote in that state's senatorial primary. On two occasions in the course of his speech of enlightenment Mr. Roosevelt used the word "applicable." There is nothing unusual about that except the fact that he placed the accent on the second syllable rather than the first, the latter being the correct pronunciation according to the 1937 edition of the above named dictionary.

JOHN J. HOLLISTER.

SHALL THE PEOPLE HAVE A SAY?

Kankakee, Ill., Sept. 5.—So Ambassador Bullitt tells France, "The United States is with you in war." Just who is the United States? The people? Why not let the people say whether we are going to help France and England in another world war? I have thought the United States was to be neutral in event of another controversy "over there." Our country isn't over the effects of the last "war to end all wars" yet, to say nothing of the defaulted war debts. What if we abhor Hitler and his ideas? It doesn't directly concern us. Why should we send our husbands and sons and loved ones over there to be slaughtered?

MRS. R. F.

REMINDS HIM OF B. L. T.

Chicago, Sept. 7.—Personal nomination for the finest feature in THE TRIBUNE for these many years:

The Line o' Type as conducted by Charles Collins. To those of us old enough to remember the Gilbertian B. L. T. Mr. Collins is delightfully reminiscent of the line under the Taylor ægis. More power to C. C.—and to the W. G. N. JACQUES JARDINS.

AND BOTH LIKE DOGS.

Glenview, Ill., Sept. 6.—The article by Sigrid Schultz in your last Sunday's Graphic section was very interesting to me. One more similarity between Bismarck and Hitler is that they both love dogs. Bismarck was known for his love for Great Danes [Deutsche doggen] and Hitler loves German shepherd dogs. He has several of them in his country home.

L. R.

WAR MOTHER: "NEVER AGAIN."

Chicago, Sept. 5.—We are not going to fight any more wars in Europe, and the sooner Mr. Roosevelt finds that out the better. We must elect men to congress this fall who will forever settle this question. Mr. Bullitt and Mr. Kennedy do not speak for all the people, only for the President. AN AMERICAN WAR MOTHER.

AND THEN HE WAS DISCHARGED.

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 5.—A gardener in our city found himself out of work last winter and, needing money to support his family, he applied for a WPA project job and soon, with much enthusiasm was working in a nearby park with a group of WPA men. After a week of working [and it is definitly known he worked very hard, as he was wont to do] he began to notice that only he and one other worker, a Negro, seemed to be working.

Worried, he decided to appeal to the highest one possible, so he wrote to the President, saying he was surprised to find so few of the men working and that he thought it too bad the government paid out so much money with such response.

The letter was officially answered with a promise to "look into the matter carefully." Within two weeks of his sending the letter this man, an honest American, received his notice to get his pay check and leave.

This seems to me one of the most despicable acts of the present administration. The people should know of it and realize the waste of this crazed "New Deal party." P. E. H. III.

PRIMARIES AND PARTIES.

Baker, Ore., Sept. 5.—A correspondent says the President should not complain about the Idaho primary, since he himself was elected by the votes of Republicans in both 1932 and 1936. He should be informed that there is a difference both in law and in fact between an election and a primary; that an election is an opportunity for all to vote as they please, while a primary is an occasion when voters of one party choose their candidate. Members of the other party have no moral right to interfere with that choice. T. M. B.

WILL PICK UP CLOTHING.

Chicago, Sept. 7.—In answer to the man who complains that relief organizations are not interested in picking up clothing and shoes, I wish to advise him that, had he picked out a private organization, such as the Bohemian Charitable association, he would have received prompt attention and service. Some of the major organizations, and especially the Chicago relief, do not pick up used articles, as they have no system of distributing such articles. The Bohemian Charitable association picks up all such articles within twenty-four hours after being notified. CHARLES G. FOUCEK,

Secretary, Bohemian Charitable Assn., 2201 South Kedzie Avenue.

WHAT MR. BULLITT FORGOT.

Chicago, Sept. 7.—Dispatches say that the French were astounded at Mr. Bullitt's profound knowledge of Bordeaux wines. This refutes the general belief that our ambassadors are not sufficiently well versed in things that really matter.

The dispatches, however, were singularly silent as to whether Mr. Bullitt reminded his genial hosts that there is a slight matter of a few billion dollars still unpaid on our books.

Can it be that we are going to settle the debts for a case of Bordeaux and a kiss on the cheek to make us forget we were ever called Shylocks? E. A. J.

NOT TO BLAME FOR NEW DEAL.

Chicago, Sept. 6.—In your editorial, "Mussolini and the Jews," you, no doubt subconsciously, treated the subject from the very angle that we Jews are suffering from, everywhere and at all times.

Because Frankfurter and a few other Jews assisted Roosevelt in his fantastic movements, it doesn't follow that all Jews are to be held accountable. That generalization is unfair and unsportsmanlike. ALFRED DECKER.

TAX SALE.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Is it true that when one buys a tax sale lot one can never secure a clear deed at end of seven years? I do know that when one buys a tax lot one has to pay taxes for two years. I should think then if the former owner does not come forward he could never claim it. Can present owner secure a deed at end of seven years?

2. If a number of lots have been fenced in for about thirty years and taxes paid every year and some one comes along and claims a lot inside this fence, can he take this lot if it has been fenced in and taxes paid on it?

3. In case some one has lots all fenced in and on the outside of fence is five feet which owner did not fence in and on one side of this five feet is a road that has been there for about thirty-five years, if the village wanted to widen this road can they take this five feet away from owner? Does owner have to give it up or do they have to pay him for the amount taken? T. E.

1. The tax deed in itself is not regarded as a clear title, but if under the tax deed you go into possession, and pay taxes for seven years, you will have title by the statute of limitations, and you could clear this title by court proceedings. If you contemplate such an enterprise, we advise you to employ an attorney in advance.

2. On the facts stated, we would say that the party in possession has a title by the statute of limitations.

3. Rights in the property not fenced would depend on the facts as to adverse possession of that property. We advise you to employ an attorney.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

"PERPETUAL RIGHT."

Chicago, Sept. 8.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I would like to know [1] if the words "perpetual right" can be applied to a deed on a lake lot, and also would like to know the meaning of [2] perpetual right. 3. Is there any federal or state law against extending my bath house out 25 feet into the lake, whether it is Lake Michigan or [4] any privately owned lake? J. B.

1. This phraseology is not common, but if the deed grants the full interest in the property then the grantee certainly has rights, and in general, we would regard those rights as perpetual. We could advise to better advantage if you had stated the context in which you regard the words as having importance.

2. Perpetual means everlasting, a right would be a legal advantage enjoyed by the grantee in the deed.

3. Yes.

4. If the lake is non-navigable, your rights depend on the previous history of your title.

8 Other Joints Wrecked; Total Now 84.

Persistent bookmakers, who were operating in an old church at 1639 North Artesian avenue, were raided twice in an hour yesterday by state's attorney's ax squads. Nine raids during the day brought to eighty-four the number of bet dens wrecked in the present drive against gambling.

The old church had been converted into a lodge hall. The furniture belonged to the lodges, so it wasn't demolished. The handbook opened immediately after the raiders left, so they came back.

Make Raid Out of City.

For the second time since the Courtney gambling campaign started, a squad went outside the city limits. Sergt. Ernest Sloey raided and wrecked a place on the first floor of the Citizens National Bank building in Melrose Park. It housed slot machines, dice, poker, and blackjack layouts besides a handbook.

Other raids by Courtney's men were at 6412 Montrose avenue, 1229 North Paulina street, 3007 Lake street, 7630 North Paulina street, 4717 Madison street, 2031 Division street, and 1405 Howard street. All these except the one on Montrose were sneakers — places closed elsewhere and reopened—the prosecutor's office said. It was pointed out that the "coöperation" promised by the telephone company and announced by the state's attorney seemed to lack something.

Sheriff Busy in County.

Sheriff's forces under Lieut. Fred Mulhausen raided two places: 18064 Dixie highway, Homewood, and 13115 Western avenue, Blue Island. A squad from the Willow Springs county highway police raided a place at 31st street and Mannheim road, Proviso township, and another at Lawndale and Joliet roads, Lyons township.

Two more police captains were called in yesterday for a talk with Courtney. They are Capt. Charles Pawlowski of Shakespeare avenue and Acting Captain Patrick Brady of Grand Crossing.

CHEMIST LEAPS TO DEATH WHILE ON TRIP IN TEXAS

Ernest Borg, chemist and technical adviser for the George H. Morrill Ink company, 1445 Jackson boulevard, plunged to his death from a window on the 15th floor of a Fort Worth, Tex., hotel yesterday. A verdict of suicide was returned at an inquest held later.

Ernest Borg.

Borg, who had been employed by the ink company for twenty years, was in that city on company business, officials said. They were unable to give a motive for his act. Nor could his widow, Virginia, explain it.

Borg, who was 46 years old, lived at 3270 Lake Shore drive. His widow left for Los Angeles, Cal., where funeral services will be held. They had no children.

YOUNG SUSPECTS IDENTIFIED BY ROBBERY VICTIMS

Twenty robbery victims yesterday viewed eight young men at a police showup and identified one or more of them. The eight are held in the Albany Park station for questioning about more than 100 burglaries and robberies. Two of their victims were Phillip Stevens and Charles Alford, ice cream salesmen.

Hunt Stolen Car Driver Who Fled After Collision

County highway police were searching yesterday for the driver of a stolen automobile which overturned near La Grange road and Bryn Mawr avenue early in the day after colliding with another car. The driver fled into a nearby corn field. The driver of the other car, Philip Wehner, 202 Elmore avenue, Park Ridge, was uninjured. Police said the abandoned car was stolen Thursday in the loop. It is owned by Rudolph Singer, 18 South Dearborn street.

DOROTHY HUART.

Dayton Will and Dorothy Huart had been sweethearts for seven years. A few weeks ago they quarreled. She gave back his ring and tore up his picture.

Yesterday Will, who is 23 years old and lives at 1822 North Keystone avenue, went out to find Miss Huart. He met her near her home at 1803 North Karlov avenue, as she was on her way to work. He asked her to reconsider her rejection of him. She refused. "Haven't you a heart?" he cried. She said "No."

Will pleaded but she wouldn't listen. Finally, near Hamlin avenue and Cortland street, he drew a revolver from his pocket and shot himself in the shoulder. Physicians at St. Anne's hospital said he was not seriously injured. Miss Huart told police she thought Will had been bluffing. "I don't ever want to see him again," she said.

NEW YORK RAIL OFFICIAL HANGS SELF IN HOTEL

Michael M. Hubbert of New York City, general eastern passenger agent of the Great Northern railroad for nineteen years, hanged himself yesterday in his room in the Knickerbocker hotel, 163 East Walton street. He was 60 years old and had been in ill health. Hubbert's pajama clad body was found hanging by a towel from a hook on a bathroom door.

Edward H. Wilde of St. Paul, general passenger agent of the railroad, who was also stopping at the hotel, said Hubbert had arrived in Chicago Thursday evening to meet him. He knew of no motive for the suicide. Officials at Hubbert's New York office said he had been ill for two months but had showed no signs of despondency.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

DOWN THE WIND

By CALEB

THE OTHER DAY a faint smell of burning leaves blew across green yards, bringing news of impending fall. The wind that brought it bore no chill of autumn, but in spite of that, the old nostalgic twinge of other years was there . . . a purple dusk with the feel of frost in it . . . down the street the blue-white flames of gas lamps popping into view one by one in response to the nudge of a long rod in the lighter's hand.

Sounds penetrating the evening air with unwonted clarity. The resonant thud of a booted football, distant shouts, dogs barking boisterously, and from the kitchen of a nearby house, the pungent odor of potatoes frying.

Somehow in busy adulthood we seem to lose the keenness of that sense that means so much in younger days. The budding trees of spring, the sun-warmed, wild strawberries in summer, the wood smoke of winter from a distant chimney—and the slow, deeply satisfying scent of burning autumn leaves. Animals and youngsters learn much from life by their keen sense of smell. Wise Orientals retain that sense—blending with ceremonial intensity their incense and carefully brewed tea steeped with dried jasmine or orange blossoms. Still other folk absorb with intense joy the bouquet of fine wines. The gourmet tastes with his nostrils long before he touches food.

Only in the atmosphere of cramped modern life do we lose that keenness of scent. The smoke of a thousand stacks, and ten thousand automobiles dull it. Crowds choke it—heavy artificial smells stifle it.

Civilization supplants the subtle odors of nature with more pervasive artificial ones. The sense of smell, so capable of yielding pleasure, is sometimes lost in the busy labyrinth of cities. We need to recapture that lost sense—for to exercise it is to relax and rest. One must be still, his mind at ease, to sense and enjoy a delicate odor. Moist earth after a rain, thick steak above glowing charcoal, the bright tang of an inshore breeze, the sweetness of a subtle perfume, a bayberry candle burning beside a Christmas wreath, and stacks of yellow leaves in the autumn. To miss or forget all these is to live but half a life where beauty is concerned.

WHY NOT DANCE? U. S. PAYING PIPER AND WPA TUTORS

Absurd Projects Make Up Boondoggling.

[This is the ninth article in a series on the Works Progress administration. Three Tribune reporters spent weeks investigating this gigantic political machine. This article deals with the unbelievably ludicrous projects that constitute boondoggling.]

BY CLIFFORD BLACKBURN.

Are you unpopular at barn dances? Are you a wall flower? Maybe you are a bit clumsy. Clumsiness on the dance floor very quickly betrays you as a social dud. But you need be a wall flower no longer.

The niceties of the square dance have been taught this summer at Maywood's American Legion hall by instructors attached to the women's and professional division of the Works Progress administration. The government furnished the money.

Or perhaps you don't care for barn dances. Maybe you prefer something more intellectual, like chess. The WPA teaches that, too, at the Maywood public library. The government furnishes the money.

Toy Boat Building Taught.

And you can learn other things. It is very hard to stump the WPA teachers. If it's a creative diversion you want a WPA instructor who draws $94 a month teaches the mysteries of constructing model airplanes and toy boats. The government furnishes the money.

All these endeavors are known as public works. They are also known as boondoggling. But they are most generally known as WPA white collar projects, to distinguish them from construction projects.

White collar projects cover a big field. On such projects now in operation or recently completed in Cook county books have been rebound for the Maywood public library. The ordinances of Park Ridge have been codified and bound. Digests of fairy tales in north shore libraries have been made.

Sewing circles galore have been established. Referees for boxing matches have been supplied. And—back to the finer things—umpires for chess tournaments have been paid with government money.

Pay Servant Girls to Learn.

The WPA has paid servant girls for learning to be better servant girls. It also has paid the instructors who taught them to become better servant girls. And after the girls have learned how to wash dishes scientifically and to change diapers by formula, they are sent into the homes of people who are on relief to help overworked mothers with their young.

The headquarters of the women's and professional division is at the Merchandise Mart. Here, too, are hundreds of other white collar workers: Secretaries, stenographers, clerks, and bookkeepers who handle the maze of records of WPA activities.

The majority of the stenographers are rated as junior clerks and receive $85 a month. Many are senior clerks at $94 a month. Area supervisors in Cook county are paid $300 a month. The expense of keeping track of millions of shovel leaners throughout the nation is no small item in the soaring cost of WPA.

Pick Magnificent Quarters.

The state and district offices at the Merchandise Mart occupy 146,760 square feet of floor space on half a dozen floors. Though the WPA rents the space at a special low rate, the choice of the magnificent Merchandise Mart for this purpose has caused much grumbling and complaint in the ranks of WPA. The men believe that a more modest office building should have been taken.

They think there would be more money available for salaries if the WPA had remained in the building at 1310 South Michigan avenue where it started life. Others see a symbol of the WPA's growing political power in this move to swankier quarters.

And the WPA workers resent the headquarters staf for another reason: they have been forbidden to attempt to see any one at the Merchandise Mart unless they have permission in writing from the area supervisor. This, they feel, has denied them recourse to higher authorities to whom they formerly appealed injustices.

It is certain that this makes more absolute the power of foremen and superintendents and increases the tyrannies that have been found to exist on the projects. Thus the WPA construction worker is in a world apart from the white collar worker.

[The next article in the current series will appear in an early issue.]

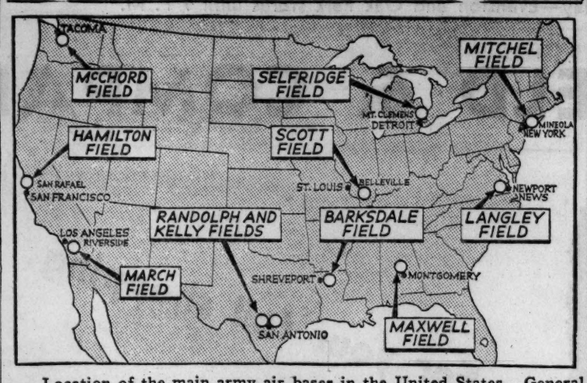
Illinois Becomes Army Air Capital



Location of the main army air bases in the United States. General headquarters of the army air forces are to be transferred from Langley field to Scott field at Belleville, Ill., as soon as new construction work is completed. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Belleville, Ill., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Workmen today virtually completed the wrecking of the old airship hangar and mooring mast at Scott field near here. The dismantling of the old buildings is part of a $5,000,000 program to rebuild the flying field and establish here the headquarters of the General Headquarters Air Force—the army air corps' fighting units.

At present the GHQ air force headquarters is at Langley field, Va., but tactical and strategical considerations resulted in orders for it to be moved inland. The Illinois city was chosen because of its central geographical location and the excellent potential flying field available here.

The old hangar for lighter-than-air craft is being removed because it constituted a flying hazard. The new construction on the field includes two barracks to house 720 enlisted men and noncommissioned officers, and officers' quarters to house seventy commissioned pilots.

DIVORCE REFEREE REFEREES PAWN TICKET DISPUTE

Vina and Victor Jones were fighting over some pawn tickets yesterday when they backed right into the courtroom of Thomas Sheehan, master in chancery. The master said that since he had been refereeing their alimony battle he'd referee the pawn ticket battle too.

Jones explained that he had pawned some jewelry. If his wife would just give him back the tickets, he said, he'd dispose of the jewelry and get the money to pay the $31 he's behind in alimony. His attorney, Norman Becker, said that was fair. And so the master ordered Mrs. Jones to give up the tickets.

Jones is 41 years old. He lives at 6216 Dorchester avenue. Mrs. Jones, who is 40, is suing him for separate maintenance.

URGE BRIDEWELL WING FOR USE OF POLICE, FIREMEN

Cite Surgeons' Record in Gunshot Cases.

BY GEORGE WRIGHT.

A new effort has been started to turn a section of the Bridewell, where physicians are trained to care for gun shot wounds, into a police and fireman's hospital. This action followed the death of Policeman Patrick E. O'Malley of the Damen avenue station, who was fatally wounded Aug. 21 in a gun battle with four bandits in a tavern at 2405 North Clark street.

Edward Denemark, superintendent of the Bridewell, said his facilities are always open to police or firemen wounded or injured in the line of duty. But police use the hospital only for bandits wounded in police battles, he added. It was suggested several years ago that a police and firemen's hospital be started at the Bridewell, but the plan never was realized.

Save Many Wounded Bandits.

The Bridewell has five physicians, headed by Dr. Andrew J. Toman as superintendent. This staf treats at least 175 gunshot cases a year, Denemark said. Many gunshot cases brought to the Bridewell are considered hopeless, the superintendent said, but his staf often saves the wounded bandit for his day in court.

"The Bridewell hospital is the only place in Chicago I would go to if I were shot," Denemark said. "I know what my physicians can do and the experience they have had in treating such cases. The neighborhood practitioner gets few gunshot cases and naturally hasn't the experience which our surgeons have. I do not understand why the police and firemen do not utilize our facilities for their own benefit as well as for the benefit of the crooks they fight."

The Bridewell hospital is provided with X-ray machines and all necessary equipment to treat gunshot wounds, the superintendent said.

Mrazek Cites Nitti Case.

Dr. Charles Mrazek, resident physician, pointed to some of the notable achievements by the Bridewell staf in gunshot cases. An outstanding case was that of Frank Nitti, Capone hoodlum. The police made a virtual sieve out of him in December, 1932. Nitti was shot during a raid on the then Capone loop headquarters. He was thought to be dead by the police when they handed him over to the Bridewell staf. He left the Bridewell hospital two weeks later.

Michael Reno was saved despite a bullet wound through the liver; Carmen Calabrese survived nine perforations of the intestines; Stanley Gaskins survived five such wounds, and William Sheridan and Fred Galloway each had two such perforations when turned over to the Bridewell staf.

BABIES ARE HUMAN BEINGS

An Interpretation of Growth

By C. A. ALDRICH, M. D. and MARY M. ALDRICH

"The greatest book since The Origin of Species. It is a revolutionary book, just as Darwin's was. It kicks over all the ancient rules about bringing up babies, and sweeps into the waste-basket the prohibitions which have been considered essential for successful children."—Howard Vincent O'Brien in The Chicago Daily News

Adams Writes British History for Americans

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Building the British Empire," by James Truslow Adams. [Scribners, $3.50.] Published yesterday.

James Truslow Adams, who has made American history almost as popular as novels to American readers, here turns his skilled pen to writing a history of the British empire for American readers. "Building the British Empire," the first of two proposed volumes, closes with the revolt of the American colonies.

With his usual minute thoroughness masked as a pleasant casualness Mr. Adams tells the life story of the "environment, ancestry, childhood, and adolescence" of the empire. He sees history as more than a list of battles won or lost, more than the biography of the nation's crowned or acclaimed heads. History in his pages is the story of geography and economics and health [or lack of it in the great plagues], of cathedrals and houses, of books, of the songs that men sang as they marched or worked—the story of a nation's character as well as its characteristics.

In his introduction he tells briefly but memorably what he believes that character to be. One is tempted to quote, but then almost all the eight pages would demand citation. One brief sentence: "The traits have been molded, I think, by four forces in large part—religion, sport, the ideal of the gentleman, and 'snobbishness.'"

A brief sentence gives no real idea of the book's persuasive interest for the reader, but may show Mr. Adams' skill in conclusions. "Another thread running through our tale," he writes, "has been the increasing devotion to personal liberty in which Britain led the rest of Europe."

"The British have developed their constitution continuously for some fourteen hundred years," he says at another point and explains what traits in a people make such development possible. He declares: "We in the United States have neither the fourteen centuries which the British have, so to say, 'banked,' nor have we their temperament." He then points to our "written constitution which to some extent trains people to act toward hasty and unwise legislation in the same way as history and character cause the British electorate to act instinctively."

Dramatic Stories Told in Two Doctor Books.

"I Swear by Apollo," by William E. Aughinbaugh, M. D. [Farrar & Rinehart, $3.] Published a week ago Thursday.

These two "doctor" books are fascinating less for the exciting medical and surgical reminiscences of their authors than for their physical adventures, dramatic and at times wildly melodramatic.

One purportedly is written by a Harley street surgeon ["The Healing Knife," the first of two or more pseudonymous volumes]. The other is by a Virginian whose mother was a Catholic nun in New Orleans and fell in love with his father, a private in the 5th Ohio volunteers, on the field of the Battle of the Wilderness, where she went as a Sister of Charity to succor the wounded.

"Dr. Sava" began his career really when, as a lad of 17, without knowledge of surgery, he removed with a clasp knife a bullet lodged between two ribs of a friend and saved his life. That was as they emerged from a battle as White Russians against the Bolshevilks. That moment determined him to be a surgeon. The adventures and the physical and mental tortures he went through to become the first non-Italian ever to be awarded a medical scholarship in Italy are marvelous to relate, and so incredible as probably to be true!

As a stoker in the medical school in Sofia he spent his night dissecting corpses in the morgue and sewing them together again so that it was months before his vandalism was suspected. He worked as a waiter in Paris and in Italy, starved, got a hemorrhaging stomach ulcer from improper food, did fantastically brilliant things as a student, and is either the most spectacular human being or the best Munchausen on Harley street.

Dr. Aughinbaugh has been even more places on earth than has "Dr. Sava"—South America, India, all over the West Indies. He started out as a boy of 11 from Jacksonville, Fla., when he talked his way onto a tramp steamer bound for a Caribbean journey. His experiences during the Mexican revolution are balanced by the record of his encounter with bubonic plague in India.

Dr. Aughinbaugh is a born story teller, and his experiences sound, like Dr. Sava's, sometimes almost too good to be true. Grim, sometimes grisly, humor is in these pages, but always and never failingly, exciting, often thrilling adventure.

Vivid Record of Man's Fight to Conquer Pain.

"Triumph Over Pain," by Rene Fulop-Miller. [Bobbs-Merrill, $3.50.] September choice of the Literary Guild.

The author of "Rasputin, the Holy Devil" [his most popular book] here uses the same vivid, animating style to tell the story of man's fight to conquer pain and to record fantastic hatreds and strange judgments.

Most of the book is devoted to the life-long battle between William Thomas Green Morton, a Boston dentist, and Dr. Charles T. Jackson, a famed Boston chemist, over who deserved credit for inventing anæsthesia. Involved by Dr. Jackson in the battle were Horace Wells, an older colleague of Morton's who had used laughing gas for the same purpose Morton used sulphuric ether—as a pain killer while he extracted a tooth—and Dr. Crawford W. Long, a Georgia doctor who anæsthetized a Negro and nearly got run out of the country for his devil doing.

The author tells of the strange, violent lives of all of them, concluding: "We are almost forced to believe that a mysterious doom, like that of a Greek tragedy, rested upon those whose lives were devoted to the conquest of pain. All of them, without exception, paid for their quest in health, happiness, repose, or reason." And Herr Fulop-Miller misses none of the nuances of that mysterious doom.

Informative Book on Problems of Rearing Children

BY DR. IRVING S. CUTTER.

"Babies Are Human Beings," by C. Anderson Aldrich, M. D., and Mary M. Aldrich. [Macmillan, $1.75.] Published Tuesday.

The authors of most of our manuals dealing with the rearing of children have laid down rather rigid rules of procedure. Dr. and Mrs. Aldrich have severed these steel-like bands and have convinced us with common sense reasoning of the rationale of treating infants as though they were people—not things. For the first time we have—in handy book form—a clear cut exposition of the development of the child, the whys, hows, and wherefores.

This charmingly written narrative permits us to visualize the personalities of the authors who write as they talk. Then too there is a quizzical, dry humor—in delicate shading—which permeates every page. So refreshing is the point of view that parents may read the book at a single sitting, going back to it later for more critical perusal.

A chapter deserving special mention is that entitled "The World Comes to the Baby." The discussion on "Babies Are Different" will come as quite a rude shock to those who would have every one conform to a set standard. Several beautiful illustrations from photographs by Frank E. Selfridge are included.

All in all, this is the most stimulating book on infants that has appeared in many a day. Logical in arrangement and development, it will excite much thought and create great interest in those who desire to preserve orginality and individuality in their children.

Thrills Abound in New List of Mystery Tales

"The Case Without a Clue," by Nigel Morland. [Farrar and Rinehart, $2.]

"Tread Softly," by Brian Flynn. [Mill, $2.]

Nigel Morland's gruff, hardboiled Mrs. Pym, Scotland Yard's first feminine sleuth, and Brian Flynn's suave and humorous Anthony Bathurst, solve two baffling British mysteries. Both hinge on unusual uses of poison—one in honey and the other in a set of false teeth.

In "The Case Without a Clue" Mrs. Pym's old friend Dick Lodden, London newspaper man, again is her greatest aid in untangling a complicated political tangle, woven about two murders and two tragic deaths by accident. Mrs. Pym stalks through the pages in her usual brusque and grimly humorous fashion, making the story a lively bit of reading.

Anthony Bathurst, one of the most likable of fiction crime detectors, solves one of the most intricate and puzzling mysteries Scotland Yard ever had to face. It starts with the voluntary confession of a London film star that he strangled his wife—while he was dreaming. The actor is acquitted, but another murder follows and if the reader can guess the how, why, and who of that death he's an ace mystery solver. A. C.

Thrills and Romance Blended in This One.

"Mr. Zero," by Patricia Wentworth. [Lippincott, $2.]

Thrills and romance go hand in hand through Patricia Wentworth's new thriller of the English countryside. Lady Sylvia Colesborough, beautiful but dumb, is blackmailed by the sinister Mr. Zero into stealing important papers from the home secretary at one of those indispensable English week-ends. The situation is made more complicated by the murder of Sir Francis Colesborough, the stupid lady's husband. Gay Harwicke, Sylvia's long suffering friend, and Algy Somers, the love interest, are dangerously involved in the tangled affair before the mysterious Mr. Zero is unmasked and all the innocent persons exonerated. C. J. W.

These Two Puzzlers Chock Full of Action

"Once Too Often," by Whitman Chambers. [Doubleday-Doran, $2.]

"They Can't Hang Me," by James Ronald. [Crime Club, $2.]

Once again, with the same fast movement and dialog of "13 Steps," Whitman Chambers kills a man of consequence, then nettles his readers for three hours before he unveils the murderer. Instead of a mystery story, this is well called a realistic novel of murder, for it tops the average mystery by several strata of writing competency. Most of the characters are newspaper people and Mr. Chambers is completely at home with them.

They didn't hang him either, this super-murderer in "You Can't Hang Me." You'll think he's the murderer, anyway, until you reach the last few pages of this thriller with a Fleet street setting. It is one of those mysteries where the murderer inserts obituary notices of his victims while they are still hale and can read them. Not even Scotland Yard could handle the situation, to its own mortification and that of the home secretary, until an odd Scotch amateur came along and solved the case in the Sherlock Holmes tradition. Good Weather Today Is Wish of Debutantes

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE weather has not been too kind to the families giving debut teas this week, especially to those who had hoped to have their parties out of doors. Some solved the problem of entertaining on the lawn despite gray skies and damp grass by laying yards and yards of green carpeting to protect their guests' shoes, as the Thomas Shea Bulgers did for their daughter, Jane's tea on Thursday.

The four families introducing daughters today optimistically are looking for good weather. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Day Farwell, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard D. Karcher, Mr. and Mrs. Everett D. Graff and Dr. and Mrs. Robert H. Herbst are giving teas this afternoon. Miss Edith Farwell, Miss Barbara Willson, Miss Alice Graff and Miss Dorothy and Miss Ruth Herbst are the debutantes.

Mr. and Mrs. Farwell and their daughter will receive from 4 until 7 o'clock at their Lake Forest home. After the party, at which there will be dancing, the debutante and her assistants will scatter to various evening affairs.

Miss Marion Farwell, Miss Jane Harper, Miss Virginia Ballard, Miss Natalie De Clerque, Miss Georgette Hill, Miss Jane Cheney, Miss Carolyn Chapman, Miss Phyllis Peter, Miss Sally Lawson, Miss Marie Louise Richards, Miss Jane Allen and Miss Mary Adams are assisting Miss Farwell. Some of them were at the North Shore Country Day school with the debutante; others are returning with Miss Farwell to Vassar later this month.

Plan to Dance at Graff Debut.

There is to be dancing, too, at the tea Mr. and Mrs. Graff are giving in their Winnetka home for Miss Alice. Several of the bud's former classmates at the North Shore Country Day school will be among the assistants. Later this month Miss Graff will leave for Smith colloge where she will be a freshman.

The Karchers are not taking any chances on having bad weather spoil the party for her daughter, Miss Willson, so they are having both tea and dancing indoors in their new Barrington home. Two of Miss Willson's schoolmates at the Knox school have come to assist at the party, Miss Peggy Wing of Mamaroneck, N. Y., and Miss Jane Brooks of New York.

Also assisting will be Miss Katherine Stenson, Miss Betty Mead, Miss Sara Peace, Miss Lois Thompson, and several others. Most of the assistants and their beaux as well as "lingering" guests will stay on after the tea to have a buffet supper and to continue dancing. Miss Willson is not returning to Knox this fall, but will stay at home to enjoy the debutante whirl and to study music.

Make Provisions for Dancing on Lawn.

Dr. and Mrs. Herbst are making provisions to have dancing on the lawn of their Highland Park home at the tea they are giving for their daughters. Mrs. Herbst is to have Mrs. Henry Farbach of Anchorage, Ky., assisting her. Miss Sophia and Miss Marianne Farbach, who, with their mother, are visiting the Herbsts, will be among the debutantes' assistants.

The Herbst house is filled with guests, for Miss Margaret Atkinson of Minneapolis, a classmate at the Milwaukee-Downer seminary of the Misses Herbst, has come to assist at the party. Other assistants are five Milwaukee friends who are coming down for the day, Miss Claudia Uihlein, Miss Jane Leedom, Miss Alice Joys, Miss Frances Bartlett, and Miss Helen Noyes.

Miss Jean and Miss Barbara Tennant, who are entertaining at dinner and dancing at the Exmoor Country club tonight for the Misses Herbst, and the Tennant twins' house guest, Miss Sarah Jane Avant of St. Louis, also will assist and so will Miss Peter, Miss Lorraine-Marie Roach, and Miss Marjorie McDonald. Miss Ruth Herbst will return to Milwaukee-Downer next Tuesday for her last year. Miss Dorothy Herbst will study art at home this winter. Mrs. Frederick Shafer is giving a luncheon party

Katherine Bulger Will Be Bride

The Bulger family is a busy one this year, for the younger daughter, Miss Jane Cecile Bulger, is a debutante. Miss "Kay" was among the assistants at her sister's tea last Thursda y.

Fluffy Angora Jackets Defy All Competition

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Fashion tidbits that take little from your clothes allowance but that make mighty impressions wherever you wear them are the special joy of the budget watching shoppers. And some new fluffy little fuzzies come under that classification.

For the essence of fluff and the highest of decorative spice we recommend the angora yarn jackets and boleros. For blonde, copper top, or brunette these rib huggers can't be beat. The white affairs have a way of making supersirens out of all, while the pastels and colored numbers do everything in the way of feminine flattery.

Looking like nothing so much as whipped cream, these trifles in white or bonbon tints are deadly competition for the less fuzzy sweaters and other trivia labeled bolero or extra jacket. Sleeves are short. Lines are perfect, though brief. Everything is concentrated fluffy yarn. Prices are gentle, but there are some expensive finds for the spendthrift. Such slick little heating units are not only effectively decorative over a dress but can lead a double life as a bed jacket should you weary of the daytime idea.

Some have been hand knit, but the less expensive numbers are so cleverly copied that it would take an eagle eyed expert to detect the difference between the ten fingered purled and knit concoction and the simulated models. If you're nimble witted as well as, yes—nimble fingered—you can buy your own fluff and knit your own. At any rate you'll want to own one of these angora confections.

Mittens and matching skullcap also are available. There are berets and some pill box hats made of this angora yarn to please the shoppers who haven't the head for the skullcaps or "dinks." All colors, with some contrasts against snow white, will take your cash!

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Returned from a couple of weeks of meditation and mountain viewing, we find two outstanding bits of news stirring up the beauty world.

The first, and most important, is the sensible acceptance of reconditioning programs, both for skin and for hair. The very first thing you must do, now that summer is over, is to get your complexion back to the lily-white and satin-smooth stage.

There is no place on the fashion and beauty landscape this winter for the outdoorish looking girl. You've got to look as though you'd swoon if any one said "Boo!"

If you can afford it, hie yourself to the beauty salon, there to get the professional oiling and bleaching that gently removes the summer tan and refines the sun-coarsened skin. Have reconditioning treatments for your hair, too, so that your autumn permanent will leave it silky, shiny and pliable. It will have to be dressed with an old-fashioned quaintness, and only perfectly conditioned hair adapts itself to that.

If professional treatments are out, take to lubricating creams for home use. Soak yourself in rich creams so that no trace of dryness mars the fairness of your complexion. Those with lethery skins will have to hide out this winter.

You can recondition your hair yourself, too, if you really work at it. Brushings, massage, and the right shampoos will restore glory to the sun-dried locks.

After reconditioning you must consider the new makeup. Fair skin, dark eyes and lip rouge in the purplish tones—plum, grape, winey reds. You'll look mysterious as anything. But none of these new shades will work unless your skin is right. You can't have a fashionable face unless you have a fashionably fair complexion.

The ceremony will be performed at 4 o'clock in the chapel of St. Paul's By-the-Lake Episcopal church with only members of the family and a few close friends present. A small reception will follow at the home of the bride's parents.

Mr. Harwood and his bride will go to New Orleans on their honeymoon and they will live in Homewood. Miss Stavrum and Mr. Harwood attended the University of Wisconsin.

Eight year old Fanny Forsyth Parsons was her aunt's only attendant at the marriage yesterday in Harrison, N. Y., of Miss Kitty Wickes and Ralph H. Poole Jr. Abram Poole was his nephew's best man. The bride wore a lovely gown of plaited white satin. Canon Pritchard of St. Mary's church in Mount Kisco officiated.

Only members of the immediate families attended the wedding but there was a supper dance later for the younger friends of the bride and bridegroom. The wedding and the dance took place at the home of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Parsons. The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Forsyth Wickes of New York and Newport and the bridegroom's are the Ralph H. Pooles of Lake Forest.

Young Mr. Poole and his bride will live in St. Augustine, Fla.

Crunden Cole and Wallace Cole Jr. of St. Paul, Minn., John Festus Wade Jr. of St. Louis, Mo., cousins of Miss Elizabeth Skinner of St. Paul, and her brother, William Wood Skinner Jr., will be ushers at the wedding in Fish Creek, Wis., today of Miss Skinner and Paul Walter Guenzel. Mr. Guenzel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Guenzel of Lake Shore drive, will have his uncle, Walter P. Paepcke, for best man.

Little Libby Wade, the bride's cousin, and Ruth Wilms, cousin of the bridegroom, will be flower girls. The wedding is to take place at noon at the Episcopal church, where the bride's parents were married, with a breakfast following at the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Frank P. Crunden of St. Louis. Among the few guests at the quiet wedding will be the Guenzels, the Paepckes, and Mr. and Mrs. Hermann P. Wilms, cousins of the bridegroom. Mr. Guenzel and his bride will live in Chicago.

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

From Berlin to Brazil, Indiana.

New York, Sept. 10.—Irving Berlin and Earl Carroll, from the Hollywood lots, arrivals on Broadway. . . . They came in on the American Air Lines' Mercury. . . . Said Berlin: "Listen, Ed, don't think that Zanuck and Joe Schenck and I will ever forget that you were the first writer to say that 'Alexander's Ragtime Band' would be a smash hit. After the picture started clicking, the rest of them climbed on the bandwagon, but you said so the night of the preview and you didn't hedge on that prediction. Hollywood thought it was a flop; you thought it was a smash hit and said so. You were right and I'm as pleased for your sake as for mine."

There was a double knock on the hotel door. . . . Wayne Morris. . . . Johnny Scat Davis. . . . Just in from Hollywood, and Morris, on his first trip to the big city, was brimming over with adjectives. . . . "Terrific," he gasped. . . . "Or colossal," suggested Scat. . . . "Sensational," said Morris. . . . Earlier in the afternoon we'd gone up to the Yankee stadium, the house that Ruth built, for the police athletic league games which are staged annually for the youngsters. . . . On the way back a police car whistled us along, its siren screaming, making the trip in nine minutes flat. . . . The faces of Morris and Scat were a study in emotions as we ducked in and out of trolley cars, eased past trucks.

Finally Al Rosen, manager of Loew's State, spoke up chokingly from a rear cushion: "It is all right if Sullivan misses the next show," he told the driver. . . . Harriett Hilliard nodded assent to that. . . . "No, it isn't," said the driver, "my wife is seeing the next show and she's gonna see the whole thing."

Wayne Morris, Johnny Davis and Harriet Hilliard are typical Hollywood success stories. . . . Morris comes from Los Angeles. . . . Davis hails from Brazil, Ind. . . . Harriet got her start right on Broadway, at the Hollywood restaurant. . . . But let's take 'em one at a time.

Morris was janitor and ticket seller at the Pasadena Community Playhouse and occasionally he filled in as an actor. . . . He filled in in forty plays, and in thirty-nine of the forty draymas he wore a beard. . . . In the one play in which he wasn't wearing a beard as upholstery, Irving Kumin, of Warner's happened to be in the audience and that's how Morris got into the movies. . . . Not that he jumped in feet first. . . . In "China Clipper" he had one closeup but it whizzed past so quickly that his relatives had to look quick to see him. . . . His aunt bent down to retrieve a handerchief and never did believe that her nephew had been on the screen.

"I didn't have much to recommend me when I asked Seton Hall to write in a part for me in 'Kid Gallahad,'" recalled the 195 pounder. "But I'd read the story and I was sure that I could play the lead if they'd only give me the chance. I went to Sam Bischoff and told him about it. I went to Director Mike Curtiz. They all promised to think it over, and finally they gave me a screen test.

"As a result they gave me the part in a 'B' picture and I was heartbroken. After I finished that they gave me the lead in 'Gallahad.'"

His biggest thrill? "The night of the preview in Beverly Hills. I was never so rattled in all my life. I remember that after the picture a kid asked me for an autograph, the first autograph anybody ever had asked me to sign. He gave me a pencil and his book. I threw the pencil away and put the autograph book in my pocket and didn't realize what I'd done until the kid said, 'O, a wise guy, huh?'

"My mother was even more flustered than I. Next morning we were having breakfast and a neighbor called up to congratulate my ma. My mother picked up the receiver and started DIALING. We were all a little punch drunk."

Scat Davis, like Harriet Hilliard, Alice Faye, Tony Martin, the Lane sisters, Phil Harris, Leah Ray, Dorothy Lamour, and twenty others owes his movie career to bands. . . . A lot of bands in general and Fred Waring's band in particular, because when Fred Waring went to the coast to make a picture, Davis was one of his singers and they grabbed him fast.

"Ed Frawley, now a Chicago hotel vice president, really had as much to do with it as any single person," recalled Davis, sipping a Scotch and soda. . . . "I'd gone up to the Park Central to see Red Nichols and he got me to sing a few songs. 'Sign him up,' Mr. Frawley told Nichols. 'What do I use for money?' Red asked him. So Mr. Frawley gave him extra money to cover my salary. From there I went to Fred Waring's band and I was 'in.'"

Davis, the Brazil, Ind., boy who clicked under the Kleigs, has his own peculiar singing style, and in the present era of swing, he is hot stuff. . . . His "Ho-ray for Hollywood" found immediate favor with the jitterbugs, and if he'd ever do a "A Tisket A Tasket," he'd kill them stone dead in their seats.

Good Morning!

The glorious voice of a young Swedish tenor is making business boom for the Julian these days.

The singer's name is Jussi Björling and he's not unknown in America, having sung here in concert and over the radio. Now, I believe, he has a contract with the Metropolitan Opera company. He's no matinée idol, though pleasing enough to look at, BUT—WHAT a voice!

"Fram for Framgang" is an entertaining aria punctuated comedy drama, distinguished by excellent acting and boasting quite as good a story as do most films of its ilk. Its leading man, Ake Ohberg, is quite as personable as any Hollywood output and the leading woman, Aino Taube, while not beautiful, has charm and delightful spontaneity. Jussi is principally there because of his voice. This makes him a necessary cog in the plot.

He, an actress, a playwright, and a newspaper editor become involved in a series of happenstances that carry them far and wide, present them with strange and sometimes laughable difficulties, and result in a finale that the audience of which I was one found pleasing.

The action is explained by English titles that are enlightening enough, but, one regrets to state, poorly spelled and awkwardly constructed.

An American newsreel and a very long Swedish "short" showing how steel is manufactured complete the program.

Tenderfoot's Inheritance

By Marie De Nervaud

SYNOPSIS.

Anne Claxton arrives from New York at the Wyoming ranch she has inherited, after refusing the last minute proposal of her city beau, Gerald. Steve Hayward, neighbor ranch owner, tells her that Jake Collins, who owns the adjoining ranch, expects to buy her heavily mortgaged ranch, but her uncle never would sell to him. Anne determines to stay and fight. She is immediately attracted to Steve, but Gwen Collins, Jake's daughter, shows a proprietary attitude toward him. She wins over old Tim Salter, her uncle's foreman, and Whitey, a handsome ranch hand. She finds the house in disorder and a gun missing from the rack. Tim thinks Collins had been there and threatened her uncle with the gun and that her uncle died from a heart attack. Collins calls with Lawyer Bill Jennings and turns ugly when she refuses to sell. When Steve advises her to sell she is cool to him. He is offended and jealous of Whitey. Anne expects her former boss, Mr. Trainor, and his family as paying guests at the ranch. Collins serves notice that he is going to fence in the water holes, which he claims are on his property. Whitey takes Anne to a local dance. Jake Collins, drunk, insults Anne. Steve fights him. Anne runs off without thanking him. She writes him a note but receives no answer. Anne tactfully refuses a proposal from Whitey. Gerald arrives unexpectedly to visit Anne. She makes him stay at the hotel in town. Steve obtains from Gwen a rusty gun she'd found in cleaning a well. It is the gun that was missing after old man Claxton's death. The Trainors arrive. Anne takes the two little girls to town with her to hire a cook, where she overhears talk of a plot against her. Back at the ranch she learns Mr. Trainor and his two sons are camping out overnight. Fearing for the Trainors if Collins plans a raid on her cattle, Anne rides out to warn Tim.

INSTALMENT XXX.

THE HERD DISAPPEARS.

Anne cut short Tim's "Why should anything happen to the Trainors?" with an account of what she had overheard, and her fears. "It wasn't until just as I was going to bed," she ended, "that I thought what that 'too late' might mean. Perhaps it's all crazy, but I have to hear you say so."

Tim swore softly to himself before he spoke. "I ain't so sure," he said at last. "Jake Collins is capable of pullin' it off, if he can get some one to hold the bag in case it don't work. It would sure cripple us to lose that cattle! I reckon we'd be smart to play yore hunch, right or wrong. We'll head back, and rouse the outfit. Yuh and the Trainors can beat it for the ranch with one of the bunch, and then if Jake Collins is stagin' a raid, let him come! We'll be ready. If it's all a false alarm, why, no harm's done, jest a few hours' sleep wasted."

More confident than she had felt in a long time, Anne fell in beside Tim and the two galloped back across the mesa.

During one of their breathing spells, Anne told Tim her feeling about making a clean breast of the whole situation to Mr. Trainor.

"It's only fair to have him know, isn't it? Now that we're sure Jake Collins means business, he has to know the whole situation."

"There's never been any doubt about Jake Collins meanin' business," Tim said. "I've been puttin' off tellin' yuh, but yuh may as well know that he's fenced in the water holes. I've been hangin' on to Whitey not to bring things to a showdown yet. I didn't want yore dudes to land here in the midst of a range war. We can get on without those water holes till the end of July or so. It's time enough then for a showdown.

"I see now why you had the roundup here instead of on the north range!" Anne cried. "O, Tim, why didn't you let me know?"

"'Tain't a woman's end of things," Tim declared stubbornly. "Yuh've got enough on yore hands with yore dudes—I mean, guests," he grinned. "If I'd suspicioned that there was any chance of dirty work at the roundup, I wouldn't've let 'em stay."

Anne turned over in her mind how she would explain to Mr. Trainor why she hadn't told him before about Jake Collins. If she had only made a clean breast of it at first! Thoughts whirled through her head at the same reckless pace that Tim set for the horses.

"How much farther is it?" They topped another rise, and the darkness was still unbroken by any glow of firelight.

"We ought to spot the camp in another fifteen minutes. On account of the Trainors bein' there, I set it about a quarter of a mile back of where we was doin' the brandin'. If they'd been too close and the wind had shifted, it might have kinda taken the edge off their fun. The main herd is down below there with Whitey and Ralph, one of the new guys ridin' herd on 'em. The Trainor boys were hell bent to do some night ridin', too, but I set my foot down on that. Believe me, the old man was ready to hit the hay!"

"Thank goodness you made the boys turn in with him," Anne said. "Look! What's that?"

She pointed to a dim distant glow of light.

"That's the camp fire," Tim squinted at it. "I told the boys to pile on the brush and keep it goin' good and strong. We'll head around here to the left, so's to put Whitey wise to the fact there might be trouble. Then we'll rout the Trainors out, and send the rest of the outfit down for reinforcement."

Tim set a faster pace. Presently he said, "Yuh ought to be hearin' the herd pretty soon, now. I'm surprised that bass of Whitey's hasn't bellowed out before this."

"Is it really true that punchers sing at night, with the cattle?" Anne asked. "I always had an idea that books just made that up. Of course, they might sing sometimes, when they felt just like it, but——"

"It ain't only because they feel like it that they sing," Tim interrupted. "There's a danged good reason for it. When yuh're ridin' herd with another guy at night, yuh like to keep track of where he is. Yuh ride around in opposite directions, and if yuh don't pass each other every so often, you want to know the reason why. If yuh hear his voice bellowin' forth in song yuh know everything's O. K. It kind of breaks the monotony, too, but that ain't the main reason for all the show of talent." He slowed down to a walk. "Listen, and yuh'll hear one or both of 'em."

Anne peered into the blackness, straining her ears for the reassuring sound. The glow of the camp fire, now on their right, was the only evidence of human presence in the vast velvet spaces.

"I don't hear anything," she said. "Perhaps the wind's in the other direction."

"It ain't," Tim muttered. "It's all fired queer. Yuh wait here!"

Before Anne could answer, she was alone, with galloping hoofbeats ringing in her ears. Panic caught her, communicating itself to Rocket. Even if she'd wanted to wait, she couldn't have controlled him, as he took the bit in his teeth and raced after Tim.

For the next few minutes, Anne's fears were lost in the all-important problem of staying in the saddle. One hand frantically clutching the horn, she gripped with all her might on the reins, but it was the sudden halt of Tim's horse that brought a stop, rather than her own efforts.

"I couldn't hold Rocket in, Tim!" she gasped. "I had to follow. Are we almost there?"

"We are there." Tim's voice went harsh and strained. "The herd's gone."

For a stunned moment Anne listened to Tim hallooing. She had a feeling that she couldn't have understood what he said.

Tim broke off his strident calls which brought no answer, and turned to Anne.

"Can yuh get up to the camp on yore own? They can't hear me against the wind. Yuh stay put up there with the Trainors, and send the rest of the outfit down to me. I've got to scout around for Whitey and Ralph!"

"Whitey!" Anne gasped. "You mean he might be—might be——"

"Nobody's gettin' away with a herd from under Whitey's nose, without puttin' him out of the way first. I don't mean," Tim pulled up short at Anne's horrified cry, that he's hurt bad, but they must've got the drop on him and Ralph and hog-tied them so's they couldn't interfere."

"I've got to help you find Whitey!" Anne drew a shuddering breath. "Don't you see it's all my fault? Don't send me off, Tim, till we find him!"

"The best way to help Whitey is to get the outfit down here, pronto," Tim sternly pulled her up. "Are yuh goin' or not?"

"Yes, yes, I'll go," Anne wheeled Rocket about, "but I'm coming back."

Tim's answering words were lost in her rush toward the high ground where the campfire gleamed like a beacon light.

There was a gradual coming to life of the mummy-like figures in blankets stretched within the circle of the fire's warmth, as Anne topped the small plateau.

Another moment and she was in their midst, trembling and clinging to the pommel of her saddle as she brought out the story of the disappearance of the herd.

GASOLINE ALLEY—CATCHING UP ON HOME WORK

Cold, Unloving Mother Cheats Her Children

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

As I've so often said, there's hardly a conversation that doesn't, sooner or later, get around to children. The things I hear! If I only dared pass them on to you, but I would be violating too many confidences.

"I could almost say I hated my mother," said a woman in her late 30s [so far past those childhood days, yet still remembering]. "Perhaps I was a little imp. But, even so, she didn't have to whip me—yes, whip, I mean—for everything I did. Not that she got anywhere; she just made me worse. But my father could do anything with me. He'd just put his arm around me and talk in a quiet, loving way and I'd melt. How I loved him!"

I've heard a number of women say—and had many write me: "I never loved my mother."

What a terrible indictment such a confession is!

Different women who make it attribute their lack of filial love to different causes. In several cases I knew the mother was cold toward her child, never showing in any way that she loved her. In one or two other situations the mother was constantly punishing her daughter.

In another case the woman cannot remember a time when her mother praised her.

Good Weather Today Is Wish of Debutantes

at home in Lake Forest tomorrow for the two buds.

Other parties on the debutantes' week-end calendar include a gay cocktail party two popular young beaux, John Nacey and Daniel H. Burnham Jr., are giving this afternoon. Mr. Nacey and Mr. Burnham are entertaining in the attractive basement bar of the Cedar street home of Mr. Burnham's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Burnham.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Fairman are giving a luncheon at their Winnetka home tomorrow for Miss Miriam Bartlett. Following the luncheon, most of the Winnetka young people will go on to the Warren W. Shoemakers' Hubbard Woods home, where Miss Helen Shoemaker and Miss Margot Webbe are entertaining for Miss Bartlett in the late afternoon. Miss Elsie Earle is giving a luncheon today for Miss Jane Bulger and Miss Georgette Hill.

Elliott Donnelleys to Mark Anniversary.

All of the week-end parties are not for the debutante set, however. Tonight at the Shoreacres club there is to be a gay dance to which younger married couples are invited. Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Donnelley are giving the party to celebrate their tenth wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Donnelley [Ann Steinwedell] will give a family dinner before the dance, at which several members of their bridal party will be present. Mrs. Donnelley's sister, Mrs. Louis F. Cody, who was matron of honor, and Mr. Cody have come from their home in Cleveland for the dinner, and Mrs. William Smythe, who was a bridesmaid, and Mr. Smythe are coming from Milwaukee. Others who were in the wedding party who will be here are her brother, William E. Steinwedell; Col. and Mrs. Charles C. Haffner Jr., the J. Beach Clows—he was Mr. Donnelley's best man and she was a bridesmaid—Alexander Knott, Richard Donnelley, and Harris Wilder.

Give Reception Today for George B. Rogerses.

Mr. and Mrs. George T. Rogers will be at home this afternoon to introduce their son's bride. Mr. and Mrs. George Bartlett Rogers [Margaret Ann Waller], who were married on Aug. 19, have returned from a Canadian wedding trip.

Mr. Rogers and his bride are to make their home on the south side, not far from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Parnell Waller, who live in Beverly Hills.

Onwentsia Powwow Will Open Today.

The Ontwentsia club's twenty-sixth annual powwow is being held today and tomorrow. Last year's powwow was in honor of the seventy-one old braves who had been members of the club for twenty-five years, and young braves as well as older ones were invited, but there were no guests.

This year's celebration, however, returns to tradition and is just for men 30 and over. Each member who attends may bring three guests. W. Irving Osborne Jr. is in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. John T. Pirie Jr. heads the committee planning the women's powwow, which will be held on Sept. 20.

Dunham Woods Horse Show to Be Tomorrow.

Those who are planning to go to the Dunham Woods Riding club's horse show in Wayne tomorrow are hoping for good weather, too. Entries in the show have been numerous, the hunter classes being especially large. J. MacWilliams Stone, who will exhibit in the bareback riding class, will show hunters, and so will the Henry Stantons' sons, John, Henry Jr., and Charles. George Woodruff, Miss Barbara Hess, and Robert and Leonore Cudahy also will show hunters.

Perry Dryden and his son, Robert, will exhibit in the parent and child event.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond O. Mitchell will be at home following the show. The show opens at 10 o'clock in the morning and continues until 5 o'clock, with time out for luncheon between 12:30 and 1:30. The exhibitors will be guests of the club at luncheon. Spectators may partake of luncheon, to be served by Wayne Boy Scouts, in the coach house, and no reservations are necessary.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hess are entertaining at luncheon for some out of town guests, among them Mrs. Warren Buckley of Plano. A large crowd is expected at the club tonight for the horse show ball.

Lake Forest Dahlia Show Opens Today.

The Lake Forest dahlia show, sponsored by the North Shore Dahlia club and the Lake Forest Garden club, will be held today and tomorrow in Durand auditorium on the Lake Forest college campus.

Mrs. Thomas A. Connors, Mrs. Lawrence Williams, and Mrs. Walter S. Brewster will be the judges. Tickets will be sold at the door of the auditorium. Admission is 35 cents.

The Mill Creek hounds will meet tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock at the hunt stables for the first formal hunt of the season. There will be hunts every Tuesday and Thursday morning at 6:30 and a small line drag on Saturday at 4.

The end of the summer season at Bar Harbor, Me., is not as gay as it could have been for Miss Pauline Palmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer. She was stricken with appendicitis on Wednesday. Reports are that she is "resting comfortably" after an appendectomy.

AMUSEMENTS.

For the Social Season

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Now that the social season really is getting under way, after an informal summer sprinkled mostly with sports events, you will need, every one of you, an afternoon or "town" dress that you can wear for tea, cocktail parties, matinées, and meetings. It is dressy enough to be worn for informal supper, too, when you meet beau or husband after a busy afternoon in town. The style is perfect for either misses or matrons.

The sketch at the left is styled most suitable for women. Its V neckline is flattering to silhouettes that are a little on the plump side. The shirring that is caught in the center of the waist provides fullness that softens and minimizes the proportions of the bustline. The sleeves are puffed at the sholuders and are fitted to the forearm. Above the gracefully flared skirt that molds the hipline is an embroidered waistline sector, the only touch of trimming on the dress, and a distinctive one. The pattern for this embroidery is No. E-757, available for 10 cents extra.

Younger women may easily wear the built-up neckline at their slim throats. The sleeves for slender arms may be terminated at bracelet length, and caught into shirring to match, more or less, that used in the bodice. A tailored belt may encircle the waist or the same embroidery motif may be employed, depending upon whether or not the frock is made of tailored or dressy fabric.

Style No. 3217 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3⅞ yards of 39 inch material.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune.]

NEW PRODUCTS: A mineral oil mayonnaise for weight watchers. It contains only three calories per tablespoonful. Tastes good, too. . . . A bottled carbonated coffee beverage. Sounds funny, but you'll like it.

NEW IDEA IN EATERY: Fried pumpkin blossoms. I've never eaten them, but they're said to be a very tasty dish. You dip them in batter and fry them. Then you eat them with maple sirup. . . . You've got to know which blossoms to pick and which ones to leave, however, or you'll be swallowing your whole pumpkin crop in the embryo.

THE NEW FOOD, DRUG, and COSMETICS act aims to see that egg noodles really are EGG noodles, that jams and jellies aren't overloaded with pectin, sugar and water; it specifies that artificial colorings and chemical preservatives must be declared on all food labels, excepting butter, cheese, and ice cream. Colorings used in foods must be certified as harmless. The new law forbids inedible substances, such as "prizes," in candies. Sometimes children have swallowed such trinkets with disastrous results.

RECOMMENDED CANNING METHODS: Hot water bath for fruits and tomatoes, pressure cooker for vegetables, meats, fish. Have you seen our new canning booklet, "Homemaker's Guide to Canning"? Seven cents is the price by mail, and it's only "a nickel, half a dime, 5 cents" if you call for it.

A reader requested this recipe for tomato conserve made from canned tomatoes; one might as easily use freshly cooked tomatoes to make this good preserve:

Tomato Conserve.

2 quarts canned tomatoes, drained
2 cups seedless raisins
2 lemons, sliced thinly
1 cup chopped walnuts
8 cups sugar

Combine tomato pulp, raisins, and lemons, peel included. Add sugar and cook until the mixture is thick and clear. Add nuts and pour into clean, hot jars. Seal.

CRUMS AND MORSELS: Five ounces of cheese equal a quart of milk in nutritive values. . . . The restaurant standard for coffee is a pound of coffee to make two gallons of brew. . . . Soy bean "milk" is fed in hospitals to patients allergic to cow's milk. . . . Products labeled "salad oil" or "vegetable oil" may be made from cottonseed, peanuts, corn, soy beans, sunflower seed, coconut, grape seed, poppyseed, palm kernels, all of which make good quality products.

Ever notice a slightly greenish cast to a coffee or mocha cake icing after it has stood for a while? No, it won't poison you. It's caused by a reaction of ferric tannate in coffee in the presence of an alkali. The alkali may come from egg if it's used in the icing, or it may come even from tap water, if that's used. If an acid is used—lemon juice, brown sugar, cream of tartar, for examples—the reaction won't occur.

Knitted Articles Are Major Ones in the Layette

BY JEAN MACDONALD.

Any mother bringing her first born home from the hospital can use to excellent advantage the three items illustrated. The panties are knitted of ordinary white cotton, and they are used over the infant's three cornered panties as a matter of protection and beauty. The small home-from-the-hospital cap is knitted of fine angora with ribs of knitting and purling worked alternately. The tiny pink mandarin jacket is one which will be worn and washed more than any other item in the layette. It is knitted in simple garter stitch in soft baby wool.

For instructions for knitting home-from-the-hospital garments, No. X-66, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 20 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Fall Is Good Time to Vary Dress Colors

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Color is on our minds at the moment because of the approaching fall wardrobe replenishment.

Shall it be green this fall, brown, navy, black, or one of the new shades? It needn't be startling, strange or unbecoming. Experimenting around with shades, you may find one that "you never thought you could wear, yet turns out beautifully." Better break out now while the breaking out is good. Next season you may not have as good a chance, for the colors this year are gorgeous.

One's best color may become tiresome to observers as well as to one's self. However, you know best what you should decide upon. If black serves you best, do struggle for a good black, as nothing is less chic, more ageing and dowdyish than black that goes rusty on you or does not clean well. Like the naughty little girl, when black is good it is very, very good but when it's bad it's horrid.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: I may be cynical, but when a partner makes only one mistake per hand I feel that he has given me comparatively good service. As you know, it sometimes takes two or more mistakes to ruin a sound contract. Last night my partner showed that if he couldn't do it the first time he would stick to it until he succeeded. This was the hand:

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

"I sat North with that horrible mess. My partn r opened one heart. West passed, and I did likewise. East reopened with one no trump. South bid two hearts and West came in with two spades. I passed again, West passed, and now South, disregarding the fact that I had not even kept the bidding open for him, persisted to three hearts, while I sat quaking. My worst fears were realized when this three heart bid reached East: He doubled in no uncertain tone.

"West opened the jack of spades, East overtook and continued the suit. Declarer ruffed the third round, and led the king of diamonds, which lost to East's ace. East returned a diamond, and now declarer, instead of leading up to dummy's ten of hearts and thus insuring himself against two heart losers, cashed the ace and king. I will say that at this point he suddenly awoke to the fact that the heart suit probably would not break, hence did not try a third round. He led the club queen. East won, and made a return that should have been a life saver to us, namely, a diamond. But you wouldn't catch my partner wasting a trump on a trick that was going to be his! O, no, he chucked a club. Dummy's diamond jack won and another diamond was played, probably in the naïve hope that East would ruff and allow declarer to overruff. East was not that bad, however; he merely discarded a club. Declarer let go the club ace, but now when dummy's fifth diamond was led East could discard another club, whereas declarer, with three trumps, had to ruff. Then two trump tricks had to be conceded to East's queen-nine of hearts.

"Of course East had made a bad return by selecting his third diamond instead of a club. The latter would have given us no chance. But how simple it should have been for declarer to recover from his previous error on East's actual diamond return. All he had to do was ruff, enter dummy with the low club to the jack, and lead another diamond. If East discarded, declarer would let go the club ace and, reduced to the jack-eight of trumps, would have been in a position to coup East's nine spot. If East, instead of discarding that fourth diamond, elected to ruff, declarer could over-ruff and hold East to one trump trick.

"What is it about so many players that they hate to part with a trump?

"Appealingly yours,

"J. F. C., New York City."

My correspondent's analysis leaves nothing for me to add. As for his final question, I'm afraid that I must admit that I cannot answer it. I simply don't know!

Father and Son Alike Fall in with the Trend to Casual Clothes

It calls for shetland fabrics 3 button, drape jackets

$34.50

When dressed for a big deal in town this well turned out Dad and Son would likely wear a meticulous black pin stripe suiting (Black is style news). But for campus or a country week-end they turn as one man to the comfort and well dressed casualness of Shetland suitings. These distinctive fabrics have been given the tailoring treatment they deserve, and fall in with these new style trends by virtue of the 3 button front, and comfortable British Blade Drape styling of the jacket.

The gentleman in the finger tip jacket is wearing our genuine Loden Tyrolean Hat

They turn to Irish wool ties

These were first seen, worn by the English outdoor gentry with their country tweeds. They're of Irish wool, woven in England, and their soft heather colorings and textures blend in perfectly with this comfortable easy going brand of clothing.

Twill weave shirts that are as soft as flannel

LIONS DEFEAT PIRATES, 16-7, IN PRO OPENER

Bears and Cardinals Meet Tomorrow.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 9.—The Detroit Lions football team bottled up Whizzer White and the Pittsburgh Pirates for three-quarters of the opening game of the National Professional league season tonight and won, 16 to 7, before a capacity crowd of 22,000 in the University of Detroit stadium.

The Lions scored nine points in the first period and added seven in the second. The offense of both teams bogged down in the third quarter, and then White cut loose in the final period with some of the brilliance that made him one of the most widely acclaimed college football players of 1937.

White, after leading an eighty yard march, skipped through the Lions' right guard for two yards and a touchdown late in the fourth quarter. Niccolai added the point.

Detroit Scores Early.

Before the game had gone five minutes Detroit had scored three points, Bill Shepherd kicking a twenty-two yard field goal. Position for the score was gained by a thirty-four yard dash by Ed Klewicki on one of his end-around stunts and an eighteen yard punt return by Shepherd. Then it seemed that the Lions would go to town, for they completely stopped White and the other Pirates at or behind the line of scrimmage.

After an exchange of punts, Stu Smith of the Pirates misjudged a pass from center on the Pittsburgh 35 yard line. Smith chased the ball back to the Pirate 5 and downed it, but the Lions took possession on downs. On second down, Caddel swept over the Pittsburgh right tackle for a touchdown. Shepherd failed at the point.

Coach Dutch Clark of the Lions still was ailing from an injured foot and he did not play. He sent young Kent Ryan into the game in the second period and the former Utah Aggie half back showed abundant ability.

Passes Click.

Ryan thrust back the Pirate secondary with passes. He heaved a long one to Lloyd Cardwell and then picked Moscrip to receive another, pushing the ball down to the Pittsburgh 7 yard line with faultless generalship. He then sent Cardwell around the Pirates' right end on a sweep for the score. Moscrip added the point.

Right after the touchdown the charge in the Lion line seemed to wilt. And although Ryan came back in the game in the fourth period he couldn't get his team going, nor could Shepherd. The Pirates scored while the Lions were in this mood. The lineups:

PICK VETERAN LINEUPS

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Throughout the National Football league many young men are awaiting their professional debuts with the opening of the season tomorrow. And they are slightly bewildered. After three years of spectacular achievement on college gridirons, they find themselves back where they started as sophomores.

This is especially true in the camps of the Cardinals and Bears, where Coaches Milan Creighton and George Halas have been drilling a dozen highly touted newcomers for the last three weeks. However, they will start only veterans when their teams meet in Soldiers' field tomorrow night.

Such widely publicized and sought after rookies as Frank Patrick, Pittsburgh's All-American full back; Dwight Sloan and Jack Robbins, head men in Arkansas' passing circus; Gus Zarnas, Ohio State's superb guard; Gary Famiglietti, the Boston battering ram, and Phil Dougherty, the center who put the All-Stars back in the game with an interception of a Washington Redskin pass last week, will be on the bench when Cardinals and Bears kickoff at 8:30 o'clock.

Two New Veterans.

Two of the starting veterans, one on each side, will be new men to Chicago. Brute Mulleneaux, the Cardinals' new center, will be starting his sixth season in the National league. He was obtained from Pittsburgh. The other will be in the Bears' back field, occupying the place formerly held by Bronko Nagurski, the most

BIG TEN SQUADS START FOOTBALL PRACTICE TODAY

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The "go" signal for Western conference football squads flashes today. As the ten universities muster their forces, one prediction unquestionably should become fact. The 1938 campaign promises to be more evenly fought than last year's, despite the fact that in 1937 eleven of the twenty-six Big Ten games were decided by one touchdown; three were decided by one point; one was determined by three points, and there was one tie.

The reasons for this assertion are obvious. The teams which finished in the second division last year, particularly Chicago and Iowa, which did not win a conference game, are expected to be stronger. Minnesota, which won the conference championship, and Ohio State, which finished second with five Big Ten victories and one defeat, must find several suitable replacements to carry on. In brief, the rampant enthusiasms that swept Minneapolis and Columbus last year are missing. The Gophers and Buckeyes will have good teams, but they must prove themselves against competition which will be stronger.

Hawkeyes Go West.

The trend of recent years toward eight game schedules without so-called practice games continues. And two universities—Iowa and Minnesota—have major non-conference games in the next two weeks. The Hawkeyes travel to Los Angeles to meet U. C. L. A. in a night game Sept. 23. Two weeks from today Minnesota will be host to the University of Washington.

Two years ago Minnesota defeated Washington, 14 to 7. The teams did not meet last year. Minnesota plays Nebraska, Big Six champion, on Oct. 1, and the Cornhuskers won this inter-conference contest in 1937, 14 to 9. Following these exceedingly difficult preliminary games, the Gophers meet Purdue, Michigan, Northwestern, and Iowa, then play Notre Dame in South Bend, and conclude their campaign against Wisconsin.

Buckeyes Have Hard Schedule.

Although Minnesota's schedule is most difficult, Ohio State, which opens with Indiana, the first of six conference opponents, and also meets Southern California in its second game, and plays New York university, takes runner-up honors.

The most difficult schedule award, however, still goes to Notre Dame, which follows the Big Ten rule and opens practice this morning. The Irish open Oct. 1 with Kansas, then travel to Georgia Tech, and follow with Illinois, Carnegie Tech, Army, Navy, Minnesota, Northwestern, and Southern California.

Unless Elmer Layden and his assistants can work a miracle, Notre Dame seems headed for its worst season since the former member of the 1924 national championship eleven took charge at his alma mater. Nine of the members of the first eleven last year were graduated. Ed Beinor, tackle, and Joe Thesing, full back, are the regulars available. Vacancies must be filled by the eight varsity men who saw service last season, by a fair group of reserves, and possibly by some sophomores, although Notre Dame seldom has needed to call on these players.

Crisler Back in Conference.

Until there is evidence to the contrary, most fans will stick with Minnesota or Ohio State to win the Big Ten title. The two universities do not meet and Ohio State's conference schedule, if for no other reason than its six games, is a more difficult title road than Minnesota's. Northwestern, with an improved line, possibly should be rated next, with Indiana approximately on a par.

Michigan, which tied Northwestern for fourth place last year with three victories and three defeats, may surprise. Fritz Crisler, former University of Chicago athlete, returns to the conference after a successful tenure at Princeton. Prior to that Crisler coached Minnesota for two campaigns. With the stimulus of a new system and with a veteran squad bolstered by several sophomores, including Tom

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Jack Dempsey has lost his most devoted friend. . . . The passing of Jerry Lavadis, who for ten years served as Dempsey's trainer, got only casual mention in the New York press, which probably is as it should be, because after all Jerry the Greek didn't mean much to the boxing fans at large. . . . Jerry died in poverty from a lingering illness, but he got something out of life which many never enjoy. . . . He had a hero who could do no wrong. . . . To him Dempsey still was champion. . . . He always had been and would continue to be as long as he lived. . . . It is improbable that Dempsey or any other athletic figure again will find a devotee who believes in him with such blind and unquestioning faith. . . . The jittery Bucs [not jitterbugs, Mr. Linotype Operator] face the unpleasant assignment of ending their season in Cincinnati, where they play four games in three days. . . . Joe Hunt, who was first alternate singles player on the United States Davis cup team this year, plans to enter the Naval academy, where he will have to renounce the game except as an exercise. . . . In the event Donald Budge turns pro, as he is expected to do, Hunt probably would have moved into the No. 2 spot on the 1939 team behind Bobby Riggs. . . . Bob McNamara, football guard at Pennsylvania last year, will stump the state in the fall gubernatorial campaign. . . . Dick Bassi, who will make his debut with the Bears against the Cardinals Sunday night in Soldiers' field, is a dynamite planter for a California oil drilling company in the off season. . . . Mark Christman, infielder with the Detroit Tigers, is the son of a stereotyper on the St. Louis Post Dispatch. . . .

Henry Cotton.

Henry Cotton, the British golf professional, charges $10 for a 15 minute lesson and receives a salary of $20,000 a year from the Ashridge club. . . . The Brooklyn Dodgers had to have a special uniform made before they could send Babe Ruth to the coaching lines. . . . Even on the club which has Blimp Phelps under contract, there was no uniform in stock large enough to surround the Ruthian girth. . . . The nineteenth annual convention of the National Boxing association will be held in Montreal, Sept. 12, 13, and 14. . . . We are warning you in plenty of time—the roller skating derby returns to the Coliseum Sept. 21. . . . Henry Schulte, retired Nebraska track coach, is writing a book on track and field. . . . Schulte is making more money retired than he did as a coach, an insurance policy covering disability and his retirement pay bringing up the total.

Rambling Rhyme.

We hear a lot about success from folks who ought to know. It seems to constitute, we guess, the piling up of dough. Folks break their necks and bust their skins to stack up currency. When Mr. Dough walks through the town with pompous, haughty stare, the populace bows humbly down with meek, worshipful air. They marvel at his acumen, they think his word is law. Regard the scratchings of his pen with reverence and awe. So when we see how gents adore their stipends and their fees, we cast our eyes to days of yore, we think of Socrates. They say he was a ne'er do well, he never made a dime. His wife was forged to give him hell, he wasted all his time. He left no shekels to pass on, no doubt was in arrears; and yet his name, now he is gone, keeps ringing through the years. The rich men of that ancient time owned land and precious gems, but no one sings their songs in rime; we've never heard of them. And long ago there lived a Man who suffered and who bled. He had no house, no lot, no land, nor where to lay His head. The Morganfeller of His day is now unknown to fame; yet this Man's words resound always, men reverence His name. And so we wonder what it is, this thing we call success. Who can define it is a wiz, the rest can only guess. —Les Plettner.

A Summer Interlude.

The autumn wind is solemn
Whistling in the trees,
The hopeless sound of dead leaves
Is rustling in the breeze.
The world around is dreary
As I sit and brood
Of a happy moment—
A summer interlude.

The nearby lake is whisp'ring
Its lonely, sad refrain,
The memory of another day
Is hammering on my brain.
A day of love and gladness
Of light and carefree mood
But it's gone, and gone so swiftly,
A summer interlude.

Autumn.

You came to me one day, sweet child,
All fragrant from the south,
With roses in your tumbled hair
And kisses on your mouth.

I guarded you with tender heed,
You were a precious bud;
The very veins of you, it seemed,
Ran flame instead of blood.

But time has left upon your brow
Its lavish lines of care,
And all the petals of the rose
Have fallen from your hair.

Your locks have silvered with the years,
Your step is passing slow;
And through the veins that used to burn
Run rivulets of snow.

Yet in the autumn of your days
You seem to me as fair
As when you tripped into my life
With roses in your hair.

BUDGE BREEZES THROUGH FIRST TOURNEY TEST

Bromwich of Australia Also Advances.

Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 9.—(AP)—The four top ranking stars in the men's and women's national singles tennis tournament set such glittering examples to the rest of the field today that the entry was reduced to 32 survivors in each division without a single major upset.

The top rankers were Don Budge and John Bromwich, who stand at No. 1 on the American and foreign men's seeded lists; Alice Marble of Los Angeles, No. 2 on the American women's list, and Jadwiga [Ja-Ja] Jedrzejowska of Poland, No. 1 in the strong group of feminine invaders.

This quartet lost only seven games in ten sets. Budge beat 17 year old Welby Van Horn of Los Angeles, 6-0, 6-0, 6-1; Bromwich eliminated Gus Ganzenmuller of Seacliff, Mass., 6-1, 6-0, 6-1; Miss Marble, champion in 1936 and No. 1 in national ranking, beat Mrs. Catherine Sample of Miami, Fla., 6-1, 6-0, and Miss Jedrzejowska, runnerup a year ago to Anita Lizana of Chile, eliminated Elizabeth Blackman of Detroit, 6-0, 6-3.

Budge Has It Easy.

Budge, playing his opening match after a first round bye, didn't draw a deep breath and didn't come into the forecourt more than half a dozen times in whipping Van Horn, a promising west coast junior. Welby never got over the idea he was playing the Australian, French, and Wimbledon champion and defender of the American crown.

Ganzenmuller, Mrs. Sample, and Miss Blackman also were sadly outclassed. Ganzenmuller didn't even give Bromwich a mild workout. Mrs. Sample showed flurries, but no more, against Miss Marble, and Miss Blackman was completely bewildered by the booming forehand placements that came bouncing all around and at her from Miss Jedrzejowska's racquet.

Sidney Wood of New York, whose comeback earned him a No. 4 seeding, beat the veteran, J. Gilbert Hall, 9-7, 4-6, 1-6, 6-4, 6-4. On an adjoining court outside the stadium Charles Edgar Hare, English southpaw seeded eighth, came out on top in the day's Marathon, defeating the Australian Davis cup spare, Leonard Schwartz, 6-4, 7-5, 10-12, 5-7, 10-8.

Best Stadium Matches.

Of the stadium matches, the best were those between Joe Hunt and Wayne Sabin, Davis cup spares this year and last, respectively, and Bobby Riggs and Frank Guernsey Jr., the intercollegiate champion. Hunt, seeded third, beat Sabin, No. 6 in the United States' ranking, 6-1, 8-6, 6-3, in a match that became a struggle to see who could get to the net first. Riggs, ranked next to Budge, outsteadied Guernsey, 5-7, 6-2, 6-3, 6-4, in a match marked by long and frequently brilliant rallies.

Adrian Quist, Bromwich's countryman and placed next to him in the foreign seeded list; Ferenc Puncec of Jugo-Slavia, seeded No. 3, and Yvon Petra of France, No. 5, all came through to the third round in straight sets. Similarly decisive winners were Elwood Cooke from Portland, Ore.; Frankie Parker, and Bryan Grant, seeded fifth, seventh, and eighth. But Frank Kovacs, towering Californian who is seeded sixth, tossed away so many needless points that he had to fight all the way to whip Yasumine Kuramitsu of Japan, 6-3, 4-6, 3-6, 6-4, 7-5.

Al Andersen Wins in Club Relations Golf

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The official families of the Chicago District Golf association and its member clubs gathered yesterday for their No. 1 reunion of the 1938 season—the twenty-fifth annual Club Relations day. The major victors were Al Andersen, the 1937 home club titleholder, and the Edgewater foursome.

Andersen shot himself a 40 on the first nine of the No. 1 course, and then scampered around the difficult championship No. 3 layout in 76 for a twenty-seven hole gross total of 116. He came home three shots in front of Bill Potts of Edgewater, last year's individual Club Relations winner, who yesterday had a 39 going out, but required 80 coming home for his 119.

Edgewater Foursome Wins.

The Edgewater foursome was paced by Potts with an 80 for the finishing eighteen. He received the collaboration of a threesome of eighty-six shooters, consisting of Tom Keelin, A. T. Arnold, and Hi Fargo. Their aggregate was 338, seven strokes better than the Medinah quartet, who went around in 345.

H. A. Freevol of Medinah tied for low net with a twenty-seven hole net card of 126-17—109. This figure was matched by Maynard G. Fessenden of Bob O'Link, vice president of the association, who demonstrated that it is possible to recover from the chairmanship of the Chicago Open tournament by firing a 130-21—109.

Hale Wins Low Gross.

A. W. Hale of Medinah, who this year led the association through an appropriately successful twenty-fifth anniversary season, took new low gross for present officers with an 84 on the No. 3 course.

SEEK SEVENTH STRAIGHT; NAME ROOT TO PITCH

Beat Cardinals, 4-2; Gain on Pirates.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Sept. 9. — Leo Durocher, the wounded but valiant Cub pennant bee, went on his biggest buzz since spring this afternoon after the Cubs whipped the Cardinals, 4 to 2, to move 3½ games behind the trembling Pirates.

The victory, Clay Bryant's sixteenth of the season, ran the Chicago winning streak to six games. Charley Root, who started the streak by holding the Reds to one run in Cincinnati last Saturday, will seek to prolong the drive against those same Reds in Wrigley field tomorrow afternoon.

The Cubs, who had been in a merry batting mood in their first two victories here, weren't so impressive with the wood this afternoon. They faced three former Cub pitchers, Lon Warneke, Roy Henshaw, and Clyde Shoun. In seven innings they made five hits, including a double by Bryant, off Warneke, who was tagged with his seventh defeat of the season. They wasted a single off Henshaw in one inning and they scored a run without a hit off Shoun in the ninth.

Bunch Hits in Third.

Since luck is a vast factor in a pennant drive, the Cubs' good fortune should be emphasized above all other details today. Of the five hits off Long Lon the lads bunched four, including the one extra baser, in the third when three runs were accomplished.

The pennant standings of the bunched first division read:

Pittsburgh	76	53	.589
Chicago	74	58	.561
Cincinnati	73	59	.553
New York	72	60	.545

The Cubs, who were nine games back of the Pirates on Aug. 23, now have 22 games to play—two in Wrigley field with the Reds tomorrow and Sunday, two in Boston next Tuesday and Wednesday, two with the Giants, three with the Dodgers, four with the tailend Phillies, then they go home for three with the Cardinals and three with the Pirates, after which they return to St. Louis for three with the Cards to wind up the season.

The team's pitching worries for the rest of the campaign may be eased somewhat, as Manager Gabby Hartnett announced tonight Pitcher Al Epperly had been recalled from Indianapolis. He will report tomorrow.

Docile Until Third.

In the first two innings the Cubs gave no warning of the way they were to bust loose against Warneke in the third. The only gent to get the ball out of the infield was O'Dea, who wasted a single with two out in the second.

The cheerful business in the third was started by Jurges, who lined a single to center. Bryant banged the first pitch for a double against the left field wall, Jurges stopping at third. Hack lined a single to right, Jurges scoring and Bryant stopping at third. Herman flied to Padgett. Bryant scoring. Demaree was safe on Myers' fumble and was forced by Galan. Reynolds singled to center, scoring Hack, but Galan was out trying to reach third.

Cardinal Threat Halted.

The Mudcats stirred up a rumpus in their half of the third, but were stopped short of the plate. Warneke pushed off with a single to center. Moore popped to Collins, but Stu Martin singled to right, Warneke

BY FRENCH LANE.

Seabiscuit, handicap star from the C. S. Howard stable of San Francisco, will arrive at the Hawthorne track tomorrow to prepare for the Gold cup race, which is to be run a week from Saturday. This was announced yesterday by Hawthorne officials, following the receipt of a telegram from Mr. Howard. It read:

"Shipping Seabiscuit today. Will arrive at Hawthorne Sunday afternoon. Will surely run in Hawthorne Gold cup provided you can arrange with the weatherman to give us a fast track. Four other horses shipping with him. Would appreciate your having stalls ready upon arrival."

Fields Well Balanced.

In the entries for today's Hawthorne races both the stake events attracted splendid, well balanced fields. That was something more over which the Hawthorne officials could crow. The overnight fields for these races follow:

The best race on yesterday's program was the Whiskbroom II. purse at a mile.

Little Drift Disqualified.

Little Drift, the longest shot in the feature, dashed past the finish line a length and a half in front, then was disqualified. Jocky Conley had permitted Little Drift to wander out into the center of track while Easy Sailing was making a desperate challenge. He carried Easy Sailing with him.

Little Drift's number was quickly removed from the board. Easy Sailing was made the winner. Xenomay was moved into second place and Imperial Scout was given third money.

It was the first disqualification of the Hawthorne season. It pleased the crowd, for many had wagered on Easy Sailing, which paid $9 on a $2 ticket. Conley is a good boy and had nothing to do with Little Drift drifting to the outside. So Conley, as all good little boys should be treated, was not punished.

Long Shots Score.

A few long shots romped home just in order to disturb the favorite players and keep the "looking for the end of the rainbow" crowd on razor edge. Tartarus stepped to town at a $32 mutuel payoff. Marconia got a decision and paid off at $53.60 for a two dollar ticket.

GEHRIG HITS .300 MARK; PLAYS IN 2,100TH STRAIGHT

Yankees Score Shutout Over Senators, 2-0.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Lou Gehrig played his 2,100th consecutive game today as the New York Yankees beat the Senators, 2 to 0. Gehrig took advantage of the occasion to make four hits and to climb past the .300 batting mark for the first time this season.

Lou collected all but one of the total of five Yankee safeties, because Dutch Leonard was having one of his better days. Except for wildness in the seventh inning, when the Yankees bunched three walks, one hit and a pair of outfield flies for both their runs, Leonard matched Bump Hadley all the way. Hadley held the Senators to eight hits.

The victory, coupled with defeats for Boston and Cleveland, left the Yankees fifteen games in front of the American league race. The victory also marked the official mathematical elimination of the fourth place Detroit team from the race.

A'S BEAT RED SOX, 4-3.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 9.—(AP)—A delay in the delivery of three telegrams concerning Bill Werber's three day suspension today enabled the Athletics' third baseman to play against the Red Sox and beat them, 4 to 3, with a two run homer. Werber has been suspended for three days by President Will Harridge for his part in yesterday's fisticuffing with Buddy Myer of the Senators. Harridge's wires, however, were not received by Werber, Manager Connie Mack, or Umpire George Moriarty until after the game.

Although Werber was officially ineligible, the Red Sox management said no protest would be made. The Athletics got to Jim Bagby in the eighth and scored all of their runs on two singles, Etten's double and Werber's homer into the left field screen.

reaching third. Jurges grounded Padgett's pop up and stepped on second to force Martin. Medwick was given a semi-intentional pass, loading the bases. Then O'Dea went to the boxes to pull down Mize's foul.

Game Tightens Up.

The Cards tightened up things with a run in the eighth. Mize opened with his third single. Brown flied to Reynolds, then Pepper Martin, batting for Myers, singled to left center, putting Mize on third. Pepper, however, tried to reach second on his hit and was speared, Reynolds to Herman. Mize scored when Jurges fumbled Owen's grounder. Bordagaray batted for Henshaw and popped to Jurges.

Shoun went in at the start of the ninth and personally waded right into a jam. He walked O'Dea. Collins sacrificed and when Shoun threw too late to second both runners were safe. Jurges sacrificed them ahead. On the first pitch to Bryant Owen's finger was split, leaving the Cards without an eligible regular catcher.

Padgett refused to come in from right field to catch until loudly summoned over the public address system. As Padgett donned the harness Pitcher Max Macon went to right field to take Padgett's place. When play was resumed Bryant bounced out to Pepper Martin, O'Dea scoring from third. Brown threw out Hack.

If—

After yesterday's game the Pittsburgh Pirates were three and a half games ahead of the Cubs and four and a half ahead of the Cincinnati Reds. The Pirates have 25 games left to play and the Cubs and Reds 22 each.

If Pittsburgh plays approximately .500 baseball for the rest of the season and wins 13 while losing 12, the Cubs must win 15 and lose only 7 to tie for the pennant. To win they would have to take 16 out of 22. The Reds would have to win 16 out of 22 games to beat them out.

If the Pirates play .600 baseball, winning 15 and losing 10, the Cubs must win 17 games of 22 to tie, and 18 of 23 to take the championship. The Reds would have to win 18 and lose only four to tie, or win 19 and lose only three to finish first.

If the Cubs win all 22 games left on their schedule, the Pirates would have to take 20 of their 25 remaining games to tie Chicago and 21 to finish in first place.

Two No Hit Games Pitched in Softball Play

Two no hit games were pitched, one against a defending champion, and two teams expected to reach the final brackets were eliminated in the international softball tournament last night. The day's schedule was disarranged as all games at Shewbridge field were washed out and those listed on other fields were delayed until early evening because of rain.

J. Warken of the Nick Carr Boosters, Covington, Ky., pitched a no hit game to defeat the City Mills of Roanoke, Va., 6 to 0, in a second round game. He struck out eleven. Kate Castator, Cincinnati pitcher, checked the Cleveland Num Nums, defending girls' champions, with no hits as Cincinnati won a second round contest, 3 to 1. Two errors, a walk, and an infield out gave the Num Nums their run.

Al Linde, Des Moines, Ia., Packers, pitcher, limited the Litsinger Motors of Chicago to one hit as the Packers won, 6 to 0. The Litsingers had eliminated the Briggs team of Detroit, defending champions, 1 to 0, in a 16 inning opening round game.

Pittsburg, Cal., which won its first round game on Harry Cowan's no hit pitching performance, was beaten, 2 to 1, last night by St. Petersburg, Fla. St. Petersburg drew a first round bye. Scores:

Sox Move to Detroit for Three Games

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox who played hosts to the weather for three days instead of to the St. Louis Browns as scheduled, went away last night for their season's final glimpse of Detroit, home of the new broom Tigers. They'll have three days to view the scenery there, particularly the none too spacious baseball field in which Hank Greenberg is endeavoring to cut in on Babe Ruth's record of sixty homers in a season.

Having a squad that hasn't worked for three days, Manager Jim Dykes is so comfortably fixed for pitchers that he isn't exactly certain of which he'll pick for today's opener or for the two subsequent games of the series.

Knott May Pitch.

The Tigers are trying to stay in the first division and it is Dykes' intention to do what he can about getting them out of there. So he probably will use his best throwers, starting with Jack Knott today.

Yesterday's postponement made a total of nine double-headers the Sox must dispose of before packing up their duds and going home for the winter. Three of these twin bills will be played here the last three days of the season. Two, both of them synthetic, will be played in St. Louis Sept. 24 and 25.

Prepare for Eastern Clubs.

When the Sox return to Comiskey park Tuesday they'll begin to take on the eastern clubs, which will visit in this order: Washington, Philadelphia, Boston, and New York. The Washington and Philadelphia series include a double-header apiece and the Boston series two.

100,000 CROWD STREETS DURING HAYES FUNERAL

New York, Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Upwards of 100,000 persons jammed nearby streets as the body of Cardinal Hayes, archbishop of New York, was laid to rest today in a crypt of St. Patrick's cathedral. The pageant of sorrow and solemn splendor was one of the greatest funerals ever held for a churchman in America.

Inside the cathedral knelt 6,000 men, women and children, and 2,000 priests. Outside in the streets stood thousands upon thousands of others who heard the pontifical requiem mass over a public address system. Most of the throng stood in 5th avenue, symbol of everything modern, listening to a ritual centuries old.

Body Viewed by 300,000.

Many of those in the vast crowd had been among the 300,000 who had filed through the cathedral in the days since the cardinal's body was brought back to his native city after his death last Sunday in his summer home near Monticello, N. Y.

Within the cathedral a somber pageant was presented by the greatest array of Catholic ecclesiastics ever to attend the funeral of a New York churchman. Their tribute to the prelate who rose from a humble life as an east side boy to become spiritual leader of more than a million Roman Catholics was such as has been paid to few Americans.

Buried in Crypt of Cathedral.

At its conclusion Cardinal Hayes was buried in a crypt below the high altar of the twin spired cathedral. He was placed beside the bodies of those other princes of the church who served the wealthiest of all the world's archdioceses.

The Most Rev. Joseph Francis Rummel, archbishop of New Orleans, delivered the sermon. He said of Cardinal Hayes that "probably no prelate of his time lent himself so readily to the task of an ambassador of good will and edification in the interest of religion, the church, and his beloved country.

BRIDE INJURED IN PLUNGE CALLS IT AN ACCIDENT

Mattoon, Ill., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Mrs. Maxine Lake, in a brief moment of consciousness today, whispered that her plunge from a fourth floor hotel window yesterday was accidental.

The 20 year old Texas girl, a bride of three months, suffered a broken back in the fall. A few moments after her body struck the street her husband, M. E. Lake, pitched from the same window and was killed.

Dr. W. F. Stafford said Mrs. Lake rallied enough to tell him that she slipped and fell from the window and was not pushed.

Coroner F. S. Schilling disclosed that a witness told him that he was in a room adjoining Mrs. Lake's at the time of the accident and that he heard a man shout, "Don't jump, Maxine!' The coroner said he believed Lake's death was a suicide.

Lake, 35 years old, was vice president of the Coast Line Oil corporation and the Lincoln Petroleum company of San Antonio, Tex. With his bride, the former Maxine Dunson of Aransas Pass, Tex., he had come to Mattoon in connection with an oil development. The coroner said he learned the couple had quarreled before the tragedy.

RUSH OF TRAFIC CAUSES TIEUP AT NEW RIVER LOCK

A rush of boat trafic caused a minor tieup yesterday at the new $3,000,000 navigation lock and control works at the mouth of the Chicago river. Several big vessels, each of which took seven or eight minutes for the trip through the lock, were forced to wait their turn. Electric and telephone cables between the coast guard station and the shore were ripped out by the anchor of one of the waiting ships.

Leonard Olson, lockmaster, said such a delay was to be expected if trafic were heavy, and that he anticipated no serious delays. Each boat is required to tie up after it has entered the lock to prevent the current from pulling it into one of the gates. Since only one large boat can enter at a time, this may cause some loss of time if several arrive together. As many as seven or eight smaller boats can go through at the same time, Olson said.

DENY USE OF PIER FOR CONCLAVE OF RELIGIOUS GROUP

Mayor Kelly said yesterday the city had canceled a permit for the Watch Tower society, a religious organization, to hold its three day convention in the Navy pier auditorium. He said the society had rented a hall at 400 East Erie street for the convention which started yesterday. The mayor said the permit was canceled because of a disturbance at the Seattle convention recently when the society attacked various religions, in particular the Catholic.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: I Spy

DAIRY PROTESTS A HUGE ORDER FROM UNCLE SAM

Balks at Burying Court in 21 Feet of Facts.

If the Borden company produces all the records demanded of it in two subpenas issued in the federal government's investigation of an alleged milk trust, the courtroom of Federal Judge John P. Barnes will be filled 21.4 feet deep with records.

This was one of the points made yesterday in a notice, bizarre with statistics, served by the company on District Attorney Michael L. Igoe and Leo F. Tierney, special assistant United States attorney general in charge of the milk investigation.

The notice, drawn up by Attorneys Donald F. McPherson and Frederic Burnham, said the company would ask Judge Barnes on Monday to quash the two subpenas as burdensome and onerous. The subpenas demand that the records in question be produced Monday and Tuesday before the federal grand jury.

Called Physical Impossibility.

The subpenas, the company protested, in effect, demand a physical impossibility. The notice went on to explain that one subpena directed to Secretary Walter H. Rebman, calls for a total of 27,454,747 exhibits. These would fill 51,730 cubic feet of space and weigh 1,799,513 pounds. They would fill a federal courtroom to a depth of 16.2 feet.

The other, addressed to Treasurer E. L. Noetzel, calls for 17,656,487 exhibits, filling 16,775 cubic feet of space and weighing 345,400 pounds. They would fill a courtroom up to 5.2 feet which, with the Rebman exhibits, would total 21.4 feet. The records would have to be gathered from 440 locations in thirty-one states and several foreign countries.

To move the Rebman and Noetzel exhibits to Chicago would require twenty freight cars. To assemble the Rebman exhibits would cost more than $50,000 and the Noetzel exhibits $5,000, both exclusive of labor.

What It Would Cost.

If all the company's records were assembled in Chicago, the company, according to the notice, would not be able to carry on its regular business. Its alternative would be to copy the supenaed records. To duplicate the Rebman records, the company stated, would require the employment of 1,800 men for a year at a cost of $3,700,000, Noetzel records would require 180 men at a cost of $347,000.

The records in question are in the main milkmen's sales ledgers and checks, covering the last ten years. The figures given are all computations and only approximate, one lawyer pointed out. He asserted these statistics were compiled and will be presented in complete seriousness.

Mr. Tierney viewed the figures differently. "They're in a frivolous vein," he said, "but they disclose the gigantic proportions of the Borden company."

In furtherance of its investigation, the government yesterday ordered Don Geyer to appear before the grand jury Sept. 19. Now in Boston, Geyer was formerly an official of the milk industry in Chicago.

FOLLIES BEAUTY GETS WARANT IN MARITAL BATTLE

Mrs. Dorothea Joy Brown, former Follies beauty, has obtained a warant charging her husband with nonsupport. This was disclosed yesterday in a sharp exchange between opposing lawyers in Judge Martin M. Gridley's court. Her husband, Howard M. Brown, is an insurance executive living at the Lake Shore Athletic club.

Mrs. Brown's attorney, Sidney Wolf, asked dismissal of a motion for temporary alimony filed after her separate maintenance suit was dismissed. Benjamin B. Davis, Brown's attorney, objected. He said the alimony motion was made pending an appeal of the suit dismissal. He told the court Mrs. Brown had gone into another court for the nonsupport warant.

"This is a new wrinkle," the judge said. "I won't dismiss the motion."

Steeple of Zion Lutheran church in Lyons, struck twice by lightning yesterday in heavy rainstorms.

Lightning killed one man on a horse and injured nine other persons in a street car panic during two heavy rainstorms yesterday. The rain amounted to more than an inch and a half in the southwestern part of the city and county, where it flooded viaducts and hampered trafic for two hours.

Frank Williams, 35 years old, of Oklahoma, an exercise boy for the Evergreen stock farm, was killed. Lightning struck him as he rode a pony near the Hawthorne race track. The animal also was killed.

The street car accident occurred at Ashland avenue and 93d street. A lightning bolt struck the trolley, smashed a lightning arrester, and started a fire in the ceiling. Nine of the twenty-two passengers were injured in a rush toward the exits.

JURY ABSOLVES GIRL OF COUNT'S DEATH IN CRASH

Miami, Fla., Sept. 9.—(AP)—A coroner's jury today absolved Mildred Gaydon, 25 years old, night club girl, of any blame in connection with the automobile accident in which the count of Covadonga, former heir to the Spanish throne, suffered fatal injuries Tuesday. Miss Gaydon sobbed at times as she listened to the testimony given the jury. She did not take the stand.

Mildred Gaydon.

Jack Fleming, the count's secretary, said he had been anxious that no blame should attach to her. "It wasn't Millie's fault and for God's sake, Jack, don't let anything happen to her," he quoted Covadonga as saying in the hospital. "If I hadn't grabbed the steering wheel the accident never would have happened."

WEDDING USHER FATALLY HURT IN FALL AT RACINE

W. F. MacGregor Jr. Is Victim in Home.

Racine, Wis., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Wallace Forrest MacGregor Jr., prominent in Racine's younger social set, died this afternoon of a fractured skull incurred when he slipped on a highly polished floor in his home. His parents are well known socially in this part of the state.

MacGregor, 26 years old, was an usher last night at the fashionable society wedding of his cousin, John Hand, and Margaret Jane Modine, former Smith college student. The accident occurred when he went home early this morning after the wedding reception at the Racine Country club.

Accident Follows Party.

There he talked for a time with his mother, who also had attended the wedding. Then he smoked a cigaret and retired to his room.

His parents did not hear him fall and retired for the night unaware of the tragedy. At noon today the youth's father, head engineer for many years at the J. I. Case company, called him.

Found Lying on Bed.

Receiving no response, his father entered the room and found MacGregor lying unconscious on his bed, a pool of blood about his head. The young man was still dressed in his formal attire.

He was rushed to St. Mary's hospital and a specialist was called from Milwaukee, but he died a few hours later without regaining consciousness.

Coroner E. B. Yanny, who termed the death accidental, said MacGregor apparently stepped on an Oriental rug which slipped on the highly polished floor in his bedroom. He believed the young man struck his head on the metal footboard of his bed, but was able to get on the bed before losing consciousness.

Funeral to be Monday.

Funeral services for young MacGregor will be held Monday at 2 p. m. at the family home, 422 16th street. Burial will be in Mound cemetery.

The young John Hands, motoring westward on their wedding trip, could not be reached to be told of the tragedy.

Young MacGregor was a graduate of Racine Military academy and attended the University of Wisconsin. He was a member of Chi Psi fraternity.

GIRL VICTIM OF GLAND DISEASE, DOOMED TO DIE, CHEATS DEATH

The doctors said pretty Hertha Klinkig wouldn't live thirty days. That was three months ago. Now she has gained seventeen pounds and says she'll have twenty more before she's through.

Miss Klinkig is 22 years old and the daughter of a Hinsdale architect. She was struck by an automobile in January, 1937. The pituitary gland, at the base of the brain, was affected. This gland regulates all the ductless glands of the body. Miss Klinkig began to fade.

Then injections of pituitary secretions were started. She began to perk up.

"We hope," her doctors said yesterday at the Presbyterian hospital, "that we soon can stop the injections. If the gland is working again she will not need them. If not, she can keep on taking them indefinitely. We have even taught her to give them to herself."

IRENE AND MAJOR IN NEW FIGHT ON CHILD'S SCHOOL

Attorneys for Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin and her husband, Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, waged a legal battle yetserday over a school for the McLaughlins' daughter, Barbara, 13 years old.

Maj. McLaughlin wishes to send her to a school in the east, his attorney, Frederic Burnham, told Judge Martin M. Gridley. Mrs. McLaughlin, who is suing for divorce, is opposed to that particudar school, according to her attorney, Robert E. Cantwell Jr.

Judge Gridley continued the case until Sept. 21. If the parents can't agree, he said, Mrs. McLaughlin will have to come back from her Hollywood movie work to help settle the dispute.

MAYOR IS BOY AGAIN; REVISITS HIS OLD HOMES

Mayor Kelly last night shed the cares of his office and returned to the scenes of his childhood as a neighbor. To the old men and women who knew him as a boy in the Bridgeport area he was plain Ed Kelly. The occasion was Old Timers night, a community celebration at 30th and Halsted streets, sponsored by the mayor's New Century committee.

Greeting the old time residents, Mayor Kelly recalled his boyhood homes at 38th street and California avenue and at 36th street and Albany avenue. The neighborhood boasts of raising more prominent politicians and clergymen than any other in the city.

Mrs. Anna Gahagan, 79 years old, now of 7200 South Western avenue, talked with the mayor of wakes and illnesses and fires. She and his mother were members of the same Catholic lodge for 32 years. And Mrs. Gahagan said she stumped for Ed Kelly when he first ran for office. Another old timer was John J. McKenna, of the Archer avenue McKennas, who said he had witnessed every exciting event in Chicago since 1857.

NATIONS FACING WAR STILL OWE U. S. 13 BILLIONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—With reports that another European war is dangerously near, the treasury department today disclosed that America is still owed more than 13 billion dollars from the world war, which ended nearly twenty years ago.

This nation's public debt is now more than 38 billion dollars. Payment of the foreign debts would erase the deficits piled up by the government in the last four years.

With the fear that a spark momentarily may set off the European bombshell, any serious talk of settlement of the old debts is unlikely. Europe feels that it needs all its resources to finance armaments to meet the present crisis.

Capital Flees from Europe.

However, European capital is again seeking safety in America, just as it did in the early days of the world war. The department of commerce reported today that gold imports in the week ended Sept. 2 were the heaviest in nearly two years.

The total was $87,769,162, boosting the already all-time high in gold stocks of this country to the present figure of 13 billion, 200 million dollars. This is approximately 55 per cent of the world's known monetary gold reserves. The report shows that Great Britain sent the largest share, or $68,683,500, in the week ended Sept. 2.

Great Britain also owes the biggest war debt to the United States, France is next, and then Italy. Germany is held responsible for the Austrian debt of more than 26 million dollars.

Eighteen Nations Owe U. S.

Twenty nations borrowed $10,350,479,075 from the United States during and immediately after the world war. Only two nations have entirely liquidated their debt. They were Cuba, which paid 10 millions and interest in 1923, and Liberia, which paid $26,000 and interest in 1927.

The indebtedness to the United States, including principal and interest, now stands as follows:

Funded Debts.

Belgium	$ 444,835,943
Czechoslovakia	165,696,936
Estonia	20,443,880
Finland	8,335,440
France	4,141,020,821
Germany [Austrian]	26,005,480
Great Britain	5,341,707,369
Greece	33,923,384
Hungary	2,340,511
Italy	2,021,340,404
Latvia	8,423,708
Lithuania	7,540,167
Poland	255,838,294
Rumania	63,982,114
Jugo-Slavia	61,702,031
Total	$12,603,136,490

Unfunded Debts.

Armenia	$ 23,205,108
Russia	380,668,783
Total	$ 403,873,892
Grand total	$13,007,010,382

Nicaragua to Settle Debt.

In addition, the United States holds unfunded debts of Nicaragua amounting to $289,989 in principal, which with interest are to be canceled in accordance with an agreement between the United States and Nicaragua, ratified by the senate last June 13.

The only nations to make any payment on June 15 of this year were Finland and Hungary. Finland, which has never defaulted, made a semi-annual payment of $161,935. Hungary paid $9,828 in accordance with a three year plan under which it plans to pay 1 per cent of its debt each year.

The Hungarian government has also proposed that it be granted settlement through payment of principal and no interest over a period of years. This is expected to come before congress at its next session.

Roosevelt May Urge Plan.

This plan may be urged by President Roosevelt as a model for debt settlement by other nations. This depends, of course, upon public reaction to the Hungarian plan.

The war debts originated through loans to foreign countries authorized by congress in the Liberty bond acts.

The treasury adopted the policy of making cash advances only for the purpose of meeting payments due in the United States. Although part of the proceeds of certain loans was used for payment of maturing short-term foreign obligations outstanding in the hands of the American public, the great bulk of the loans was spent in this country for purchases of munitions, agricultural goods and other supplies.

Pre-armistice loans were extended to seven countries in the amount of $7,077,114,750. The post-armistice loans were extended to some of the original borrowers and thirteen other countries.

Loans Made After Armistice.

The post-armistice loans consisted of $2,533,288,826 in further cash advances and of $740,075,499 on account of indebtedness incurred for purchases of war and relief supplies on credit. In reality, therefore, the money loaned did not leave this country, but the goods bought by the borrowed funds did. Most of the loans bore 5 per cent interest.

The combined loans to Great Britain, France, and Italy accounted for almost 95 per cent of the pre-armistice indebtedness and approximately 80 per cent of the post-armistice debt. Agreements were made with fifteen countries from 1923 to 1930 for funding their debts.

The demand obligations were transformed into long-term obligations, with maturity not extending beyond June 15, 1947. In general, the funded obligations were not to bear less than 4¼ per cent interest. Eleven of the nations defaulted completely after 1933.

Rails Rule Pay Cut Becomes Effective Oct. 1

Railroads yesterday moved to put into effect the 15 per cent cut in wages originally ordered last May. Notice was given by the roads that the new scale will become effective at one minute after midnight Oct. 1, the earliest possible date permitted under the railway labor act.

The step taken by the carriers is tactical. Effectiveness of the order will be stayed if, as expected, President Roosevelt appoints a fact finding commission to investigate the wage dispute.

The railway labor act provides that the President may appoint such a commission when an emergency is declared by the national mediation board. The board concluded its unsuccessful efforts to settle the wage question Aug. 31 and the railroad unions are now conducting a strike vote among their members. Technically, an emergency situation will not exist until a strike is called by the unions.

Calls for 30 Day Delay.

The law provides that no change in the existing wage status can be made until thirty days after mediation efforts fail. The mediation proceedings ended Aug. 31, so the railroads are keeping within the law by one minute by setting the date at 12:01 a. m., Oct. 1.

Notice of the step was given in a statement issued here by the carriers' joint conference committee which has represented the railroads since the beginning of the wage negotiations.

Spokesmen for the committee said that the strike vote being taken by the unions leaves no room open for possible settlement of the wage dispute. It was further pointed out that the strike ballot on which the employés are voting leaves no discretionary power to union officials to compromise the dispute, limiting their authority in calling a strike to "defending and maintaining present wages."

Only One Method Remains.

"The refusal of the employés to agree to a wage reduction in negotiation or in mediation proceedings, and their rejection of arbitration," the committee said, "leaves the railroads with but one method of reducing wages under the law—to make the wage reduction effective.

"Although the carriers' joint conference committee agreed to arbitration, the representatives of the employés rejected the offer of arbitration extended to them by the national mediation board. Their refusal to agree to arbitration means that, unless and until some further development arises, the wage reduction specified in the notices of May 12 will become effective thirty days after the formal termination of mediation on Aug. 31, or 12:01 a. m., Oct. 1, 1938."

COAL COST DATA IS KEPT SECRET FOR COURT RULE

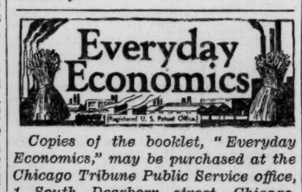
Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—(AP)—A group of twenty-two soft coal companies won an agreement from the bituminous coal commission today to withhold publication of producers' individual cost data at least until Sept. 15.

The delay was agreed upon to give the companies an opportunity to appeal from Federal District Judge Joseph W. Cox's decision yesterday denying them an injunction restraining the commission from making the cost data public. The producers are asking the Court of Appeals here to overrule Cox.

The commission previously had announced it would open for inspection at Denver, Colo., tomorrow the cost data of western coal operators and those of eastern producers on Sept. 20.

I.C.C. Sets Hearing on Plea for Higher Express Rates

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission set for final hearing on Sept. 29 today an application by Railway Express for permission to revise its rate structure to increase revenues $10,000,000 annually.



Copies of the booklet, "Everyday Economics," may be purchased at the Chicago Tribune Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street, Chicago. The price is 25 cents per copy—30 cents if sent by mail. This eighty-four page booklet contains simple explanations of financial and business terms and is a convenient guide to a fuller understanding of current economic and business news.

Business Cycles—V.

The lack of equilibrium in the process of producing and consuming goods causes the business cycle, according to some economists. The theories and names of the persons who originally suggested them are given by Mitchell as follows:

1. Waves of general over-production result from "the well-nigh universal fact of industrial competition." [Sir William H. Beveridge.]

2. The uncertainty involved in all business planning leads to alternate over-production and under-production of goods. [Charles O. Hardy.]

3. Good trade leads to rapid increase in industrial equipment and later in output, and finally to a decline in the marginal demand prices for consumers' goods. A depression follows in which the growth of industrial equipment and output is checked. The marginal demand prices for consumers' goods finally rise again, and a new period of activity begins. [Albert Aftalion, Mentor Bouniatian.]

Am. Telephone July Earnings Much Reduced

Lower earnings, compared with 1937 results, were reported yesterday by the American Telephone and Telegraph company for July and the first seven months of this year. L. C. Smith & Corona Typewriters, Inc., showed a net profit for the fiscal year ended June 30 equal to less than half the profit for the preceding year.

American Telephone had net operating income in July of $715,147, compared with $1,259,799 in July, 1937, and $775,511 in June of this year. The figures cover operating activities of the parent company only, and were before deductions for interest charges and before consideration of nonoperating income.

Gross revenues in July amounted to $8,123,666 against $8,512,283 in July of last year. In June, 1938, the company had gross revenues of $8,339,447.

Big Drop in 7 Months.

July results brought net operating income for the first seven months to $5,672,306, compared with $11,896,186 in the first seven months of 1937. This decline was proportionately much larger than the drop in gross revenues, which fell to $59,225,675, from $62,913,734 in the seven months of 1937.

Net profit of L. C. Smith and Corona Typewriters for the fiscal year slipped to $473,211, or $1.43 a common share. In the preceding fiscal year, the company had a profit of $1,096,297, or $3.90 a share.

The 208 South La Salle street corporation, which operates the building at that address, reported net profit of $79,657 for the first six months of this year. In the 1937 first half, the profit amounted to $84,809.

CHIEF FOREIGN MONEYS LOWER; GOLD DECLINES

European currencies developed renewed weakness yesterday in foreign exchange dealings. The British pound sank to $4.82, a new low quotation for the currency for recent years. The French franc fell 0.00375 cent to 2.70375 cents. Other currencies showed corresponding losses.

Gold in the London market was easier despite the decline in most currencies in relation to the dollar. Brokers posted a price of 144 shillings 1 pence an ounce, or ½ penny [about 1 cent] below the preceding day. The London price was equivalent to $34.77.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York reported engagements of $6,200,000 gold in England and $400,000 in Holland for shipment to the United States.

2 CLOSED BANKS REPAY $60,510 TO 2,200 DEPOSITORS

Two closed Cook county banks have repaid $60,510 to about 2,200 depositors, Edward J. Barrett, state auditor, announced yesterday.

The Homewood State bank, Homewood, Ill., sent checks representing a 15 per cent repayment, totaling $31,581, to approximately 1,200 depositors. This made total repayments of 30 per cent.

The Hegewisch State bank, Hegewisch, Ill., disbursed 10 per cent to approximately 1,000 depositors. The amount was $28,929, bringing the total repaid to 52½ per cent.

JUDGE LINDLEY WILL CONDUCT RETRIAL OF FEDERAL OIL CASES

Madison, Wis., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley of Danville, Ill., will preside in place of Judge Patrick T. Stone at the retrial of five major oil companies and twelve corporation officials on charges of gasoline price fixing.

Judge Walter C. Lindley.

Judge Stone said today he would be busy during the next four months on jury trials for the condemnation of land along the Mississippi river arising out of the construction of government dams.

The new oil trial, granted by Judge Stone on July 19, was originally scheduled for Sept. 26, but has been adjourned. Judge Lindley will come to Madison on Oct. 14 for a conference with government and company attorneys on a definite date.

Judge Stone has pending a government appeal from portions of his July 19 ruling. Of the sixteen companies and thirty individuals convicted by a jury, he sustained the verdict against only five executives and one corporation. Those not granted new trials were dismissed.

PLYMOUTH CUTS PRICES ON 1939 AUTO MODELS

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—Reduced prices for 1939 Plymouth automobiles were announced today. This upset predictions that new engineering developments, increases in car size, and extensive alterations in the appearance of 1939 cars might mean an upward trend in prices.

The prices showed reductions as large as $15 on some body styles. The prices: Plymouth Road King—Coupe, $645; two door sedan, $685; two door touring sedan [with trunk], $699; four door sedan, $726; four door touring sedan, $740. Plymouth De Luxe—Coupe, $725; coupe with rumble seat, $755; two door sedan, $761; two door touring, $775; four door sedan, $791; four door touring, $805.

EGG FUTURES RISE TO NEW HIGHS FOR 1938

Egg futures prices on the Chicago Mercantile exchange advanced yesterday to new 1938 high marks for the second consecutive day and the third time this week. Octobers gained ⅛ cent a dozen to close at 25⅝ cents, and November contracts rose ⅛ cents to 25⅞ cents.

November butter contracts were unchanged at 24¼ cents a pound. The federally financed Dairy Products Marketing association bought more than a million pounds to bring total holdings to about 85,000,000.

PREDICT OUTPUT OF 145,000 CARS FOR SEPTEMBER

American and Canadian automobile factories will turn out 145,000 cars and trucks this month, Ward's Automotive Reports estimated yesterday. Production in September, 1937, totaled 175,630 units.

Output this week slumped to 17,485 units from 22,165 last week as a result of the suspension of operations on Labor day, the agency reported. Production totaled 59,017 in the comparable week last year.

August factory sales of automobiles in the United States were estimated at 91,300 cars by the Automobile Manufacturers' association.

Stinson Company Is Made Division of Aviation Mfg.

W. H. Beal, president of the Aviation Manufacturing corporation, yesterday announced that Stinson Aircraft corporation, a subsidiary, had been dissolved and made a division of the parent company. Aviation Manufacturing corporation owned more than 99 per cent of the stock of Stinson. Building of airplanes will be continued at Wayne, Mich.

Wheat Rises as Tension in Europe Grows

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

Closing prices on the December delivery of principal grains on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday:

	Yesterday.	Thursday.	Yr. ago.
Wheat	$ .63½	$ .61⅝	$1.07¼
Corn	.50½	.48¾	.63
Oats	.25½	.24¾	.30⅝
Rye	.42	.40¾	.79
Soy Beans	.76¼	.75⅝	.95⅜

The strained European political situation dominated the action of world wheat markets yesterday. Paced by the Liverpool market, prices on North American exchanges advanced sharply. Short sellers of futures and export interests competed for the light offerings.

Closing trades on wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade were at net gains of 1⅝ to 1¾ cents. Winnipeg gained 2½ to 2⅝ cents. Liverpool was 1⅝ to 1¾ cents a bushel higher. It was the first time in the last ten days that the English market showed a tendency to rally decisively.

Corn Rises for Third Day.

Corn futures closed with net gains of 1¼ to 1½ cents a bushel, having been on the upgrade for three consecutive days. Oats gained ¼ to ⅝ cent; rye, 1¼ to 1½ cents, and soy bean futures, ½ to ⅝ cent a bushel.

Reports of aggressive buying of wheat futures by exporters in Winnipeg attracted considerable attention from American traders. Late in the session it was disclosed that about 1,000,000 bushels of Canadian cash grain had been sold for shipment to English mills. This was the second time during the last week that foreign buyers have shown a tendency to anticipate future demands.

No Flour Sold for Export.

No export business was reported in American wheat or flour, although a subsidy of 50 cents a barrel on the latter had been authorized by the AAA late Thursday.

Part of yesterday's short covering in wheat was attributed to evening up of market positions by professional traders. Such operations were in anticipation of the American and Canadian government crop estimates, which were to be issued late in the afternoon.

I.C.C. Orders Probe of Rail, Stockyard Relationship

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission ordered today an investigation of the relationship between stockyard companies and railroads. The investigation, the commission said, also will determine whether the major stockyard companies are common carriers by railroad and as such subject to provisions of the interstate commerce act.

WEATHER, BUGS TAKE TOLL OF NATION'S CORN

Crop Is Reduced in Federal Report.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Dry weather, hot winds, and grasshoppers took a 112,000,000 bushel toll from the nation's corn crop during August, the agriculture department reported today. The reduction virtually eliminated prospects of burdensome supplies of corn.

The department's crop reporting board forecast that the feed grain production would total 2,454,526,000 bushels. On Aug. 1 the forecast was 2,566,221,000 bushels and the 1927-'36 ten year average was 2,306,157,000.

Today's forecast falls about 16,000,000 bushels below Secretary Wallace's estimate of domestic and export requirements during the coming marketing season. However, an estimated surplus of 320,000,000 bushels from previous years is expected to provide sufficient supplies and additional reserve for the "ever normal granary" farm program.

May Abandon Referendum.

A month ago, prospects of a bumper crop caused the department to make tentative arrangements for a referendum on marketing quotas. This, if approved by two-thirds of the corn belt farmers voting, would have required growers to store their surpluses.

Should the board's November estimate be in line with the one made today, or below estimated domestic and export needs of 2,470,000,000 bushels, a government corn loan would not be mandatory unless farm prices averaged less than about 63 cents a bushel. Prices are considerably below that figure now, however.

The new farm law requires the government to provide the loans when the crop is larger than the estimated needs, or when the farm price on Nov. 15 is below 75 per cent of "parity," the price goal set up in the legislation.

Three States Hard Hit.

The board said a large part of the August corn damage occurred in South Dakota, Nebraska, and Kansas. The decline was 90,000,000 bushels in Nebraska alone. The crop losses would have been heavier, the board said, had the region east of these states not shown substantial improvement.

The wheat crop was estimated at 939,972,000 bushels, a decline of about 16,000,000 bushels since Aug. 1. A total of 873,993,000 was produced last year and the 1927-'36 10 year average was 752,891,000.

The wheat crop was divided as follows among various types: winter, 688,458,000 bushels; durum, 42,011,000; other spring wheat, 209,503,000 bushels.

The board reported that crop prospects as a whole declined during August, because of hot weather, lack of moisture, and grasshoppers in the northwestern plains area.

Other Grains Yield Less.

It estimated other losses at 17,000,000 bushels of grain sorghums, 16,080,000 bushels of spring wheat and smaller losses in oats, buckwheat, flaxseed, potatoes, tobacco, wild hay, sugar beets, and apples.

The board estimated production of soybeans in six leading commercial states this year would be 41,828,000 bushels, compared with 38,128,000 last year and a ten year average of 16,410,000.

Farm pasture conditions on Sept. 1 were 76 per cent of normal, the best on that date in ten years, the board said.

The board said the citrus fruit crop improved as the result of favorable weather conditions in August.

Canada Crop Estimated.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 9.—(AP)—Canada's 1938 wheat production was estimated at 358,433,000 bushels by the dominion bureau of statistics today. This compares with a crop of 182,410,000 bushels in 1937. Production in the three prairie provinces was estimated at 334,000,000 bushels, against 159,000,000 last year.

Armour & Co. on Profit Basis, Prince Reveals

Frederick H. Prince, chairman of the board of Armour & Co., said yesterday that the company's business in the last few months has been on a profitable basis. In the first six months of the fiscal year the company operated unprofitably because of inventory losses from price declines in live stock. The fiscal year ends Oct. 30.

Frederick H. Prince.

Profit Hinges on Prices.

Whether Armour will show a profit for the current fiscal year depends on whether live stock prices go up or down, Prince said. He indicated that if prices hold steady the company will earn a profit by a small margin.

"Business during the last few months," he said, "has been much nearer the basis we like than was the case in the first six months of the fiscal year. A substantial part of the early losses has been recouped. With autumn coming on conditions in the business are improving. Our sales volume and the number of regular customers among the retail dealers are increasing. Our inventories, while ample for current needs, are low compared with average years, and we have kept them priced consistently at the market.

Plan More Economies.

"We have been able to effect a number of economies and we contemplate more. All in all, we are in an advantageous position.

"We hope for and expect an increase in live stock supplies beginning reasonably early in the autumn. A larger volume of goods being put through the packing plants and through the sales outlets would substantially improve our operating results."

The outlook for next year, he said, is for better business than this year. Referring to general business, he said that he was optimistic and that "sooner or later" the nation's industries would find conditions favorable for expansion by obtaining new capital.

WORK TO BEGIN NEXT WEEK ON BIG APARTMENT

Work is scheduled to start next Monday on a $700,000 apartment building on the south side of Isabella street, just east of the Northwestern university athletic field. The project was announced last March. Dovenmuehle, Inc., was the successful bidder for the $450,000 mortgage. This twenty-six year 4½ per cent loan was sold to the Bankers Life company, Des Moines, Ia. It will be insured by the Federal Housing administration.

The project will be owned by the Isabella Park Building corporation, headed by Richard C. Johnston Jr. Burnham & Hammond are the architects. The Northwestern company of Evanston, of which Johnston is treasurer, will be the builder.

The building will have ninety-one apartments of 3½, 4, and 5 rooms. Completion is set for March 1, 1939.

$1,564,884 TAX CLAIM ON UNITED LIGHT IS UPHELD

Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—[Special.]—A 1928 income tax deficiency of $1,564,884 assessed against United Light and Power company by the internal revenue bureau, today was upheld by the board of tax appeals.

United Light and Power is a $372,822,000 holding company with subsidiaries in thirteen states, principally in the middle west.

The deficiency was assessed in connection with profit of $10,334,469 from exchanges of securities by United Light and Railways company, a subsidiary. Because all parties agreed on all figures in the transactions, the decision rested solely upon an interpretation of the law, according to the board.

HEAVY BUYING WAVE SWEEPS CHICAGO STORES

Volume Runs Above Year Ago Level.

A buying wave swept Chicago in the week ended Sept. 3, sales figures reported yesterday by the Chicago Federal Reserve bank indicated. Retail sales of the city's department stores in the week were 6.5 per cent larger than in the corresponding week of 1937, the survey revealed. This marked the first time in many months that sales of the stores rose above the level of a year ago.

The national sales survey, prepared by all twelve of the federal reserve banks, showed that the upturn was not confined to Chicago. As a whole, the nation's department store sales were only 3 per cent under those of the corresponding week last year. In the week ended Aug. 27 they were 14 per cent lower.

District's Sales Increase.

Department store sales of the 7th federal reserve district, which includes Chicago, were 1.6 per cent heavier than in the similar week last year. In the week ended Aug. 27 the district's turnover was 11.7 per cent below a year ago. The 9th [Minneapolis] federal reserve district, with sales 13 per cent above a year ago, made the best showing of all districts. Next in line was the 1st [Boston] district, where sales were 11 per cent above the similar 1937 week. Both areas had reported declines from a year ago in the week ended Aug. 27.

Five of the twelve federal reserve districts reported increases over the corresponding week last year. The remaining seven showed smaller declines than in the preceding week.

Causes of Increases.

Perfect shopping weather in a large part of the country, the reopening of schools with the consequent need for new clothes and other supplies, were believed to be among causes of the heavy buying. Merchants generally agreed that in the last four months of 1938 sales average should continue to equal or exceed that of a year earlier.

In line with the new upswing, Montgomery Ward & Co. yesterday announced that August sales were the largest for the month in the 66 years of the mail order firm's history. They amounted to $32,848,752, a gain of 10.7 per cent over those of August, 1937, which totaled $29,677,028. Sales in August of last year set the previous high mark for the month, officials said.

Montgomery Ward's sales last month were far better than those of August, 1929, prior to the stock market tumble which precipitated the depression, officers pointed out. In that year August sales totaled only $24,955,313.

First Gain Over 1937.

August was the first month thus far in 1938 to show an increase in sales over 1937 levels. Three other months of the year, however, exceeded August in total sales. The April turnover was $37,062,930, which was better than August by several million dollars, but off 7.56 per cent from April, last year. May sales totaled $36,149,558, a decline of 7.64 per cent from the like 1937 month. June sales wese $35,744,533, or 3.55 per cent lower than those in the corresponding month a year ago.

Sales in August surpassed those of July, which amounted to $29,075,336. Compared with the like month last year sales in July showed a decline of 4.48 per cent. For the seven months ended Aug. 31 the company had sales of $223,442,490, compared with a turnover of $233,504,800 in the corresponding 1937 period, a drop of 4.4 per cent.

Stocks, Bonds

New York Stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 9.—Increasing concern over the Czechoslovakian crisis today brought heavy selling that drove stock prices to their lowest levels in a week. Active issues dropped fractions to 2 points; sensitive issues as much as 4 points. Weakness of the European markets also was reflected in the selling, it was said. Industrial shares proved most vulnerable.

With the central European situation still regarded as ominous and the week-end approaching, the opinion was that few, other than the professional traders, provided the activity today.

Pivotal motors, steels, rubbers, and coppers were in heaviest supply. General Motors, Chrysler, United States Steel, Bethlehem, United States Rubber, Goodyear, Anaconda, Kennecott, and American Smelting ranged from 1 to 2 points lower. Auto accessory issues followed the motors lower.

Oils proved vulnerable to moderate selling. Texas corporation, Standard Oil, and Phillips Petroleum lost 1 point or more. Others slipped fractions. Some thin markets were uncovered in the chemical and heavy machinery groups. Westinghouse slumped 3½ and Case lost as much.

In the rails, both Santa Fe and Union Pacific declined 2 points. Great Northern gave up 1¼ points. Losses of around 1 point appeared against New York Central, Southern Pacific, Chesapeake and Ohio, and a few others.

Montgomery Ward pointed the way lower in the merchandising section, slumping 1⅞ points in steady supply. Sears Roebuck lost a similar amount. Aviation shares closed fractionally lower.

Public utility issues were neglected and dropped fractionally.

New York Bonds.

New York, Sept. 9.—(AP)—An increase in bond trading today was at the expense of prices in virtually all domestic groups. Momentum for the decline was supplied by rail and utility loans and United States government issues. The carriers' losses ran to as much as 6 points in the inactive group.

The disposition of traders to lighten accounts near the week-end was considered a manifestation of concern over the troubled situation in Europe.

Government loans recorded declines ranging from 1-32d to 8-32ds point under a small flow of offerings.

Many foreign dollar loans were under pressure. Losses of a point or more were registered by Czech 8s of '51, Prussia 6s, Copenhagen 4½s, and Belgium 5s. Italian issues, heavy losers yesterday, were steadier.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stocks lost fractions to 2 points yesterday. Trading broadened to include 98 issues, compared with 67 on the preceding day. Fifty-eight stocks declined, 16 advanced, and 58 were unchanged. THE TRIBUNE average of 20 stocks dipped 0.33 to 10.92.

Borg-Warner was a heavy loser, breaking 2 points. Bendix Aviation, Commonwealth Edison, Zenith Radio, and Houdaille Hershey B finished fractionally lower.

The exchange announced that Chrysler corporation's 4,484,375 shares of common stock will be admitted to trading today. Shields & Co. will be specialist and odd lot dealer in the stock. Co-specialists will be Virgil C. Webster and Harry M. Payne.

Bank Stocks.

Chicago bank stocks were quiet yesterday. Trading was light and most of the leading issues closed unchanged. First National bank shares dropped $1 to $220 bid, $224 asked. Stock of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company also finished $1 off at $67 bid, $69 asked.

FREIGHT TRAFIC CLIMBS TO NEW HIGH FOR YEAR

Loadings Last Week Total 648,039 Cars.

Railroad freight trafic reached another new high for this year last week. Railroads loaded a total of 648,039 cars of revenue freight in the week ended Sept. 3, the Association of American Railroads reported yesterday. This was the largest total since the week ended Nov. 13, 1937.

The total exceeded private estimates, which had placed the week's freight trafic in the neighborhood of 645,000 cars. Loadings were 27,528 cars, or 4.4 per cent higher than the previous peak for this year. That peak was established in the immediately preceding week, ended Aug. 27.

Miscellaneous Freight Climbs.

Best gains were shown in loadings of miscellaneous freight, which increased 13,069 cars, and in coal shipments, which rose 12,210 cars. Both these classifications, however, were far below the totals for the corresponding week a year ago.

Substantial gains over the preceding week were also made in loadings of less than carlot merchandise and pre. Grain shipments dipped rather sharply, but were above a year ago.

Trafic Below Year Ago.

Last week's total represented a drop of 153,500 cars, or 19.2 per cent, from loadings in the corresponding 1937 week. The drop from two years ago was 15.3 per cent. Loadings were 34.2 per cent lower than for the same week in 1930, which is generally considered a "normal" year for railroads.

COTTON

The European political situation plus increased hedging pressure from the south resulted in lower prices on American cotton exchanges yesterday. Buying was light. Closing trades on futures were at net losses of .11 to .16 cent ap nound. Easiness in Liverpool also affected American markets. Trading abroad was light.

Spot cotton closed .07 to .12 cent lower, with New Orleans 8.00 cents, New York 8.08 cents, Galveston 7.91 cents, and Houston 7.96 cents a pound. Prices follow:

National Pole.

Investors' Guide: Please give me information on the National Pole and Treating company 6 per cent notes of 1941.—F. R.

Answer: National Pole and Treating company, a subsidiary of the Minnesota and Ontario Paper company, has not covered fixed charges, including interest requirements, on its 6 per cent extended notes of 1941 since 1931. The company was unable to pay off the notes when they originally became due April 1, 1937, and arrangements were made for a four year extension.

The notes, a direct obligation of the company, are secured by the pledge of a $1,000,000 first mortgage note of this company and the pledge of various receivables and other assets. There are approximately $1,294,810 of the notes outstanding.

The company purchases, treats, and sells various forest products, principally cedar poles for electrical pole lines. It also sells and treats ties for railroad uses.
